WHAT'S DIFFERENT

While this expansion will utilize the core ruleset of 5th Edition, there are significant differences that will be illustrated here, broken down by Chapter.

CHAPTER 1: STEP BY STEP CHARACTER'S

Reskinned to fit the setting.

CHAPTER 2: CLANS

Races relabeled to Clans, all of which are brand new.

CHAPTER 3: AMBITIONS & BACKGROUNDS

For the most part, these are reskinned from 5E with some modifications to fit the setting and some omissions, but with one major difference; each background now offers an Ability score increase as a part of the background itself.

Additionally, backgrounds no longer have personality traits but are instead replaced with an Ambition system.

CHAPTER 4: CLASSES & CLASS MODIFICATIONS

There are nine classes. Taijutsu Specialist, Ninjutsu Specialist, Genjutsu Specialist and Scout-Nin are mostly reskinned, with some variation to fit the setting. Intelligence Operative utilizes a homebrew of Plans and Planning Die. Weapon Specialist is based off of Paladin, Hunter-Nin is based on Rogues and Medical-Nin is based off of Cleric.

All Classes have access to Jutsu, a redesigned version of Spellcasting. While all classes have access to these Jutsu, all classes are broken down into three tiers of how many Jutsu they have. Those three tiers are: High Jutsu, Medium Jutsu and Low Jutsu tiers. Depending on the Tier the class is placed into the class is given additional sub-Mechanics/Resources to make up for the lower Jutsu pool.

High Jutsu Tier: 0 Additional Resources/Mechanics

- Ninjutsu Specialist
- Medical-Nin

Medium Jutsu Tier: 1 Additional Resources/Mechanics

- Scout-Nin
- Intelligence Operative

Low Jutsu Tier: 2-3 Additional Resources/Mechanics

- Taijutsu Specialist
- Weapon Specialist
- Genjutsu Specialist
- Hunter-Nin

Classes also provide a new Resource called Chakra in the same way they provide Hit points. Chakra is used in almost all cases in regards to Jutsu and you regain Chakra during short or long rests in the same way you regain hit points. You gain Chakra Die as you level in the same way you gain hit die. When you level, you either roll your Chakra die + your constitution modifier to gain more chakra, or you take the average + your constitution modifier to gain more chakra.

CHAPTER 5: EQUIPMENT

Currency has been changed to Ryo, with roughly 1 gp = 1 Ryo.

Magic items are reskinned as Chakra enhanced items, with rarities designed to mimic those of the Naruto Universe. Equipment functions similarly, with the exception of the breakdown of weapons;

CHAPTER 6: USING ABILITY SCORES

Generally, the same, with the exception of skills; Arcana has been changed into Ninshou, with Illusion, Martial Arts, Crafting and Chakra Control being new skills.

CHAPTER 7: ADVENTURING/MISSIONS

Reskinned to fit the setting, but remains mostly the same with some slight changes.

CHAPTER 8: COMBAT

Mostly identical with some reskinning, new mechanics and slight changes to damage types.

CLASH MECHANIC

A new mechanic that is supposed to represent situations where two abilities or jutsu from opposing sides are used simultaneously against one another. Jutsu with the Clash Keyword that are used in the same turn (Or Round depending on the Jutsu/Ability) initiates a clash. When a clash is initiated the opposing users of either ability or jutsu must make opposing Checks using certain skills depending on the ability/jutsu used.

- Ninjutsu Clash: Ninjutsu or Chakra Control Ability check (the user's choice) vs an opposing Ninjutsu or Chakra control ability check.
- Taijutsu Clash: Taijutsu, Athletics, or Acrobatics ability check vs an opposing Taijutsu, Athletics or Acrobatics ability check.

Wind and Earth are new damage types, Thunder has been combined with force damage. Radiant Damage has been combined with Lightning Damage; Force & Necrotic Damages description is being reskinned to fit the setting.

ELEMENTAL ADVANTAGE

A new mechanic that is supposed to represent situations where a creature will use an ability or Ninjutsu that has one of 5 Nature affinities (Earth, Wind, Fire, Water, Lightning) against another ability or Ninjutsu that has a Superior or Inferior Nature affinity against it. With the 5 Nature Affinities each one is Strong or weak to another with some being neutral to one another. When this interaction happens the user of the Superior element makes their attack roll or Clash check at advantage, while the user of the inferior element rolls normally.

The following is the circle of Elemental Superiority; ('>' means the nature affinity to the left of this symbol is superior to the nature affinity on the right of it.)

Fire > Wind > Lightning > Earth > Water > Fire

CHAPTER 9: JUTSU CASTING

There are three major changes in this section:

1. Spells are now called Jutsu. (Cantrips are now called E-Rank Jutsu and have a minor cost associated with them.)
2. Jutsu are now Ranked instead of Leveled. Ranging from E-Rank up through S-Rank. Each rank Corresponds to Spell ranks in its design.
 - a. E-Rank: Cantrips
 - b. D-Rank: 1st-2nd Level Spells
 - c. C-Rank: 3rd-4th Level Spells
 - d. B-Rank: 5th-6th Level Spells
 - e. A-Rank: 7th-8th Level Spells
 - f. S-Rank: 9th Level Spells
3. Spellcasting has been separated into Ninjutsu, Taijutsu & Genjutsu Casting. Ninjutsu, Taijutsu, & Genjutsu use Chakra, which regenerates on a short rest using Chakra die or half of your maximum on a long rest.
 - a. Ninjutsu uses Intelligence and in rare cases constitution as its Casting stat.
 - b. Taijutsu uses Strength (or Dexterity depending on the class) as its casting stat.
 - c. Genjutsu uses Wisdom (or Charisma depending on the class) as its casting stat.

CHAPTER 10-12: NINJUTSU, TAIJUTSU, & GENJUTSU LIST

Chapter 10-12 is broken up into 3 different chapters to keep Ninjutsu, Taijutsu and Genjutsu separate.

CHAPTER 13: CUSTOMIZATION OPTIONS

Chapter 13 is designed to offer players the full list of feats, fighting styles, and other customization options your game can benefit from.

CHAPTER 14: ALLIES & ADVERSARIES

This chapter is more use to the GM than the players, in that it offers premade ordinary and heroic characters, as well as statistics for the characters proper to the Naruto series, including popular names such as Naruto Uzumaki, Sakura Haruno, Kakashi Hatake, Sasuke Uchiha, and even Orochimaru.

BINGO BOOK (MONSTER MANUAL)

There is a Monster Manual in development. This should provide a variety of new enemy types, prolific and generic low- and high-level enemies created in this system.

KAGE GUIDE (DM GUIDE)

There is a DM's guide currently in development alongside the Monster manual. This book will provide a list of variable rules, ways to design campaigns, how to handle events such as the Chunin exam, a comprehensive list of Chakra enhanced Items, loot tables and how to handle Factions, Village Ranks Mission tables and much more.

CHAPTER 1: STEP BY STEP CHARACTER

Dour first step in playing an adventurer in the Dungeons and Dragons game is to imagine and create a character of your own. Your character is a combination of game statistics, roleplaying hooks, and your imagination. You choose a Clan (such as Hyūga or Uchiha) and a class (such as Taijutsu Specialist or scout-nin). You also invent the personality, appearance, and backstory of your character. Once completed, your character serves as your representative in the game, your avatar in the Naruto Universe.

Before you dive into step 1 below, think about the kind of shinobi you want to play. You might be a courageous swordsman, a skulking assassin, adept medical personnel, or a cruel Hunter-Nin. Or you might be more interested in an unconventional character, such as a Buff Medical-Nin who likes hand-to-hand combat, or a scrawny Swordsman who uses 2 Great swords. Do you like mixed Clan Characters? Try building a character who is a product of two opposing clans. Do you want your character to be the toughest shinobi at the table? Consider the Taijutsu Specialist class. If you don't know where else to begin, take a look at the illustrations in any Naruto Manga or picture to see what catches your interest.

Once you have a character in mind, follow these steps in order, making decisions that reflect the character you want. Your conception of your character might evolve with each choice you make. What's important is that you come to the table with a character you're excited to play.

Throughout this section, we use the term character sheet to mean whatever you use to track your character, whether it's a formal character sheet (like the one at the end of these rules), some form of digital record, or a piece of notebook paper. An official Naruto 5E character sheet is a fine place to start until you know what information you need and how you use it during the game.

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI

Each step of character creation includes an example of that step, with a player building the iconic character Naruto Uzumaki, as he is portrayed during the events of Naruto Season 1/Volume 1.

1. CHOOSE A CLAN

Every character belongs to a Clan, one of the many prominent and featured families of people, who make up the world of Naruto. The most common and numerous clans in the Naruto universe ironically is the non-clan, people with no distinct family background, attempting to make a name for themselves and potentially creating a clan for their future generations to flourish through. The Clan chapter provides more information about these Clans.

The clan you choose contributes to your character's identity in an important way, by establishing a general background and history to draw from as well as the natural talents gained from culture and ancestry. Your character's clan grants particular special traits, such as special traits (Ex. Sharingan, Byakugan), proficiency with certain weapons or tools, proficiency in one or more skills, or additional jutsu to take advantage of from your clans' repertoire of secret techniques.

For example, the special traits of a Hyūga make them exceptional Taijutsu Specialist, and Nara's tend to be powerful Intelligence operatives. Sometimes playing against type can be fun, too. Yamanaka Weapon Specialist and Uchiha Taijutsu Specialist, for example, can be unusual but memorable characters.

Your Clan also increases one or more of your ability scores, which you determine in step 3. Note these increases and remember to apply them later.

Record the traits granted by your clan on your character sheet. Be sure to note your starting your base speed as well.

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 1

Since Naruto is a Uzumaki, we record all of the special traits of an Uzumaki on our character sheet, including his speed of 30 feet, and his Skill Proficiencies.

2. CHOOSE A CLASS

Every shinobi is a member of a class. A class broadly describes a character's vocation, what special talents he or she possesses, and the tactics he or she is most likely to employ when exploring a city, fighting enemies, or engaging in a tense negotiation. The character classes are described in the Classes chapter.

Your character receives a number of benefits from your choice of class. Many of these benefits are class features - capabilities that set your character apart from members of other classes. You also gain a number of proficiencies: armor, weapons, skills, saving throws, and sometimes tools. Your proficiencies define many of the things your character can do particularly well, from using certain weapons to telling a convincing lie.

On your character sheet, record all the features that your class gives you at 1st level.

LEVEL

Typically, a character starts at 1st level and advances in level by adventuring and gaining mission points (XP). A 1st-level character is inexperienced in the shinobi world, although he or she might have done dangerous things before generally they are inexperienced to deal with the threats an experienced shinobi would be tasked to handle.

Starting off at 1st level marks your character's entry into the ninja life. If you're already familiar with the game, or if you are joining an existing D&D campaign, your GM might decide to have you begin at a higher level, on the assumption that your character has already survived a few harrowing missions.

QUICK BUILD

Each class description in chapter 4 includes a section offering suggestions to quickly build a character of that class, including how to assign your highest ability scores, a background suited to the class.

Record your level on your character sheet. If you're starting at a higher level, record the additional elements your class gives you for your level's past 1st. Also record your experience points. A 1st-level character has 0 XP. A higher-level character typically begins with the minimum amount of XP required to reach that level (see “Beyond 1st Level” later in this section).

HIT/CHAKRA POINTS & HIT/CHAKRA DICE

Your character’s hit points define how tough your character is in combat and other dangerous situations. Your hit points are determined by your Hit Dice (short for Hit Point Dice). Your character’s chakra points define how much stamina your character has and how many jutsu and other special abilities they can pull off before they run out of steam in and out of combat. Your chakra points are determined by your Chakra Dice (short for Chakra point Dice).

At 1st level, your character has 1 Hit Die & Chakra Die and the die type for each is determined by your class. You start with hit points and chakra points equal to the highest roll of those respective die, as indicated in your class description. (You also add your Constitution modifier, which you’ll determine in step 3.) This is also your hit or chakra point maximum.

Record your character’s hit & chakra points on your character sheet. Also record the type of Hit Die & Chakra Die your character uses and the number of both Dice you have. After you rest, you can spend your hit die to regain hit points and your chakra die to regain chakra points. (see “Resting” in the Adventuring section).

PROFICIENCY BONUS

The table that appears in your class description shows your proficiency bonus, which is +3 for a 1st-level character. Your proficiency bonus applies to many of the numbers you’ll be recording on your character sheet:

- Attack rolls using weapons you’re proficient with
- Attack rolls with jutsu you cast
- Ability checks using skills you’re proficient in
- Ability checks using tools you’re proficient with
- Saving throws you’re proficient in
- Saving throw DCs for jutsu you cast (explained in each class)

Your class determines your weapon proficiencies, your saving throw proficiencies, and some of your skill and tool proficiencies. (Skills are described in “Using Ability Scores”, tools in “Equipment.”) Your Clan gives you additional skill and tool proficiencies. Be sure to note all of these proficiencies, as well as your proficiency bonus, on your character sheet.

Your proficiency bonus can’t be added to a single die roll or other number more than once. Occasionally, your proficiency bonus might be modified (doubled or halved, for example) before you apply it. If a circumstance suggests that your proficiency bonus applies more than once to the same roll or that it should be multiplied more than once, you nevertheless add it only once, multiply it only once, and halve it only once.

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 2

Naruto Uzumaki is best depicted as a Scout-Nin due to him not specializing early on in his career, so we make a note of the Scout-Nin’s proficiencies and 1st-level class features on the character sheet.

As a 1st-level Scout-Nin, Naruto has 1 Hit Die, a d8 & 1 Chakra Die, a d10. He starts with hit points equal to 8 + his Constitution modifier & chakra points equal to 10 + his constitution modifier. Make a note of this; we will record the final number after we determine Naruto’s Constitution score (see step 3). Also make a note of the proficiency bonus for a 1st-level character, which is +3.

3. DETERMINE ABILITY SCORES

Much of what your character does in the game depends on his or her six abilities: Strength, Dexterity, Constitution, Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma. Each ability has a score, which is a number you record on your character sheet.

The six abilities and their use in the game are described in the Using Ability Scores chapter. The Ability Score Summary table provides a quick reference for what qualities are measured by each ability, what clan increases which abilities, and what classes consider each ability particularly important.

To generate your character's six ability scores, you would use the following set of scores; 15, 14, 13, 12, 10, 8. This is called the Standard Array. Using this set of scores allows you to generate a character who can specialize in something while also presenting flaws that they can grow from. This presents a well-rounded character with both strengths and weaknesses.

If you prefer a more randomized approach you can instead Roll four 6-sided dice and record the total of the highest three dice on a piece of scratch paper. Do these five more times, so that you have six numbers.

Now take your six numbers and write each number beside one of your character's six abilities to assign scores to Strength, Dexterity, Constitution, Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma. Afterward, make any changes to your ability scores as a result of your clan choice.

ROLLING FOR STATS

While everyone has their own way of assigning ability scores. As the writer of this book, I will be the first to tell you that this book is written with Standard Array and 27 Point Buy in mind (detailed below). Rolling creates either extremely powerful or extremely weak characters, and creates an extreme power divide in a play group. Decide your preferred method with this in mind.

After assigning your ability scores, determine your ability modifiers using the Ability Scores and Modifiers table. To determine an ability modifier without consulting the table, subtract 10 from the ability score and then divide the result by 2 (round down). Write the modifier next to each of your scores.

VARIANT: CUSTOMIZING ABILITY SCORES

At your Game Master's permission, you can use this variant for determining your ability scores. The method described here allows you to build a character with a set of ability scores you choose individually.

You have 27 points to spend on your ability scores. The cost of each score is shown on the Ability Score Point Cost table. For example, a score of 14 costs 7 points. Using this method, 15 is the highest ability score you can end up with, before applying clan & background ability increases. You can't have a score lower than 8. This method of determining ability scores enables you to create a set of three high numbers and three low ones

ABILITY SCORE POINT COST

Score	Cost	Score	Cost
9	1	13	5
10	2	14	7
11	3	15	9

4-5	-3	20-21	+5
6-7	-2	22-23	+6

12-13	+1	28-29	+9
14-15	+2	30	10

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 3

We will use the standard array of scores (15, 14, 13, 12, 10, 8) for Naruto's abilities. Naruto is tough and has a deep well of chakra he can pull from at any given moment, so we'll put his highest score, 15, in Constitution. His next-highest, 14, goes in Strength. He then applies the 13 to Charisma, the 12 to Intelligence, the 10 to Dexterity and the 8 to Wisdom.

After applying his Clan benefits (increasing Naruto's Constitution by 2, and Charisma by 1, Remember he is a talker and leaves an impression on you), Naruto's ability scores and modifiers look like this:

Strength 14 (+2),
Dexterity 10 (+0),
Constitution 17 (+3),
Intelligence 12 (+1),
Wisdom 8 (-1),
Charisma 14 (+2).

We then fill in Naruto's final hit points: 8 + his Constitution modifier of +3, for a total of 11 hit points.

We finally fill in Naruto's final chakra points: 10 + his Constitution modifier of +3, for a total of 13 chakra points.

(15, 15, 15, 8, 8, 8), a set of numbers that are above average and nearly equal (13, 13, 13, 12, 12, 12), or any set of numbers between those extremes.

4. DESCRIBE YOUR CHARACTER

Once you know the basic game aspects of your character, it's time to flesh him or her out as a person. Your character needs a name. Spend a few minutes thinking about what he or she looks like and how he or she behaves in general terms.

Using the information in chapter 3, you can flesh out your characters physical appearance and personality traits. Choose your characters Ambitions, their Goals and fears.

Your character's background describes where he or she came from and the type of life they lived before becoming a shinobi, and the character's place in the Naruto world. Similar to normal D&D, selecting a background does provide mechanical benefits such as skill proficiencies and an Ability score increase to the character you are creating. It also does provide a base for how they approach situations and might act when confronted with unique challenges in the game.

YOUR CHARACTERS ABILITIES

Take your character's ability scores and Clan into account as you flesh out his or her appearance and personality. A very strong character with low Intelligence might think and behave very differently from a very smart character with low Strength.

For example, high Strength usually corresponds with a burly or athletic body, while a character with low Strength might be scrawny or plump.

A character with high Dexterity is probably light and slim, while a character with low Dexterity might be either gangly and awkward or heavy and thick-fingered.

A character with high Constitution usually looks healthy, with bright eyes and abundant energy. A character with low Constitution might be sickly or frail.

A character with high Intelligence might be highly inquisitive and studious, while a character with low Intelligence might speak simply or easily forget details.

A character with high Wisdom has good judgment, empathy, and a general awareness of what's going on. A character with low Wisdom might be absent-minded, foolhardy, or oblivious.

A character with high Charisma exudes confidence, which is usually mixed with a graceful or intimidating presence. A character with a low Charisma might come across as abrasive, inarticulate, or timid.

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 4

We then fill in some of Naruto's basic details: his name, his sex (male), his height and weight.

-His high Constitution represent his capability and massive chakra reserve and potential.

-His high Strength represent an exceptional physical aptitude to represent his constant hard work outside of the academy.

-His high Charisma represent an infectious personality that leaves an impression on you from the way he speaks of his passions and goals, no matter how farfetched, you just want to believe in this kid.

Naruto is an Uzumaki, although he doesn't truly know what that means or entails this early in his story, he does facilitate their qualities of exceptional Stamina and chakra. So, we chose the Uzumaki Clan. Make a note of the proficiencies and special feature this Clan gives. Because one of the Clan features it provides him is an increase to his chakra point maximum at level 1, increasing it from 13 to 15 by adding an additional +2.

We know that Naruto is both ignorant and rash, and has a propensity to proclaim he never gives up or goes back on his word, but he is also a notorious troublemaker that pulled pranks of the highest order. So, we will choose the Trouble Maker background. Make a note of the proficiencies and the special feature this background gives.

For the backgrounds ASI: Secluded, we are going to choose the +1 to Charisma, bringing his Charisma to a total of 15, which does not change his modifier.

So, for his Ambitions we know he wants to become Hokage. Naruto's Drive is that he wants the village to acknowledge him and not see him as a burden. His Goals are always changing, but starting out he only wants to graduate the academy to become a ninja, allowing him to take one step closer to his Ambitions. And His biggest fear ends up being the fear of failing, and never being acknowledged by anyone.

5. CHOOSE EQUIPMENT

Your class determines your character's starting equipment, including weapons, armor, and other shinobi gear. Record this equipment on your character sheet. All such items are detailed in the Equipment section.

ARMOR CLASS

Your Armor Class (AC) represents how well your character avoids being wounded in battle. Things that contribute to your AC include the armor you wear, your Dexterity modifier & how proficient you have become through experience. Not all character's wear armor however.

Your character's base AC equals 10 + his/her Dexterity modifier + half of his/her Proficiency Bonus (Rounded Down) + Armor Bonus. Record your AC on your character sheet.

Your character needs to be proficient with armor to wear and use them effectively, and your armor proficiencies are determined by your class. There are drawbacks to wearing armor if you lack the required proficiency, as explained in the Equipment section.

Some Jutsu and class features give you a different way to calculate your AC. If you have multiple features that give you different ways to calculate your AC, you choose which one to use.

WEAPONS

For each weapon your character wields, calculate the modifier you use when you attack with the weapon and the damage you deal when you hit. When you make an attack with a weapon, you roll a d20 and add your proficiency bonus (but only if you are proficient with the weapon) and the appropriate ability modifier.

- For attacks with melee weapons, use your Strength modifier for the attack and damage rolls. A weapon that has the finesse property, such as a Katana, can use your Dexterity modifier instead.
- For attacks with ranged weapons, use your Dexterity modifier for attack and damage rolls. A weapon that has the thrown property, such as Darts, can use your Strength modifier instead.

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 3

We now write down the starting equipment from the Scout-Nin class. His starting equipment includes padded armor, giving him an Increased AC of +1. He then adds his Dexterity Modifier (+0), then half his Proficiency rounded down (+1). His Class Fighting Style Iron Fist provides him an additional +1 to his AC making his Final AC a 13. (10+1+0+1+1)

For Naruto's weapons, we choose a Fuma-Shuriken and 1 Stack of Kunai. His Shuriken and Fuma-Shuriken are ranged weapons, so Naruto uses his Dexterity modifier for his ranged attacks and damage. His attack bonus is his Dexterity modifier (+0) plus his proficiency bonus (+3), for a total of +3. The Kunai deals 1d4 Piercing damage, and Naruto adds either his Dexterity or Strength modifier to the damage when he hits. For Kunai he will use Strength for a total of 1d4+2 slashing damage. The Fuma-shuriken deals 1d8 Slashing damage, but he only has one and must retrieve it when thrown and has a much longer range.

6. CHOOSE YOUR JUTSU

Your class determines how many jutsu your character knows at each given level. Most clans also provide you with an additional list of jutsu you can pull from just for being a part of the given clan.

JUTSU RANK

Every Jutsu has a Rank from E-Rank to S-Rank. A Jutsu's Rank is a general indicator of how powerful it is, with a lowly burst of speed at E-Rank and the powerful explosion at S-Rank.

E-Rank Jutsu are simple but effective techniques that characters can cast almost passively. They are lowest ranked and the simplest in design and function. The higher a Jutsu's Rank, the higher Level a Shinobi must be to use that Jutsu. Jutsu Rank and character level don't correspond directly. Typically, a character has to be at least 17th level, not 6th level, to cast a S-Ranked Jutsu.

JUTSU KNOWN

Before a shinobi can use a jutsu, he or she must have the jutsu learned, or must have access to the jutsu in a chakra item. Once a jutsu is learned, it is always

BUILDING NARUTO UZUMAKI, STEP 6

We now write down the starting Jutsu that Naruto would have as he starts his journey as a Shinobi.

As a Scout-Nin Naruto starts out with 6 Known jutsu of D-Rank or Lower.

- Enhanced Skill (E-Rank): Naruto Usually puts everything he has into attempting to do something, this will allow him to show that effort.
- Chakra Movement (E-Rank): Naruto has moments where he has great bouts of speed, this allows him to cross the field quickly to save his allies or punch his enemies.
- Clone Technique (E-Rank): While at level 1 Naruto does not have his signature shadow clone jutsu, this is a great replacement for such a Technique. Use this until he gets Shadow Clone Technique
- Transform (E-Rank): Naruto uses this jutsu to create the Sexy jutsu, an iconic jutsu all to himself.
- Chakra Reserves (D-Rank): Naruto has a massive amount of Chakra he keeps stored up to from the Nine Tailed Fox, but since he doesn't have access to the Kyuubi this early in his career, we can use this jutsu to simulate the extra chakra he gets during tense moments.
- Exorcism (D-Rank): Naruto although not a super skilled Taijutsu fighter, he knows how to utilize it to great effect. This will give him some umph when fighting close range.
- Substitution Technique (D-Rank): Naruto Uses this quite freely in the early season/Volume to avoid taking any nasty damage prepared. The number of jutsu a shinobi can have at any given time depends on the character's level.

This is the final build for Naruto \(Level 1\). This Link also Includes Builds for Sasuke & Sakura at level 1.

When you learn a Jutsu, either E-Rank, D-Rank, or higher, you choose from the list of Jutsu provided in Chapters 9 through 11. You can learn Jutsu from any level up to your Highest Level jutsu known, including E-Rank Jutsu. The total number of jutsu you learn in this way can't exceed your Jutsu Known for your class at the level you are in the class.

If a Jutsu is granted to you by a class feature or a Feat that Jutsu does not count against your Jutsu known and you can't voluntarily unlearn it. If you already know that Jutsu, you may learn an additional Jutsu that is available to you.

Additionally, every time you learn a new Jutsu as a result of gaining a level, you can choose some or all of the Jutsu you know and replace them with another Jutsu of the same type (Ninjutsu, Genjutsu or Taijutsu), as long as that Jutsu is not of a higher level than your Highest Level Jutsu known.

CHAKRA POINTS

Regardless of how many Jutsu a shinobi knows, he or she can cast only a limited number of Jutsu before resting. Manipulating Chakra and channeling it through you, even as a simple jutsu is physically and mentally taxing, and higher ranked Jutsu are even more so. Thus, each shinobi class's description includes a Chakra die to show how much chakra that class generally gains per level compared to the next. For example, the 3rd-level Ninjutsu Specialist has 3d12 Chakra die, meaning on average someone of that class would have 21(7+7+7 the Average of a d12 Die 3 times for each level) chakra before considering their Constitution Modifier and any Clan or Class Features.

When a character casts a Jutsu, he or she expends a number of chakra points based on the cost of the jutsu to cast it. All Jutsu and some features as well have a cost, meaning more time and care has to be put into deciding what jutsu to use and when while in difficult situations and circumstances.

7. BRING IT ALL TOGETHER

Most Naruto characters don't work alone. Each character plays a role within a party, a group of shinobi working together for a common purpose. Teamwork and cooperation greatly improve your party's chances to survive the many perils in the lands of the Naruto World. Talk to your fellow players and your GM to decide whether your characters know one another, how they met, and what sorts of missions the group might undertake.

BEYOND 1ST LEVEL

As your character goes on missions and overcomes challenges, he or she gains experience, represented by mission points. A character who reaches a specified Experience point total advances in capability. This advancement is called gaining a level.

LEVEL 4, 8, 12, 16 & 19

At certain levels, your characters experience culminates into an Ability Score Improvement & a Feat of your choice that they qualify for. When you reach these levels in your selected Classes, you increase one ability score by 1 & then you select a feat that you qualify for from the "Customize" Chapter.

CLASS FEATURES, HIT DICE & CHAKRA DICE

When your character gains a level, his or her class or clan often grants additional features, as detailed in the class (or Clan) description. Some of these features allow you to increase your ability scores, either increasing two scores by 1 each or increasing one score by 2. You can't increase an ability score above 20. In addition, every character's proficiency bonus increases at certain levels.

Each time you gain a level, you gain 1 additional Hit & Chakra Die. Roll both of those Die, add your Constitution modifier to the rolls separately, and add the total to your hit point & Chakra point maximums respectively. Alternatively, you can use the fixed value shown in your class entry, which is the average result of the die roll (rounded up).

When your Constitution modifier increases by 1, your hit points maximum increases by 1 for each level you have attained. For example, if your 7th-level Weapon Specialist has a Constitution score of 17, when they reach 8th level, they increase their Constitution score from 17 to 18, thus increasing their Constitution modifier from +3 to +4. Their hit point maximum then increases by 8. (1 for each level)

XP AND PROFICIENCY BONUS PROGRESSION

The Character Advancement table summarizes the XP you need to advance in levels from level 1 through level 20, and the proficiency bonus for a character of that level. Consult the information in your character's class description to see what other improvements you gain at each level.

CHAPTER 2: CLANS

visit to any of the great villages in the world of Naruto- The village hidden in the Leaves, Konohagakure. The Leaf Village or Konoha for short. The village is hidden by Rain, Amegakure. The Hidden Rain village, or the Rain village, can overwhelm the senses.

Voices ring out calling for customers from shops lining the streets. The smells of cooking in dozens of different cuisines mingle with the odors of crowded streets, high quality perfumes and poorly maintained body odor mix together on the village's many streets. Buildings in myriad architectural styles display the diverse origins of their inhabitants.

And the people themselves-people of varying size, shape, and color, dressed in a dazzling spectrum of styles and hues-represent many different families, cultures and ideologies, from elegant and refined Hyūga, stalwart and dedicated Uchiha to simple and shapely Akimichi and thin but weird Aburame's, mingling among a variety of Konoha inhabitants.

Scattered among the members of these more common Clans are the less obvious: a laid-back Nara here, squeezing his way through the crowd and giving up halfway, to go and find another route because this one is too much of a bother, and a beautiful Yamanaka there, whipping her hair in the direction of her crush with mischief in her eyes. A group of Inuzuka's jog through the streets with their dogs as one of them leaps onto a nearby building with the pack following behind. Uzumaki holds large events for the betterment of the village through fundraisers trying to live up to the greatness Naruto once lived with when he was Hokage. And there, standing on top of the Hokage mountains, is a lone Sarutobi, determined to make a name for himself and continue the family legacy of greatness.

1. CHOOSING A CLAN

People who are of no Clan are called Non-Clan and are the most common people in the world of Naruto, but they live and work alongside all the other clans present in the different villages able to keep up and in some cases outpace members of those clans in different ways. Your character belongs to one of these clan groups.

Your choice of clan affects many different aspects of your character. It establishes fundamental qualities that exist throughout your character's shinobi career. When making this decision, keep in mind the kind of character you want to play. For example, an Inuzuka can be a good choice for a Perceptive Hunter-Nin, a Hyūga makes an agile and dangerous Taijutsu Specialist, and a Uchiha can be a Ninjutsu Specialist.

Your shinobi's clan not only affects your ability scores and traits but also provides the cues for building your character's story. Each clan's description in this chapter includes information to help you roleplay a character of that clan, including personality, physical appearance, features of society, and unique tendencies. These details are suggestions to help you think about your character; Characters can deviate widely from the norm for their clan. It's worthwhile to consider why your character is different, as a helpful way to think about your character's background and personality.

SPECIAL TRAITS

The description of each Clan includes special traits that are common to members of that clan. The following entries appear among the traits of most clans.

ABILITY SCORE INCREASE

Every Clan increases one or more of a character's ability score at character creation.

SPEED

SKILL PROFICIENCIES

Your Clan offers additional proficiencies based on the culture and way the clan works internally.

ADDITIONAL LANGUAGES

By virtue of being human, you automatically speak common, but there are many different ways to communicate and people and creatures to communicate with. Your clan may offer you additional languages that allows you to speak and understand other dialects other than common.

SPECIAL FEATURES

The description of each Clan also includes special features unique to that clan and that clan alone. You gain these features at 1st, 3rd, 7th, 11th, 15h & 18th Levels. These features provide you with additional ways to customize your shinobi creating a wholly unique character unlike others.

ABURAME CLAN

"She doesn't look like much, I can do this alone." came the mercenary's voice as he joked with his allies, while looking at the frail young girl whose face was mostly obscured by her oddly tall collar. "You look lost girl, you sure you're in the right place? Maybe we can help you out" he says in a crude tone. The lone girl points with a single hand outstretched "Your allies look like they could use your help more than me." she says in a monotone manner causing the mercenary to look back at his two allies who look drained and almost mummified from the way their skin sits on almost exposed bone. He shrieks out in confusion before he notices that insects of different shapes and sizes are slowly covering his body. He tries to run but falls before being covered in the swarm of insects not even able to yell out in retaliation. "People always underestimate the little ones, it's always the little ones you overestimate. Isn't that right slim?" The girl says while looking at a centipede on her finger.

The Long Road, Ch. 11 excerpt.

A Forest sectioned off exclusively for them in the leaf village, with homes built exclusively in the tree's and partially in the earth itself. The sounds of insects moving and the smells of moist earth and rotting trees. And the defining characteristic of insects living inside them, are the threads that tie all Aburame together.

CREEPY CRAWLY

The Aburame Clan is one of the four noble clans of the leaf village. At birth, members of this clan are offered to several special breeds of insects as a nest, residing just under their host's skin. These insects will then live-in symbiosis with their host from that point on. Because of this, its members are characterized by their use of insects as weapons through use of their Insect based Ninjutsu.

The clan members may also carry additional insects in jars or gourds with them on missions. The insects can leave and enter their host's body through various pores. They feed on chakra as a food source, making them quite deadly. The relationship between the shinobi and the insects is mutually beneficial. The host grants the insects shelter and allows them to feed off their chakra, their body becoming a living hive of tens of thousands of these insects, and in return the insects do the user's bidding, allowing the shinobi to perform ninjutsu techniques with the use of hand seals & chakra conversion. A major defining trait of the Aburame clan is that all of its known members' eyes are obscured usually by glasses, as well as they wear clothing that usually cover up most of their body.

AKIMICHI CLAN

"...Are you sure you've got this big guy?" The nervous kunoichi in blue asks her ally, a stocky but seemingly focused boy in a green jacket. "Are you still nervous, I GOT THIS!" he yells as he grows almost three times his original size and begins charging into a group of bandits as he leaps and allows his full body weight to come crashing down on top of them. His massive size also creates a large hole in the ground revealing the underground cave system he was looking for, from the beginning.

—Tatsunami Aburame
The Long Road, Ch. 6 excerpt.

A large restaurant newly opened on the edge of the village. The sign on the door says they open in 10 minutes, but the line is already wrapped around the building by people wearing similar clothing, and all sporting markings on their plump cheeks. The doors open and this place is full of hungry patrons, waiting to try this new meal. Able to taste the slightest difference in texture, salt and herbs. The defining characteristic of consuming all that lie before them and enjoying the spice of life are what tie all Akimichi together.

BIG APPETITE

The Akimichi Clan is one of the four noble clans of Konohagakure. Many of their clan's techniques revolve around the manipulation of their body weight and size through the use of Yang Release. Members of the clan possess great physical strength and are able to quickly convert calories into chakra, which they then use in their various secret techniques. Most of these techniques rapidly consume the user's chakra during use, and maintaining them during a prolonged battle can be tiring. For this reason, the Akimichi have high chakra levels and eat a lot in order to build up or replenish their chakra reserves. As a tribute, members of the clan wear the kanji for "food" on their clothing. If standard calories aren't enough for a battle, Akimichi can use the clan's three colored pills to convert excess fat into chakra, at the cost of one's health.

FUMA CLAN

"You aren't going to get away with this!" The injured kunoichi wearing red says aloud to the enemy standing before her. A thin but seemingly athletic man glares at her before responding. "And who exactly is gonna hold me accountable? They left you here to watch the safe, it's their fault for being dumb enough to~" he stops mid-sentence as a spinning Fuma-shuriken chops his ally in half. He drops into a defensive stance with eyes darting around the room. Unable to find where it could have come from there is only one entrance. A figure appears in the same entrances path. It reaches into a back pouch before launching multiple shuriken into the room so much so that it begins to tear into the thin man. "It's a shame. They sent you to rob it" the man wearing a chunin vest says while looking sternly at his student's adversary.

They assault him from the shadows throwing kunai and shuriken at him with relentless efficiency. He with his sword drawn begins to parry them all with ruthless focus. Each swing of his cuts, breaks, or deflects three or more weapons launched at him. He keeps up this defense before he realizes he can't keep it up much longer. He takes a deep breath, as the weapons begin to strike his body, bouncing off of his skin as he dashes into the darkness. The singing of blades cutting through the air ring out as the fighting slowly quiets down to nothing more than a whisper. Lyo comes staggering out of the brush with his hand up in victory, showing his client that he is a lot tougher than he looks.

THE VILLAGES STRONGEST

The Hyūga Clan is one of the four noble clans of Konoha as well as the strongest clan in the village. All members born into this clan possess the Byakugan, a bloodline trait that gives them extended fields of vision and the ability to see through solid objects and even the chakra circulatory system, amongst other things. Members of this clan also possess an innate ability which allows them to excel chakra from any of the tenketsu in their body. The Hyūga clan are descendants from the Ōtsutsuki clan, specifically from Hamura Ōtsutsuki's lineage. As a result, they are also distant cousins of the Uchiha, Senju, Uzumaki, and Kaguya clans. They are considered to be one of, if not currently, the most powerful clan in Konoha. Their fame and prowess stretch far and wide, leading others to both praise and covet their abilities.

The clan is separated into two parts: the main house and the branch house, a system that protects the secrets of the Byakugan from outsiders. The main house runs the family while the branch house protects it.

HYŪGA TRAITS

Ability Score Increase: +2 Wis, +1 Dex

Speed: Your base walking speed is 30 feet.

Skill Proficiencies: Perception, Insight

Dark Vision: Even without the power of a fully active Byakugan, you have Darkvision up to 30 Feet.

HYŪGA FEATURES

Hyūga Clan Jutsu: The Hyūga Have access to a separate list of Jutsu unique to their Clan. You can add these Jutsu to your jutsu list instead of selecting jutsu from the Normal jutsu list. You can only Add these Jutsu to your list as long as you are from the correct branch within the clan Unless it does not have any restrictive keywords.

Branch Family: At First Level, choose which Part of the Hyūga Family you reign from. This cannot be changed later on.

- Main House: The Head portion of the family considered the "Royal" part of the clan overall. This Portion of the clan Focuses on the Hyūga Clan's secret techniques. If you select this Branch of the Family you will have access to the Main House's Hyūga Clan Techniques. This is due to the fact, most main branch Hyuga's do not become Ninjas or shinobi in the classical sense instead becoming staff in the Villages Information Council.
- Side House: The Guardian/Protector portion of the Hyūga Clan. They are generally made to be like servants to the Main house while inside the Hyūga villa. While not given access to the entirety of the Hyūga Clan's Secret Techniques, they have formulated their own advanced versions of the general Gentle Fist and 8 Trigram Techniques.

Byakugan: One of the Hidden Leaf Village's 2 Great Dojutsu. The Byakugan is an eye of extreme refined focus. At 1st Level you can spend 5 Chakra to activate the Byakugan as a Bonus Action which remains active for up to 1 hour. Also, when speaking to a creature, you can make a wisdom (insight) check at advantage to see if they are lying. Increase the cost of activating the Byakugan by 2 Chakra.

- Combat Insight: You gain amazing combat senses while your Byakugan is active. While active, add half your Wisdom (Insight) Bonus to your Dexterity saving throws. You also add half your Wisdom (Insight) bonus to the first unarmed attack, using the Gentle Fist Stance, you make on each of your turns.

Gentle Fist Stance: The Gentle Fist is the Premiere fighting style for the Hyūga clan. Starting as young as 5 years old, both main and side branch clansmen are trained in this art of Taijutsu. Also, at 1st level you can roll a d6 for your unarmed damage. When you deal damage to a creature with an unarmed attack using this stance, you instead reduce the creature's chakra pool instead of their hit points. This becomes 2d6 at 7th level and a 3d6 at 11th level. If you attempt to reduce a creature chakra while they have 0 chakra, you instead deal an equal amount of damage to their Hit points. If you choose to deal damage to a creature's Hit Points while they have chakra in this stance, your damage die is a d6, and does not scale.

Beginning at 7th level if you strike a target while using this stance and attempt to reduce their chakra while the target has 0 chakra, you instead deal double the damage to the target's hit points. If the target is a construct or undead, you instead treat the target as if they have resistance to your unarmed attacks while in this stance.

KURU CLAN

“How is he able to react to everything we throw at him!?” the squad captain yelled at his team as they were failing miserably to deal with a single shinobi. The single shinobi stands in the center of the forest opening. Avoiding all attacks that are sent his way. He gracefully dodges each attack with a sly grin across his face. “Kill him! He can’t dodge us all if we attack at the same time.” The captain yells out. The lone shinobi opens his eyes revealing them to be darker than the darkest black. He smiles gracefully as they all leap towards him. He quickly weaves handseals before releasing a wave of black chakra that overtakes the assaulting shinobi. Many fall to the ground unable to move or ever breathe. The captain looks towards his fallen forces then to the lone shinobi. “Looks like you guys ran out of time.” The lone shinobi gloats before attacking the captain.

NARA CLAN

Shinbi looked across the battlefield where multiple bodies lay either lifeless or almost there. Fireballs and Walls of Stone pepper the battlefield as the attacks have not stopped. She closed her eyes for a moment to envision the world in her mind's eye. She saw the enemies begin to move towards the left flank to be stopped by her men trying to stave them off. This leads to more troops bursting through the defense set up in the center of the battlefield, her men would be powerless to stop it, she would be assaulted and the battle would be lost. She opens her eyes and begins to speak "The enemy knows we are wounded and weak, allow them to think that. They will be coming soon, it's a trap we will set for them, let them come, Set explosive Traps along the way. We are making a tactical retreat." Her men look confused but listen nonetheless. As they make their way out, the left flank is breached as they rush towards the retreating party, Shinbi makes a single hand seal as the explosives go off stopping them in their tracks and crippling their assault.

The Nara clan has a special relationship with the Akimichi and the Yamanaka clan. For several generations, members of these three families have formed "Ino-Shika-Chō" trios.

The enemies quickly try to seal the doors within the fortress but find it difficult as the angry boy weaves hand seals and exhales a gale of slicing wind that blows the layered doors apart. He continues further in, before he is confronted by the man he lost to prior. "You throw away the kindness I showed you before boy. I let you and your friends live, and did not take your life. But now you throw it all away for a single woman. You are a fool." He speaks. But Tye doesn't budge, as chakra begins to coat Tye's body with enough potency to be visible to the naked eye. If you had just surrendered from the beginning, they would all be alive" the rogue shinobi says while placing his weapon on his shoulder looking down on her. She sees all of their movements before they even make them and will get vengeance for her fallen allies. She feels her weakness being the sole reason for their defeat and she will rectify it, if it's the last thing she does.

The Long Road, Ch. 15 excerpt.

THE CURSE OF HATRED

The Uchiha clan is one of the four noble clans of Konohagakure, reputed to be one of the village's strongest because of their Sharingan and natural battle prowess. After helping found Konoha decades ago, the Uchiha grew increasingly isolated from the village's affairs, culminating in most of their deaths during the Uchiha Clan Downfall. After the 4th great ninja war, they began to find footing and regrow. There are quite a few Uchiha now in the present day, though not as many who are shinobi.

Make a Melee Ninjutsu attack against the target. On a hit the seal wraps itself around the target. An affected creature makes a Constitution saving throw, at disadvantage if they cannot mold chakra, as you attempt to permanently place barriers and seals around their chakra network, removing their ability to even conjure chakra.

On a failed save, the target creature's Chakra is reduced to 0, and they cannot regain, increase, or be given chakra by any means, for this jutsu's duration as you tightly bind and disconnect their chakra network with 15 distinct seals throughout their body.

On a successful save, they instead reduce their current chakra by $8d8 + \text{your Ninjutsu Ability Modifier}$, and no further effects.

A creature currently under the effects of this jutsu can, as an Action make a Ninshou Ability Check vs Your current Ninjutsu Save DC +10, to break one seal that you've placed on them.

The words come out cold, and unfeeling. Sharp and dry at the same time. The shinobi realizes the risk in dealing with a Member of the Yuki Clan, but they know that if they do nothing, it's already over. So, they draw their weapons and move in to confront this foe. Creatures inside the radius of your jutsu can move freely throughout the radius of it. A creature who wishes to leave the radius can make a Dexterity save attempting to squeeze through your mirror.

CHAPTER 3: AMBITIONS & BACKGROUND

Characters are defined by much more than their species and class. They're individuals with their own stories, interests, connections, and capabilities beyond those that class and species defined. This section expounds on the details that distinguish characters from one another, including the basics of name and physical description, the rules of backgrounds and languages, and the finer points of personality and alignment.

CHARACTER DETAILS

Your character's name and physical description might be the first things that the other players at the table learn about you. It's worth thinking about how these characteristics reflect the character you have in mind.

NAME

Your name will be the title you give yourself and the title everyone will call you throughout the campaign. Put some thought into your name even if you're just picking one from a list.

SEX

You can play a male or female character without gaining any special benefits or hindrances. Think about how your character does or does not conform to the broader culture's expectations of sex, gender, and sexual behavior. You don't need to be confined to binary notions of sex and gender. Some people believe in companionship that doesn't take into account gender. You could also play a female character who presents herself as a man or a man who feels trapped in a female body. Likewise, your character's sexual orientation is for you to decide.

HEIGHT AND WEIGHT

You can decide your character's height and weight, using the information provided in your species description. Think about what your character's ability scores might say about his or her height and weight. A weak but agile character might be thin. A strong and Durable character might be tall or heavy.

OTHER PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS

You choose your character's age and the color of his or her hair, eyes, and skin. To add a touch of distinctiveness, you might want to give your character an unusual or memorable physical characteristic, such as a scar, a limp, or a tattoo.

PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS

Fleshing out your character's personality—the array of traits, mannerisms, habits, beliefs, and flaws that give a person a unique identity—will help you bring him or her to life as you play the game. Four Questions will assist you in determining who your character is, and what it is, exactly, that they are trying to achieve.

Each background presented later in this chapter are designed to act as a starting point of thought for your shinobi's characteristics. Consider each background as your shinobi's origin, or humble beginnings before putting on their village's headband.

AMBITION

Give your shinobi an overarching Ambition. This ambition is their long-term goal they wish to achieve as a result of becoming a shinobi, or as a part of becoming a shinobi. Ambitions should be grand in scale. Becoming your village's Kage, getting vengeance on an extremely high-ranking enemy, becoming a legendary figure in the world, etc. Ambitions are what your shinobi should always be moving towards. They should make decisions towards accomplishing these lofty ambitions.

Ambitions should be clear enough to achieve, but not so articulate that there is only one way to achieve it, usually one or two sentences are needed for a character's given ambitions.

Ambitions might provide a unique look into your shinobi's personality. Allowing others to get a hint at what it is they want to do later on in life. It could be so unbelievable, that they laugh at you, or so relatable that they share the same ambitions as you, creating a friendly rivalry.

DRIVE

Describe what Drives your shinobi to want to achieve their goals, and want to realize their ambitions. Your shinobi's drive will be the core reason behind why they are working so hard.

Your drive shouldn't change unless both your Ambition changes because you have achieved it, or something dramatic has given you a new Ambition to fight towards.

Your drive should come in the form of self-motivation. While your shinobi may be shy and meek, or embarrassed often and easily, her Drive, when invoked should be the thing that ignites the fire in their eyes to push forward and through such weaknesses to achieve their goals, or take a closer step towards their Ambitions.

GOALS

Your shinobi will always have a plethora of goals they wish to accomplish. Goals are usually short term, and relatively quick to achieve. Goals can be things such as complete current mission, protect the princess from her pursuers, defeat the rival genin, learn the X Jutsu from my teacher, etc. Goals shouldn't be simple tasks such as going to the store, or talking to the girl/boy/person you like, instead they should be things that requires a bit more effort on your part. A DM should consider gifting a player with a Will of Fire when they accomplish one of their goals.

Goals will change, and should change often. This will be something that changes as the mission, arc or story progresses, or when you meet new NPC's, Allies or Adversaries.

FEARS

Finally, what is your shinobi's biggest fear? Is it death? Failure? Losing a loved one? Not living up to their parent's overzealous goals set for them?

Everyone has a deep seeded fear that they carry with them. These fears help define who we are, and helps also show our willpower when confronted with that fear. Fears should be specific enough where nothing is left to question, but also not so niche that your shinobi has no real reason to carry such a fear.

WILL OF FIRE

Will of Fire is a rule the game master can use to reward you for playing your character in a way that's true to his or her personality traits, ideal, bond, and flaws. By using the Will of Fire, you can draw on your personality trait of compassion for the downtrodden to give you an edge in negotiating with the Beggar Prince. Or inspiration can let you call on your bond to the defense of your home village to push past the effect of a power that has been laid on you.

GAINING THE WILL OF FIRE

All players begin any mission they undertake with a Will of Fire. Your GM can choose to give you the will of fire for a variety of reasons. Typically, GMs award it when you play out your Ambitions, Drive, Goals or Fears and otherwise portray your character in a compelling way. Your GM will tell you how you can earn inspiration in the game. You either have the will of fire or you don't - you can't stockpile multiple "wills of fire" for later use.

USING THE WILL OF FIRE

If you have the will of fire, you can expend it for the following:

- Advantage or +5 on an attack roll.
- Advantage or +5 on a saving throw.
- Advantage or +5 on an ability check.
- To slightly alter the scene to your benefit.
- Gain an immediate Reaction, even with an ability or jutsu that is a standard action.
- Gain immediate insight or clue into the current situation or mystery.
- Automatically succeed a Death saving throw.

Additionally, if you have a Will of Fire, you can reward another player for good roleplaying, clever thinking, or simply doing something exciting in the game. When another player character does something that really contributes to the story in a fun and interesting way, you can give up your Will of Fire to give that character a Will of Fire.

BACKGROUNDS

Every story has a beginning. Your character's background reveals where you came from, how you became a shinobi, and your place in the world. Your Scout-Nin might have been a Noble or a Street Urchin. Your Ninjutsu Specialist could have been a student of a prominent Master or a Prodigy. Your Weapon Specialist might have been a Hermit traveling with their family, place to place before settling down or entertained audiences as a carnival act.

Choosing a background provides you with important story cues about your character's identity and most recent Origin. The most important question to ask about your background is what changed? Why did you stop doing whatever your background describes to learn the way of Ninjutsu? How did you learn the skills of your class? What sets you apart from ordinary people who share your background?

PROFICIENCIES

Each background gives a character proficiency in two skills. In addition, most backgrounds give a character proficiency with one or more tools. If a character would gain the same proficiency from two different sources, he or she can choose a different proficiency of the same kind (skill or tool) instead.

EQUIPMENT

BACKGROUND FEATURE & ABILITY SCORE INCREASE (ASI)

Each background gives a character a background feature and a single Ability Score Increase.

SUGGESTED CHARACTERISTIC

A background contains suggested personal characteristics based on your background. You can pick characteristics, roll dice to determine them randomly, or use the suggestions as inspiration for characteristics of your own creation.

LANGUAGES AND DIALECTS

By virtue of being human you speak Common, which allows you to communicate with people from all over the ninja world. But each Country has its own dialects that twist common into their own pseudo language, making it extremely difficult for a person from the land of Fire to understand someone from the land of Water if they only spoke their country's dialect and didn't use standard common. There are also entire "Speaks" that designate an animal's ability to communicate. All creatures can speak common but your secondary language is based on your country of origin.

Standard Language	Typical Speakers
Fire Dialect	Land of Fire Residents
Earth Dialect	Land of Earth Residents
Water Dialect	Land of Water Residents
Cloud Dialect	Land of Lightning Residents
Sand Dialect	Land of Wind Residents
Common	Most Humans

ENTERTAINER

You thrived in front of an audience, knowing how to enthrall them, entertain them, and even inspire them. Your poetics can stir the hearts of those who hear you, awakening grief or joy, laughter or anger. Your music raises their spirits or captures their sorrow. Your dance steps captivate, your humor cuts to the quick. Whatever techniques you used; your art is your life.

You might have discovered a great truth about the world or the nature of Chakra, a fact that has long been forgotten, a relic of the past that could rewrite history, or a place unseen for ages. It might be information that would be damaging to the people who or consigned you to exile, and hence the reason for your return to society. Work with your GM to determine the details of your discovery and its impact on the campaign.

People will likely treat you like a noble or assume you of that lineage. You can attain audiences with nobles or officials easily, as they may often see you as one of their circles.

ASI: CAPTAIN COMMANDER.

Charisma +1 or Intelligence +1

NOBLE

You understand wealth, power, and privilege. You carry a noble title within your family or the village, and your family wields significant political influence. You might be a pampered aristocrat's child unfamiliar with manual labor, a former merchant's child just elevated to the nobility, or an honest, hard-working clansman who cares deeply about the people who live and work in your clan's district.

Work with your GM to come up with an appropriate title and determine how much authority the clan carries, as well as their influence on you. Is your family old and established, or was its title only recently bestowed? How much influence do they wield, how do people regard them?

Skill Proficiencies: Persuasion, Insight

Tool Proficiency: Security Kit

Equipment: A set of fine clothes, a signet ring, your clan's emblem, and a wallet containing 100 Ryo

Charisma +1 Or Wisdom +1

STUDENT

You were identified as someone with untapped potential at a very young age and were taken in as an apprentice. You were taken from your home to be trained either by the Master who found you. You can usually gain an audience with another Shinobi Leader, simply by dropping the name of your Master or Masters School. Furthermore, you can usually find a place to stay among Monks or Shinobi Temples, unless you show yourself to be a danger to them. ASI: WELL, LEARNED.

Intelligence +1 Or Dexterity +1

TRAVELER

Almost all of the common people that one might encounter in the Shinobi world have one thing in common: they live out their lives without ever traveling more than a few miles from where they were born. You aren't one of those common folks. You are from a distant place, one so remote that few people even realize that it exists, and chances are good that even if some people you meet have heard of your homeland, they know merely the name and perhaps a few outrageous stories. You have come to one of the Great Shinobi Villages for your own reasons, which you might or might not choose to share. Although you will undoubtedly find some of this land's ways to be strange and discomfiting, you can also be sure that some things its people take for granted will be to you new wonders that you've never laid eyes on before.

FEATURE: THE EXOTIC INDIVIDUAL

Your accent, mannerisms, figures of speech, and perhaps even your appearance all mark you as foreign. Curious glances are directed your way wherever you go, which can be a nuisance, but you also gain the friendly interest of scholars and others intrigued by far-off lands, to say nothing of everyday folk who are eager to hear stories of your homeland. You can parley this attention into access to people and places you might not otherwise have, for you and your traveling companions. Noble lords, scholars, and merchant princes, to name a few, might be interested in hearing about your distant homeland and people.

ASI: EXPERIENCED.

Strength +1 Or Wisdom +1

TROUBLE MAKER

You may come from privilege where you can do no wrong, or from poverty where you can do nothing right. Perhaps your parents' busy social schedule means that they pay you little attention or you have no parents and have no solid foundation from the get go and no one would spare you a moment's glance to see what potential might lie undiscovered inside you. Regardless, you do not appreciate or accept the gifts of your circumstance, or you reject the curses of your circumstances and you lash out with ostentatious behavior as a means to attract attention to yourself. You have always had a way with people. You know what makes them tick and you can twist their words into your advantage. It's a useful talent, and one that you're perfectly willing to use to get yourself out of trouble.

Skill Proficiencies: Deception, Sleight of Hand

Tool Proficiencies: Forgery Kit

Equipment: One set of commoners' clothes, a Forgery kit and a wallet containing 100 Ryo.

People will typically let you get away with social faux pas that might otherwise sour a business deal or incite an aggressive reaction - but they do this out of sheer pity, not because as you suspect, they are beguiled by your wit.

ASI: BAD INFLUENCE.

Strength +1 Or Charisma +1

URCHIN

You grew up on the streets alone, orphaned, and poor. You had no one to watch over you or to provide for you, so you learned to provide for yourself. You fought fiercely over food and kept a constant watch out for other desperate souls who might steal from you. You slept on rooftops and in alleyways, exposed to the elements, and endured sickness without the advantage of medicine or a place to recuperate. You've survived despite all odds, and did so through cunning, strength, speed, or some combination of each.

Skill Proficiencies: Sleight of Hand, Stealth

Tool Proficiencies: Disguise kit

Equipment: A Map of the Village you grew up in, A Token of intimate value to you, Set of Basic Clothing, Wallet containing 100 Ryo

FEATURE: VILLAGE OF SECRETS

You know the secret patterns and flows to cities and can find passages through the urban sprawl that others would miss. When you are not in combat, you (and companions you lead) can travel between any two locations in the city twice as fast as your speed would normally allow.

ASI: DESPERATE LIFESTYLE

Charisma +1 Or Dexterity +1

CHAPTER 4: CLASSES

Shinobi are extraordinary people, driven by a thirst for excitement into a life that others would never dare lead. They are heroes, compelled to explore the dark places of the world and take on the challenges that lesser women and men can't stand against.

Class is the primary definition of what your character can do. It's more than a profession; it's your character's calling. Class shapes the way you think about the world and interact with it and your relationship with other people and powers in the world. A Scout, for example, might view the world in pragmatic terms of strategy and maneuvering, and see herself as just a pawn in a much larger game. A Genjutsu Specialist, by contrast, might see himself as a weaver of destiny and manipulator of the world as is. While the Scout has contacts in a mercenary company or army, the Genjutsu Specialist might know a number of Shinobi who share his ideals.

Your class gives you a variety of special features, such as a Weapon Specialist's mastery of weapons and armor, and a Ninjutsu Specialist's mastery of the Elements. At low levels, your class gives you only two or three features, but as you advance in level you gain more and your existing features often improve. Each class entry in this chapter includes a table summarizing the benefits you gain at every level, a detailed explanation of each one and which character(s) from the Original Naruto Series would best fit within that given class.

Shinobi sometimes advance in more than one class. A hunter-nin, might switch direction in life and swear the oath of a medical-nin. A genjutsu specialist might discover an affinity for nature release and dabble in the ninjutsu specialist class while continuing to advance as a genjutsu specialist. Hyūga are known for combining their Byakugan's visual prowess with their clans unique fighting style and advance as both a taijutsu specialist and a scout-nin simultaneously. Optional rules for combining classes in this way, called multiclassing, appear in chapter 13.

Eight classes—listed in the Classes table—are found in almost every shinobi village, organization, or group and define the spectrum of typical shinobi

GENJUTSU SPECIALIST

A stalwart Yamanaka stands facing an enemy who is seemingly swinging at air, and screaming about their lack of oxygen as they begin to seemingly suffocate. The Yamanaka makes a single hand seal which causes the person to stop as they realize they were never drowning to begin with.

An Uchiha valiantly fights well against the odds, holding off 4 different opponents is a daunting task in itself. They all realize his moment of hesitation as they all leap to attack him at once, striking him with such force that blood oozes from his head. They all chant in glee, as the Uchiha's body slowly wavers and turns into one of them. The group then realizes that they were actually attacking their ally and the person who they thought was their ally was just an illusion all along.

These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they control their enemies' perceptions and the way they think of and see the world. This power is the power of Genjutsu. The ability to dominate one's realities. No matter how small, the slightest change can alter the entire flow of battle.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow the player to use their chosen Genjutsu to the best of their abilities and excel with that as your only tool and weapon. This class was designed following the concepts that were shown by characters such as: Itachi Uchiha, Sasuke Uchiha (Shippuden), Orochimaru, Kurenai Yuhi, Tayuya (Sound 5), and Jiraiya.

CREATING A GENJUTSU SPECIALIST

When creating a Genjutsu Specialist think about the characters ideals, and how they approach situations. Do they ever put themselves into direct conflict? Do they always trick enemies and lead them into false senses of security or are your illusions a last resort? Do you use your Genjutsu to end fights peacefully or do you use them to break the minds of your foes?

What set you down this path? Did you always have a very vivid imagination and Genjutsu was a perfect medium for you to express that? Do you use Genjutsu so that others can forcefully understand how you feel or how others feel?

QUICK BUILD

You can make a Genjutsu Specialist quickly by following these suggestions. First, put your highest ability score in Wisdom or Charisma (your choice), followed by Dexterity or Constitution. Second, choose the Yamanaka, Uchiha or Non-Clan, Clans. Third Focus on Genjutsu Techniques exclusively.

When you affect a creature with a Genjutsu that you cast, until the end of their next turn, they are unable to cast Jutsu equal to or lower than the cost of the Genjutsu you used. Once you've used this feature, you must complete a short rest before you can use it again. You gain an additional use of this feature at 7th level.

ACTUALIZATION

Also, at 1st level, your talent and skill in the art of Genjutsu has granted you the ability to tap into a deep reserve of creativity called Actualization Die that is represented as a D4. You have a number of Actualization die equal to your Proficiency bonus.

When you cast a Genjutsu that affects hostile creature, you may spend your Actualization die to deal psychic damage to the target creature equal to the result or increase the Save DC of your casted genjutsu by half of the result (Min 1). You regain spent Actualization Die when you take a long rest.

This die becomes at D6 at 7th level, and a d8 at 15th level.

A level prerequisite in a Malleable Mirage refers to Genjutsu Specialist Level, not character level.

If you create a ranged weapon, the maximum range for your weapon is 30 feet. This weapon deals Psychic damage and counts as a Genjutsu attack for purpose of triggering other Malleable Mirage effects. HUNTER-NIN

A Uzumaki crawls beneath the floorboards of a despot's fortress making his way into the despot's private chambers. Slyly and gracefully entering unseen and she raises from the floor counting the seconds in her head as she approaches the warlord and places a kunai to the man's neck and slides it from side to side. A Few moments later his concubines enter shocked and stunned as the man they came to see is now dead and they have been set free and the rebellion has ended.

With a focused eye on the wanted criminal who fled the village. A Masked Hyūga activates his Byakugan and stalks his prey from over a mile away. As the sun sets and the wanted man turns into camp for the night, The Hyūga silently enters his tent and presses a hand to the man's chest stopping his heart in his sleep and the masked Hyūga is gone again before the camp fire even goes out.

These shinobi, different as they might be are connected by one common factor, they are masters of infiltrations, stalking and assassination. Once they have their target, they never let them escape without first finishing the job.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow the player to follow the examples set by characters who do their best in regards to identifying a threat, analyzing it and executing them in as few attacks as possible. This also allows players to take the same characteristics of a Rogue or other stealthy class and garner some of their mechanics. Characters whom I based the core concept of this class off of are: Kakashi Hatake, Zabuza Momochi, Haku, Sai, Shisui Uchiha and Minato Namikaze

CREATING A HUNTER-NIN

When creating a Hunter-Nin consider a few things about the characters ideals, and how they approach their targets and allies respectively. Do they have a rougher past than others? How are their relationships with their allies? Do you use your jutsu to end fights immediately or do you wait and see what exactly your target can do before you approach? What set you down this path? Did you train under another very skilled hunter and you picked up this path from them? Do you take pity on your enemies or do you engage in conflicts with no emotion?

QUICK BUILD

You can make a Hunter-Nin quickly by following these suggestions. First, put your highest ability score in Dexterity, followed by Intelligence or Wisdom. Second, choose the Uchiha, Hyūga or Non-Clan, Clans.

Taijutsu attack modifier = your proficiency bonus + your Strength modifier

SWIFT RESPONSE

Beginning at 1st level, you learn to react with swift and decisive action in combat. You ignore difficult terrain and you add your full proficiency bonus to initiative rolls instead of half.

SNEAK ATTACK

Beginning at 1st level, you know how to exploit a foe's distraction, drop in guard, and moment of hesitation. Once per turn, you can deal an extra 1d6 damage to one creature you hit with an attack if you have advantage on the attack roll or if another enemy of the target is within 5 feet of it, that enemy isn't incapacitated, and you don't have disadvantage on the attack roll.

The amount of extra damage increases as you gain levels in this class, as show in the sneak attack column of the Hunter-Nin Table.

PRIMARY TARGET

Beginning at 2nd level, you have experience researching, tracking, hunting. You collectively use that information to combat a certain enemy. When you end a short or long rest, you may mark your primary target so long as you know their name and/or how they look. You may also as a Bonus action mark a target creature you can see within 90 feet as your Primary target using this feature. Until your next short or long rest, you gain the following Benefits:

- You have advantage on Intelligence (Investigation) and Wisdom (Survival) checks to gather information and to track your Primary Target.
- When a creature marked by Primary Target is the target of a Taijutsu or Bukijutsu you cast, you may use your Dexterity Modifier instead of your Strength for your Attack & damage roll and Save DC.
- While you are hidden from the target of your Primary Target feature, the first attack you make each round against that creature does not automatically reveal your presence to that creature. Make a Dexterity (Stealth) check contested by your target's Wisdom (Perception) check. On a success, you remain hidden so long as you are obscured at the end of your turn.

HUNTERS EXPLOITS

Also, at 2nd level you learn to exploit your skills to the betterment of your hunt. You learn two exploits, as detailed at the end of this class description. You learn an additional exploit at 6th, 10th, 14th and 18th levels.

HUNTER CREED

When you reach 3rd level you follow a Creed of the Hunt, enabling you to shape your skillset further. Your Creed grants you features at 3rd, 10th and 17th levels.

ABILITY SCORE IMPROVEMENT/FEAT

When you reach 4th and again at 8th, 12th, 16th, and 19th, level, you can increase one ability score by +1 & a Feat of your choice that they qualify for. As normal you can't increase an ability score above 20 using this feature.

UNCANNY DODGE

Starting at 5th level, when an attacker than you can see would deal damage to you, you can use your reaction to halve the attacks damage against you.

HUNTERS STRIKE

Starting at 6th level, you know when to strike and how to make it hurt. When Attacking a creature whom you have set as a Primary Target and they are surprised, you treat that hit as a critical one. At 14th level If you Roll a Natural 20, you deal the maximum possible damage.

CUNNING ACTION

Beginning at 7th level, your quick thinking and agility allow you to move and act quickly. You can take a bonus action on each of your turns in combat. This action can be used only to take the Dash, Disengage, or Hide action.

DEFENSIVE TACTICS

Also, at 9th Level you learn how to fight defensively against your targets, leading them into a false sense of security in confrontations against you. You gain one of the following features of your choice. You gain another of the following features at level 13th level.

- Escaping Danger: Attacks of opportunity against you when moving away from an enemy are at a disadvantage.
- Unbroken will: You have advantage on saving throws to resist being Frightened, Dazed, or Charmed.
- Hunter's Revenge: When you are hit by a creature's attack. The next time you deal damage to that creature you can Sneak Attack regardless of circumstance.
- Evasion: When you are subjected to an effect, that allows you to make a Dexterity saving throw to take only half damage, you instead take no damage if you succeed on a saving throw, and only half damage if you fail.

ELUSIVE

Beginning at 18th Level, you are so evasive that attackers rarely gain the upper hand against you. No Attack roll has advantage against you while you aren't incapacitated

ASSASSINATE

At 20th level, you have mastered the art of Hunting, tracking, and assassinating targets. When you hit a creature marked by Primary Target and they are surprised, they take triple damage.

HUNTERS CREEDS

UNDERTAKER

Some Hunter-Nin focus on the grim art of death. Those who adhere to this creed are born killers, spies and above all, Shinobi. Stealth, Poison and disguise help you eliminate your foes with deadly efficiency.

TOXIC SHADOW

At 3rd Level, you gain proficiency with the disguise kit, poison kit, Insight and Medicine.

POISONOUS EMBRACE

Also, at 3rd level your skill with Poisons are better than most. When you would complete a short rest, you create 2 Vials of Assassins Blood. This Poison is an imitation and loses its potency when you would take a rest of any type. You can as a bonus action apply this poison to your weapon. The number of Vials you can create increases to 3 at 7th level and 4 at 11th level.

FALSE FACES

At 10th level, you gain the ability to unerringly mimic another person's speech, writing, and behavior. You must spend at least one hour studying the person's behavior, listening to them and examining handwriting. Your ruse is indiscernible to the casual observer. If a wary creature suspects something is amiss, you have advantage on any Charisma (Deception) and Charisma (Performance) check you make to avoid detection.

LICK OF VENOM

Also, at 10th level, you have adapted the art of poisonous combat. When a creature takes damage from your sneak attack feature, you may choose to deal an equal amount of Poison damage instead. If a creature takes any amount of this poison damage, it must make a Constitution saving throw vs your Ninjutsu or Taijutsu save DC (Your choice). On a failure, the creature is poisoned for 1 minute. If a creature is poisoned in this way, you cannot instead apply the envenomed condition.

A Creature poisoned by this feature, may make another saving throw at the end of each of its turns ending the effect on a success.

For the duration a creature is poisoned by you in this way, you may choose to apply one of the additional effects:

- The creature cannot regain hit points except by Ninjutsu with the Medical Keyword casted at B-Rank or higher.
- The creatures speed is reduced by Half.
- If the creature is reduced to 0 hit points, it becomes stable.
- The creature cannot take reactions.
- The creature is blinded
- The creature is deafened.

You are only able to apply one instance of the poisoned condition with this feature to a creature at a time.

KISS OF DEATH

Beginning at 17th level you can see the weakness in your Primary Target's defenses. When you declare an attack on a target, if another enemy of the target is within 5 feet of it, you may roll two additional D20's taking the higher of the dice rolled.

GRAVE STALKER

Some Hunter-Nin become consumed by the thrill of the hunt. Only heard and never seen they revel in the violence of battle. Followers of this Creed hone their abilities to track others utilizing a variety of techniques: camouflage, infiltration, surveillance, and target acquisition.

SHADOW STALKER

At 3rd level, when you take the Attack action against a creature that is surprised, you can make one additional attack against that creature as a part of that action.

MARKED FOR DEATH

Also, at 3rd level, while you are hidden from a creature marked by your Primary Target feature, the first successful attack you make each round against that creature increases the damage die by 1.

ONE WITH THE DARKNESS

Beginning at 10th level, you've become adept at evading creatures that rely on the dark. While in dim light or darkness, you gain Darkvision and you are invisible to any creature that relies on Darkvision to see you in that darkness.

Additionally, when you target a creature with a weapon attack while hidden, you can force that creature to make a Dexterity saving throw against your Taijutsu save DC as if they were targeted by a Taijutsu or Bukijutsu. On a failed save, the creature cannot perform a reaction until the end of your next turn. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Dexterity modifier (minimum of one). You regain all expended uses when you finish a short or long rest.

MASTER AMBUSER

Also, at 10th level, you excel at leading ambushes and acting first in a fight.

You have advantage on initiative rolls. In addition, the first creature you hit during the first round of a combat becomes easier for you and others to strike; attack rolls against that target have advantage until the start of your next turn.

STALKERS FLURRY

Starting at 17th level, if you have advantage on an attack against a target on your turn, you can immediately make an additional weapon attack against the same target as part of the same attack action.

BLADE WARDEN

Some Hunter-Nin seek to master weapons to better remove their foe from the equation. Followers of this Creed learn specialized fighting techniques for use against the direst threats, from an onslaught of enemies to towering Brutes.

BLADE'S PREY

Beginning at 3rd Level, your tenacity can wear down the most fortuitous foes. When you hit a creature with a weapon attack, the creature takes an extra 2d6 damage if it's below its hit point maximum. You can deal this extra damage only once per turn.

WRATH OF THE HUNTER

Also, at 3rd level the first time you make an attack against a creature marked by Primary Target each round, if you trigger the Sneak attack feature, treat all rolls of 1, as 2 instead.

EXTRA ATTACK

At 10th level, you can attack twice, instead of once, whenever you take the Attack action on your turn.

NEMESIS

Also, at 10th level, you gain the ability to counterattack when your target tries to sabotage you. If your Primary Target forces you to make a saving throw, you can use your reaction to make one weapon attack against them. You make this attack immediately before making the saving throw. If the attack hits, you gain advantage on the saving throw.

SUPERIOR OFFENSE

At 17th level, you are so accurate that attacks rarely rely on sight, if at all and cannot be diverted. Weapon attacks you make cannot be made at disadvantage nor have their damage reduced in any way.

HUNTERS EXPLOITS

Choose from the following exploits. In order to choose an exploit, you must be proficient in the associated skill.

INTELLIGENCE OPERATIVE

An Aburame directs his allies to take very specific positions and tells them how to win this upcoming battle. After they take a position, they act according to his plans, each event happening in sequence like he planned, all culminating into the confrontation with the Warlord. With a trained eye for detail, Sarutobi looks over the room he and his allies are trapped in. After a few seconds he figures it out. He walks directly through the wall after figuring out that they were trapped within a Genjutsu and noticing the smallest off-center details. These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they are geniuses in their own right, able to read the room, see the way it's built and figure out that the room isn't a room, but a cage or trap. The Intelligence operatives are the team leaders, planners, and the brains behind the greatest teams in the shinobi world.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow players to harness and feel like masters of strategy through the use of the mechanics presented in this class. The Mechanics presented in this class were made to imitate the tactical plans of characters such as: Shimamura Nara, Kakashi Hatake, Tobirama Senju, Itachi Uchiha, Kabuto Yakushi & Orochimaru.

CREATING AN INTELLIGENCE OPERATIVE

When creating an Intelligence Operative consider a few things about how the character thinks and acts. Do they plan ahead or do they plan in the moment? How are their relationships with their allies and how do they interact with them both on and off of missions? Do they actively take charge or do they only act when it's a last resort? What made the character so bound to strategy? Did they train under another very skilled tactician and never beat them in a game of chess (Shogi)? Or did you never lose a game and followed this path in order to get a real challenge?

QUICK BUILD

You can make an Intelligence Operative quickly by following these suggestions. First, put your highest ability score in Intelligence, followed by Dexterity or Charisma. Second, choose the Nara, Yamanaka or Non-Clan, Clans.

STRATEGIC TIMING

Starting at 1st Level, the Intelligence operative may use his Intelligence modifier in place of his Dexterity modifier to roll Initiative.

EXPLOIT WEAKNESS

Also 1st level, you are able to analyze a target, develop a plan on how to best overcome any potential obstacles and execute that plan with ruthless efficiency. As a bonus action on your turn, you can analyze a target you can see within 60 feet of you. For the next minute, or until you analyze another target, when you analyze a hostile creature, your attack and damage rolls made with weapons with the finesse property against that target may use your Intelligence modifier instead of Strength or Dexterity.

Also, when you analyze a friendly creature, the target can end your Exploit Weakness on them (no action required) to add your Intelligence modifier to one attack roll, ability check, or saving throw they make. Once a friendly creature has benefited from this ability, they cannot do so again until they complete a short or long rest. You can use this feature a number of times equal to your Intelligence Modifier before you need a long rest.

MASTER PLANNER

Starting at 2nd Level, you have become adept at planning and learn Plans that can be used freely but are also enhanced by a special resource called Brave Orders.

Plans: You learn two plans of your choice, which are detailed in the plans Section at the end of this class. You earn more at higher levels as shown in the “Plans Known” Column of the Intelligence Operative Class table. Many Plans may enhance attacks in some way, provide you with a unique action or reaction and each has a duration, listed in the Plans effect text. You may activate a plan by spending one Brave Order as an action or reaction. If you would activate a plan while another plan is currently active, the previously active plan immediately ends. You may enhance an active plan as a bonus action or a reaction. You can end an active plan at any time in the same manner you could end concentration on a Jutsu. When you would gain the benefits of a long rest you may switch the plans you know with another plan. You can only have one plan active at a time, unless otherwise stated.

Brave Orders: You can spend up to two brave orders. You can initiate more at later levels, as shown in the Brave Order column of the Intelligence Operative class table. A Brave Order is expended when you use it. You regain all of your Brave Orders when you finish a short or long rest.

JACK OF ALL TRADES

Starting at 2nd level, you can add half your proficiency bonus, rounded down, to any ability check you make that doesn't already include your proficiency bonus.

MASTER STRATEGIST

Also, at 3rd Level you dedicate your tactics towards a Type of Strategy which is detailed in the following section. The Strategy you choose grants you features at 3rd, 6th, 9th, 13th and 17th levels.

ABILITY SCORE IMPROVEMENT/FEAT

When you reach 4th and again at 8th, 12th, 16th, and 19th, level, you can increase one ability score by +1 & a Feat of your choice that they qualify for. As normal you can't increase an ability score above 20 using this feature.

TACTICAL FOCUS

Starting at 5th Level, the Intelligence Operative selects 1 Skill. When using the selected skill regardless of the roll, you treat your die it cannot be less than 10. At 10th and 15th levels you may select one additional skill.

HELPFUL OPERATIVE

Also, at 5th Level, the Intelligence Operative can use the help action as a bonus action. Additionally, when you use the Help action to aid an ally in attacking a creature, the target of that attack can be within 30 feet of you, rather than 5 feet of you, if the target can see or hear you.

DECLARATION OF WAR

Starting at 11th Level you may select 1 hostile creature you can see or hear. While you are within 60 feet of the target, you may, as a bonus action, or reaction, spend one Brave Order to give that creature disadvantage on any single Ability Check, Attack Roll or Saving throw. At 18th Level you may Select creatures equal to your Intelligence Modifier.

CHECKMATE

Starting at 20th level, after many battles and conflicts, you have mastered when to, and when not to reveal your hand. As a bonus action once per round, you may add your proficiency bonus to the damage roll of all attacks or jutsu you and allies makes against the target of your Exploit Weakness until the start of your next turn. You may use this feature twice before needing a long rest.

MASTER STRATEGIES

TACTICAL STRATEGIST

Some Intelligence Operatives pride themselves on their tactical approach to their Plans, focusing on playing the long game, setting both basic and advanced traps to aid their allies and destabilize their enemies.

FAVORED PLAN

When you choose this Strategy at 3rd level, you become a master at a singular type of plan. Select 1 Plan at the end of this class section. This Plan does not count against your Plans known. By expending one Brave Order, you can use this plan while another plan is active, granting you both plans effects.

At 9th Level you may select another plan. When you would activate this plan while your Favored Plan is active, or vice versa, you do not spend a Brave Order to swap them.

TRAP SETTER

Also, at 3rd Level, you master the art of Setting traps while on the battlefield. Select 2 Traps that you have mastered from the tactical trap section at the end of this class section. You learn one more trap at 6th Level, and another at 9th Level.

You can set a number of Traps up to your Intelligence Modifier before you run out of resources and need to take a short or long rest to prepare more. Traps require 1 Action to set and you can designate who can or can't activate the trap, preventing your allies from activating the trap. Traps use your Ninjutsu Save DC for all saving throws. Traps are hidden from normal view requiring a Wisdom (Perception) check contested by your Ninjutsu Save DC to be seen.

SQUAD TACTICS

Starting at 6th Level, you learn to enable your team to act with more unity and combine their efforts together. You may spend a Brave Order granting up to two allies within 60 feet of you, 1d10 to add to their next Ability Check, Attack Roll, or Saving throw so long as they can both see and hear you.

Creatures you originally targeted with this feature, can use the help action as a bonus action until the end of their turns. If an affected creature uses the Help Action on another creature, they gain the benefit of Master of Tactics as if they had the feature, as well as pass the bonus onto the creature they Helped. If a creature gains the benefits of this feature in this way, they instead gain 2d10.

ADVANCED TRAPS

MEDICAL-NIN

A clanless girl with pink hair grips the heart of one of her allies while it's still in his chest, and begins to massage it to keep the blood artificially flowing in his body. Keeping him alive long enough to remove him from the battle field.

A Sarutobi clashes blades with her longtime rival. The battle intensifies as the rival is getting the upper hand, leaving Sarutobi more wounded than she thought normal. As the rival proclaims his victory, the Sarutobi begins to giggle to herself as her wounds have closed, and her rival's skin has turned purple from the poison she's infected him with.

These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they are prodigies in the field of Medical ninjutsu. While others are able to use the techniques to some degree, they are the masters of the art, able to take the teachings they have and accelerate it to new heights and unmatched levels.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow players to both heal their allies but also protect them in the front lines. This class features a fine line between both support and combat in its 3 subclasses. The intent was to capture the varied techniques shown by the few medical ninja in the series, such as: Sakura Haruno, Tsunade, Kabuto Yakushi, Orochimaru & Shizune

CREATING A MEDICAL-NIN

When creating a Medical-Nin consider a few things about how the character approaches situations. Are they proactive or Reactive? How do they prioritize their allies in dangerous situations? Do they actively take charge or do they only take orders in high pressure situations?

What made the character so bound to assisting their party vs taking a primarily combat role? Did they train under another very skilled Doctor and took in their drive to save lives? Or did they lose someone right in front of them unable to help & vowed to never let that happen again?

QUICK BUILD

You can make a Medical-Nin quickly by following these suggestions. First, put your highest ability score in Intelligence, followed by Constitution or Dexterity. Second, choose the Uzumaki, Nara or Non-Clan, Clans.

When using any Jutsu with the "Medical" Keyword that recovers hit points, add your Wisdom Modifier to the Hit Points Regained.

Also, at Level 1 you use your medical skills to revitalize wounded allies during a short rest. When you or any friendly creatures who you can touch regain Hit points at the end of a short or long rest, they regain an extra 1d6 Hit points. When you would use a Taijutsu that deals unarmed damage, your taijutsu does not deal any damage or gain any additional benefits granted by this feature.

Beginning at 7th level, when you would deal unarmed damage to a creature with temporary hit points while you have chakra scalpel active, you bypass the temporary hit points instead directly attacking their hit points.

Beginning at 11th level, your unarmed damage becomes 2d4, and when you deal unarmed damage with your chakra scalpel active, the target creature must succeed a Constitution saving throw vs your Ninjutsu save DC, or gain the bleeding condition on a failed save.

Finally, at 18th level, your unarmed damage becomes 3d4 for the duration, and on a failed constitution saving throw the target also gains the Weakened condition for 1 minute. A Creature weakened in this way remakes the constitution saving throw at the end of each of their turns to end the condition.

For all of this Techniques splendor and prowess, the toll it takes on one's body is immense. You may only gain the benefits of this feature a number of times equal to half of your proficiency bonus (Rounded up) per long rest.

ABILITY SCORE IMPROVEMENT/FEAT

When you reach 4th and again at 8th, 12th, 16th, and 19th, level, you can increase one ability score by +1 & a Feat of your choice that they qualify for. As normal you can't increase an ability score above 20 using this feature.

A clanless boy quickly weaves handseals and places his hands onto a large chakra seal, igniting the seals as the door begins to open. The boy walks through the open doors and after weaving a few seals with one hand he conjures orbs of fire creating light for him to see.

An Uzumaki in the heat of battle creates a single hand seal and conjures 10 Shadow Clones as they all surround a single enemy. The Clones and the Uzumaki all weave handseals and each create a super dense blade of wind chakra that all converge on their target leaving him no room to dodge or evade.

These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they are masters in the field of Ninjutsu. While others are able to use the techniques, they learn with some level of mastery, the Ninjutsu Specialists are able to draw out the true essence of the Ninjutsu arts. They are able to take the concepts of the Ninjutsu they have and accelerate it to new heights and unmatched levels.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow players to utilize ninjutsu in a variety of ways and allows for a mastery of the techniques they have that surpass others. Players would be able to have a larger variety of ninjutsu at their disposal and in some cases

CREATING A NINJUTSU SPECIALIST

Do they use ninjutsu as a ring of keys, a way through every door or a sledge hammer, a way to pass through any obstacle? What made the character so bound to learning so many powerful ninjutsu and what drives them to learn more? Did they train under another very skilled Shinobi? Or did they become enamored by the people around them and want to emulate their skills and techniques?

SCOUT-NIN

An Uzumaki lies in wait as his target enters the brothel, he performs the transformation technique to turn into one of the many women within the building he's seen in the past few days.

A Sarutobi in the heat of battle weaves together a great wave of water blowing some enemies away, when some leap over the wave avoiding it, the Sarutobi follows up with a powerful Genjutsu stunning the airborne shinobi as they come crashing down into the water.

A Nara gets into a close combat battle with an enemy, and holds his own while preparing to capture his enemy within the Shadow possession technique.

These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they are Jack of all trades. While others are specialists of some sort in one form or another, a scout-nin is someone who by definition is able to complete most tasks or fill most roles in a team with little trouble. Scout-Nin are able to draw out their latent abilities in most fields while others cannot.

CHARACTER INSPIRATIONS

When designing this class, it was built with the intent to allow players to take on the role of a generalist, someone who may not specialize in any particular field such as ninjutsu, Genjutsu or Taijutsu. But someone who can use them all to a varying degree and find success. While other classes can use all 3 forms of jutsu, this class is designed with the ability to enhance them on a case-by-case basis using Superiority dice if needed. Characters whom this class was designed after are as follows; Kid Naruto Uzumaki, Kid Sasuke Uchiha, Kid Sakura Haruno, Kid Kakashi Hatake and Kid Obito Uchiha.

CREATING A SCOUT-NIN

When creating a Scout-Nin consider a few things about the character when they are on a team with others. Do they fill in any gaps or do they support others in their endeavors enhancing that particular field their allies are specializing in. Do they use their techniques as an answer to the weaknesses of the team? What made the character so bound to learning so many varied techniques and how do they plan on using them in the field? Did they train under another very skilled Shinobi? Or did they become enamored by the people around them and want to emulate their skills and techniques leaving nothing to chance?

TAIJUTSU SPECIALIST

A Hyūga takes their fighting stance, ready for the assault from the surrounding undead summons from the Dark shinobi standing just on the other side of the ridge, the Hyūga leaps from undead to undead, striking them each with unmatched precision taking them down one by one with 1 or two precise strikes.

A clanless girl in the heat of battle creates an unorthodox stance, and readies for her training session. Her team assaults her as she parries, dodges and counters each one with a graceful swing of her arms and legs as she then follows each one with a powerful strike knocking each training member back.

These shinobi, different as they might be, are connected by one common factor, they are masters in the field of Taijutsu. While others are able to use Taijutsu techniques they learn with some level of mastery, the Taijutsu Specialists are the absolute masters of unarmed combat and technique. Do they use their weapons as a way to share their ideals while in combat or is it an extension of themselves? Do they use their weapons as a way to give themselves discipline and teach themselves patience? Did they train under another very skilled Shinobi? CHAPTER 5: EQUIPMENT

The marketplace of a large city or village teems with buyers and sellers of many backgrounds and for many reasons: shady merchants trying to sell off curious wares they've found on their travels (or trying to steal from careless travelers), up and coming technologists, selling various scientific ninja tools, shinobi weaponsmiths and samurai armor smiths. In the largest cities, almost anything imaginable is offered for sale, from exotic spices and luxurious clothing to scientific ninja tools and cutting-edge vehicles.

For a shinobi or samurai, the availability of armor, weapons, and other adventuring gear is of paramount importance, since proper equipment can mean the difference between life and death in a stronghold or the untamed wilds. This chapter details the mundane and exotic merchandise that shinobi commonly find useful in the face of the threats that the worlds of D&D present.

VARIANT: STARTING WEALTH BY CLASS

Class	Funds
Genjutsu Specialist	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Hunter-Nin	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Intelligence Operative	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Medical-Nin	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Ninjutsu Specialist	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Scout-Nin	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Taijutsu Specialist	5d4 x 25 Ryo
Weapon Specialist	5d4 x 25 Ryo

WEALTH

Wealth generally appears in the form of Ryo. The Land of Iron and Land of Moon each have their own mints, but in most countries, Ryo is interchangeable. Other trade goods, gemstones, artifacts, and property can reflect your character's financial well-being. Members of the lower-class trade in goods, bartering for what they need and paying taxes in raw materials. Members of the nobility trade either in legal rights, such as the rights to a mine, a port, or a company, or in high denomination credits. Only merchants, adventurers, and those offering professional services for hire commonly deal in ryo.

CURRENCY

Ryo comes in a variety of denominations: from a single Ryo coin to paper bills with predefined values up to Solid Ryo Bars worth an incredible value. While the Land of Iron and Moon have their own currencies, in most Countries they can be used interchangeably.

With ten ryo, a character can buy a day's worth of food, some common clothing, a Bingo Book, or a glow rod. A skilled (but not exceptional) artisan can earn 100 Ryo a day. A Genin can earn on average, up to 100 Ryo a day with on D-Rank Missions. Ryo is the standard unit of measure for wealth. When merchants discuss deals that involve goods or services worth hundreds or thousands of ryo, the transactions don't usually involve the exchange of individual bills. Rather, ryo is a standard measure of value, and the actual exchange is in letters of credit, or valuable goods.

SELLING TREASURES

Opportunities abound to find treasure, equipment, weapons, armor, and more in the dungeons you explore. Normally, you can sell your treasures and trinkets when you return to a Village or other settlement, provided that you can find buyers and merchants interested in your loot.

WEAPONS, ARMOR AND OTHER EQUIPMENT

As a general rule, undamaged weapons, armor, and other equipment fetch half their cost when sold in a market. Used weapons and armor aren't always in good enough condition to sell, but can be kept and modified for personal use if you are or can find a Weaponsmith good enough to complete such a task.

CHAKRA ENHANCED ITEMS

A Chakra Enhance item is an item that either is infused with either an Sealsmith's Enhancement Seal or has a +1 or higher bonus to either;

- Attack and Damage Rolls provided via an Enhancement Seal, A Clan or Class Feature, or a Jutsu.
- Armor Class provided via an Enhancement Seal, A Clan or Class Feature, or a Jutsu.

A weapon that gains any bonuses from Feats or Fighting styles do not count as chakra enhanced in any way.

GEMS, JEWELRY, AND VALUABLE ARTIFACTS.

These items retain their full value in the marketplace, and you can either trade them in for Ryo or use them as currency for other transactions. For exceptionally valuable treasures, the GM might require you to find a buyer in a large city or even another country.

ACTIVE INVENTORY

The right gear at the right time can make all the difference between life and death. But how do you keep track of what your carrying? This section introduces

SLOTS & BULK

An active inventory manages items using inventory slots (storage capacity) and object bulk (replacement for weight)

INVENTORY SLOTS

Inventory Slots describe storage capacity—how much can a thing carry without being overwhelmed? One slot holds 1 bulk, a small object, or a collection of such objects—a pair of blood pills, a Stack of Senbon Needles or a pair of combat bracers etc.

Anything that can hold, carry, or contain objects can make use of inventory slots—for example:

- Creatures use slots to describe how much they can carry before they're encumbered.
- Containers use slots to describe how much they can store before they're full.
- Buildings use slots to describe how much free space they have in their rooms.
- Vehicles use slots to describe how much they can transport before they can't move.

BULK

Objects use bulk to describe how many inventory slots they fill. The bulkier the object, the more slots occupied.

Bulk represents the effort needed by a medium sized creature to carry an object based on its size, weight and shape. The more awkward or uncomfortable it is to hold an object, the higher its bulk.

inventory Slots, object bulk, and new systems to help you manager your inventory. (All Credit goes to Giffy Glyph for laying the groundwork for this system rework)

YOUR INVENTORY

Your Inventory Capacity depends on your Strength modifier. The stronger you are, the more Bulk you can carry.

But as your Active Inventory increases so too does your characters overall Bulk. Your Characters bulk equals the larger of either a) your minimum bulk or b) the total bulk of everything in your inventory.

All Shinobi have a base of 10 Inventory Slots. This determined how many things you can carry. This includes, weapons, armor, tools, and other pieces of equipment.

A shinobi has two ways of increasing this Inventory limitation. The first way is to increase their Strength. A shinobi increases their base bulk limitation by 2 for every +1 they have in their Strength Ability Modifier. (Ex. Soren, is an Uzumaki Scout-Nin with a 14 Strength, giving him a +2 Modifier. His Base bulk and by extension his base Inventory Slot is 14, $10 + 2 + 2$).

The second way to increase your Inventory Slot capacity is to purchase Storage Tools such as a Shinobi Backpack, or a Waist Pouch which each applies their own bonuses to a wearers Inventory limits, assisting a shinobi is bringing more to the table in terms of equipment and ninja tools to get the job done.

BASIC SUPPLIES

In addition to inventory slots, you can freely carry a limited number of basic supplies. One ration pack, one thermos, one wallet.

- Ration Case: Stores up to 1 week of basic food rations.
- Thermos: Holds enough liquid for 1 person, for 1 day.
- Wallet: Holds up to 10,000 Ryo bills of any assortment.

These three basic supply containers don't occupy any inventory slots, and by extension have no Bulk associated with them. If you carry more copies of these 3, they would each occupy 1 bulk and cost 5 Ryo Each. Although they don't occupy any inventory slots, they can still be affected by NPC's and adversaries in some fashion. (Stolen, damaged, destroyed, etc.) So do keep an eye on them.

ENCUMBRANCE

If you find yourself carrying more than your inventory capacity allows, you are encumbered. While you are encumbered, you gain the following condition.

ENCUMBERED

- Your Speed is Halved.
- You have disadvantage on ability checks, attack rolls and saving throws, that use Strength, Dexterity, or Constitution.

ARMOR

The different Countries of Naruto are a vast tapestry made up of many different cultures, each with its own cultural influence on technology. For this reason, Shinobi have access to a variety of armor types, ranging from basic Padded Armor to Shinobi Battle Armor with several other kinds of armor in between. The Armor table collects the most commonly available types of armor found in the game and separates them into three categories: light armor, medium armor, and heavy armor.

The Armor table shows the cost and other properties of the common types of armor worn in the Naruto World.

ARMOR PROFICIENCY

Anyone can put on a suit of armor. Only those proficient in the armor's use know how to wear it effectively, however. Your class gives you proficiency with certain types of armor. Wearing armor that you are proficient in grants you the armors, Armor Bonus, any potential Dexterity Bonus as well as half of your Proficiency Bonus (Rounded down) to your AC Calculation. If you wear armor that you lack proficiency with, you have disadvantage on any ability check, saving throw, or attack roll that involves Strength or Dexterity, and Ninjutsu, Taijutsu, or Genjutsu Cast.

ARMOR BONUS

Armor protects its wearer from attacks. The armor you wear determines your Armor Bonus.

AC is determined by $10 + \text{Armor Bonus} + \text{Dexterity} + \text{Half Proficiency (Rounded Down)}$.

ARMOR EFFECT

Different Mundane armors provide additional benefits or penalties to wearing them, such as Bonuses or Penalties to ability checks. Each of these armors hold their own benefits or penalties.

LIGHT ARMOR

Made from flexible and thin materials, light armor favors agile adventurers since it offers some protection without sacrificing mobility. If you wear light armor, you can add your full Dexterity mod to determine your Armor Class with no limits.

PADDED ARMOR

Padded Armor Consists of Resistant Materials layered on top of one another in a way that provides protection to your more vulnerable parts of your body.

LEATHER ARMOR

The Breastplate and shoulder protectors of this armor are made of thin but layered leather that has been stiffened by being boiled in oil and made to fit under common clothing to hide the armor your wearing, under standard clothing.

STUDED LEATHER ARMOR

Studded Leather armor is Leather armor reinforced with metal bolts, rivets or plates that cover sensitive body parts like your heart, Neck and Spine.

MEDIUM ARMOR

Medium armor offers more protection than light armor, but it also impairs movement more. If you wear medium armor, you add your Dexterity modifier, to a maximum detailed in the Dex bonus column, to the Armor Bonus of the Armor You are wearing.

COMBAT JACKET

Providing solid protection for a minimal cost, Combat Jackets are considered excellent protection for entrenched troops or guards. However, this protection comes at a cost of mobility, limiting its uses by rapidly advancing infantry. Still, it provides more mobility than an Armored Combat Jacket.

ARMORED COMBAT JACKET

Armored Variant of the Combat Jacket that's designed for more protection.

CHUNIN JACKET

This standard flak jacket is worn by chunin and Jonin shinobi. This armor-plated jacket offers the wielder 6 pockets that can hold up to one pound of material, and are generally used to hold scrolls. The Hidden Villages all have different designs for this armor that are easy to differentiate.

REINFORCED CHUNIN JACKET

A reinforced and enhanced Chunin Jacket that provides even more protections with little mobility cost.

HEAVY ARMOR

Of all the armor categories, heavy armor offers the best protection. These suits of armor cover most of, if not the entire body and are designed to stop a wide range of attacks. Only proficient warriors can manage their weight and bulk. Heavy armor doesn't let you add your Dexterity modifier to your Armor Class.

FLAK JACKET

Flak Jackets are armors with reduced weight, but restricts movement. The armor is commonly used by mercenaries, bounty hunters, soldiers, and civilians that live in dangerous areas

ARMORED FLAK JACKET

SHINOBI BATTLE ARMOR

Battle Armor that is specially made in each of their respective countries. This variant of the Battle Armor provides more protection in a Shinobi's vital area's while also providing a lighter load. The Bulk of this armor still prevents complex mobility but is offset by the increase in overall protections provided by specialized Developments.

GETTING INTO AND OUT OF ARMOR

The time it takes to don or doff armor depends on the armor's category.

Don. This is the time it takes to put on armor. You benefit from the armor's Armor Bonus only if you take the full time to don a suit of armor.

Doff. This is the time it takes to take off armor. If you have help, reduce this time by half.

DONNING AND DOFFING ARMOR

Medium Armor: 5 Minutes to Don, 1 Minute to Doff

WEAPONS

Your class grants proficiency in certain weapons, reflecting both the class's focus and the tools you are most likely to use. Whether you favor a Katana or a Shuriken, your weapon and your ability to wield it effectively can mean the difference between life and death while adventuring and on Missions. The Weapons tables show the most common weapons used in the world of Naruto, their price and the damage they deal when they hit, and any special properties they possess. Every weapon is classified as a Simple Melee Weapon, Simple Ranged Weapon, Martial Melee Weapon, Martial Ranged Weapon, Exotic Melee or Exotic Ranged. A Melee Weapon is used to attack a target within 5 feet of you, whereas a Ranged Weapon is used to attack a target at a distance.

WEAPON PROFICIENCY

Your Clan, class, and feats can grant you proficiency with certain weapons or categories of weapons. The three categories are simple, martial & Exotic. Most people can use simple weapons, which are commonly seen in the hands of the unspecialized, with proficiency. Martial weapons, including Katana's, Tonfa & Chakrams require more specialized training to use effectively. Most warriors use martial weapons because these weapons put their fighting style and training to best use. Proficiency with a weapon allows you to add your proficiency bonus to the attack roll for any attack you make with that weapon. If you make an attack roll using a weapon with which you lack proficiency, you do not add your proficiency bonus to the attack roll.

WEAPON PROPERTIES

Many weapons have special properties related to their use, as shown in the Weapons table.

AMMUNITION

You can use a weapon that has the ammunition property to make a ranged attack only if you have ammunition to fire from the weapon. Each time you attack with the weapon, you roll your ammunition die. If you use a Ranged weapon that has the ammunition property to make a melee attack, you treat the weapon as an improvised weapon (see "Improvised Weapons" later in the section).

BLOCKING

Weapons with the Blocking Property allows you to fight both defensively and offensively. While equipped, increase your AC by +1. This bonus can only be applied once. If this weapon property is applied to a weapon with the Unarmed weapon property, you do not gain this benefit if using another weapon.

CRITICAL

Weapons with the Critical Property can achieve a critical hit on a Roll of 19 or 20. This Bonus can only be applied once.

DEADLY

DISARM

If a weapon has the Disarm property, when you take the attack action, you may forgo one of your weapon attacks to attempt to Disarm a target creature. The target creature must succeed a Strength (Athletics) or Dexterity (Acrobatics) check vs your Attack Roll Result. On a Success, they are unaffected. On a failure, their weapon or item they are holding falls to their feet within 5 feet of them.

FINESSE

When making an attack with a finesse weapon, you use your choice of your Strength or Dexterity modifier for the attack and damage rolls. You must use the same modifier for both rolls.

GRAPPLE

As an attack action, you make a grapple check against a target creature in range. On a successful critical hit with a weapon of this type, you can automatically grapple the target of the attack, no check needed.

HEAVY

Weak creatures have disadvantage on attack rolls with heavy weapons. A creature must have a Strength score of 15 to use this weapon effectively.

HIDDEN

You have advantage on Dexterity (Sleight of Hand) checks made to conceal a hidden weapon.

LIGHT

A light weapon is small and easy to handle, making it ideal for use when fighting with two weapons. See the rules for two-weapon fighting in chapter 8.

LOADING

A limited number of shots can be made with a weapon that has the Loading property. A character must then reload it using an action or a bonus action (the character's choice). You must have one free hand to reload.

MULTIATTACK

A weapon with the Multiattack property can also be used to attack as a bonus action. If an attack is made as a bonus action using this property, you do not add your Ability modifier to the damage.

RANGE

A weapon that can be used to make a ranged attack has a range shown in parentheses after the ammunition or thrown property. The range lists two numbers. The first is the weapon's normal range in feet, and the second indicates the weapon's maximum range. When attacking a target beyond normal range, you have disadvantage on the attack roll. You can't attack a target beyond the weapon's long range.

REACH

This weapon adds 5 feet to your reach for each Rank of Reach it has when you attack with it. (Ex. Reach 1 adds 5 Feet of range to the weapon)

RETURNING

If a weapon has the Returning property, you can as a bonus action after throwing the weapon to make a ranged attack call it back to you if it was thrown less than 30 feet from you. You must have one hand free to catch it.

THROWN

If a weapon has the thrown property, you can throw the weapon to make a ranged attack using your Strength instead of Dexterity for Attack and Damage rolls.

TRIP

If a weapon has the trip property, you can as an attack action attempt to trip a target creature. The target creature must succeed an athletics or acrobatics check vs your Attack Roll Result. On a Success, they are unaffected. On a failure, they fall prone.

TWO-HANDED

This weapon requires two hands to use.

UNARMED

This weapon increased your base unarmed damage to its described value, while also applying its damage type to your unarmed damage. If your unarmed attack damage is greater than this weapons damage dice, you may use the larger die instead of the listed one for damage. This weapon also does not prevent you from using Handseals (HS) while wielding it. This weapon is equipped to both hands when equipped.

VERSATILE

This weapon can be used with one or two hands. A damage value in parentheses appears with the property—the damage when the weapon is used with two hands to make a melee attack.

IMPROVISED WEAPON

Sometimes characters don't have their weapons and have to attack with whatever is close at hand. An improvised weapon includes any object you can wield in one or two hands, such as broken glass, a table leg, a frying pan, a wagon wheel, or a dead enemy. In many cases, an improvised weapon is similar to an actual weapon and can be treated as such. At the GM's discretion, a character proficient with a weapon can use a similar object as if it were that weapon and use his or her proficiency bonus.

AMMUNITION DIE

Instead of tracking each individual Kunai, Shuriken, arrow, bolts etc. you take a D8 - this is your Ammunition die. Roll it whenever you use a weapon or a Jutsu with a weapon, with the ammunition trait: if you roll a 1 or a 2, the die gets one size smaller.

If you're down to one piece of ammunition and you use it, that's it - it's all gone! Remove it from your inventory.

AMMUNITION DIE

D8 > D6 > D4 > 1

REPLENISHING AMMUNITION

To increase your ammunition die, you can recover ammo from the environment or buy additional ammunition.

- Buying ammunition gives you a full D8 Ammunition die.
- If you choose to recover ammo from the environment you increase your ammunition die by one step.

EXPLOSIVE TOOLS

BREACHING TAG

Once detonated, the breaching charge destroys an unenhanced section of wall up to 10 feet wide, 10 feet tall, and 5 feet deep. Additionally, each creature within 20 feet of the charge must make a DC 15 Dexterity saving throw. A creature takes 3d6 fire damage and 3d6 bludgeoning damage on a failed save, or half as much on a successful one. A construct makes this save with disadvantage. If the breaching charge is installed on the construct, it automatically fails the saving throw and takes the maximum possible damage.

CHILI PEPPER BOMB

A small sphere the size of a golf ball that when thrown against a solid surface, explodes into a Thick red mist up to 10 feet high and 5 feet wide before dissipating within 1 minute. A creature takes 3d6 fire damage on a failed save, or half as much as on a successful one.

The tag explodes in a 15ft radius sphere of yellow-green fog centered on a point you choose within range. The sphere spreads around corners, and its area is heavily obscured. It lasts for 1 minute or until a wind of at least 10 miles per hour disperses it. When a creature enters the fog's area for the first time on a turn or starts its turn there, that creature must make a DC 13 Constitution saving throw. The creature takes 1d8 poison damage on a failed save, or half as much damage on a successful one. Additionally, on a failed save, the creature is poisoned while it is in the cloud. Constructs and Creatures wearing appropriate protective equipment are unaffected.

Hackers are a new profession in the world of Naruto, using specialized computer Scrolls, built by the hackers themselves, to eke out a living in the emerging digital world. These computer scrolls were carefully guarded and constantly modified and upgraded by the hacker, who rarely discussed its specs except with like-minded individuals. Complex access codes are often used to prevent a hacker's scroll from falling into the wrong hands. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to hack into computers.

MEDICINE KIT

This kit includes all of the necessary implements to perform complex medical inquiries and procedures while not in a medical facility supported by sterilized environments, allowing you to diagnose and even treat issues such as broken bones, open wounds and even providing immediate care to people who are on death's door making death saving throws. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to perform medical tasks. Also, proficiency with this kit is required to create field Military & Blood Increasing Pills.

POISON KIT

A poisoner's kit includes the vials, chemicals, and other equipment necessary for the creation of poisons. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to craft or use poisons. The following Poisons cannot be purchased by normal means and instead must be created or purchased from black market salesmen as their use is not wholly approved by most villages as a whole, while also not being outright banned. These Poisons are generally applicable in a variety of situations, being able to be both ingested and applied via a weapons attack. Poison applied to weapons require a bonus action, and are only expended when striking a creature. Once expended in this way, the poison is no longer able to be applied by the weapon without being reapplied.

Assassins Blood: A creature subjected to this poison must make a DC 12 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save, it takes 2d6 poison damage and is poisoned for 24 hours. On a successful save, the creature takes half damage and isn't poisoned.

Serpent Venom: This poison is created by extracting it from a dead or incapacitated poisonous snake. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 13 Constitution saving throw. On a failed save it takes 4d6 Poison damage and is poisoned for 24 hours.

Midnight Tears: A creature subjected to this poison suffers no effect until the stroke of midnight. If the poison has not been neutralized before then, the creature must succeed a DC 15 Constitution saving throw, taking 6d6 poison damage on a failed save, and half as much on a successful one.

Ether: This poison is not directly used in combat as its more used in espionage and political manipulation. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 16 Constitution saving throw being charmed by the first creature they see, that issues a command to them for 24 hours.

Wolfs Bane: This is a poison that best ingested, but can be applied to a weapon for less potency. A creature whom ingests this poison must succeed a DC 17 Constitution saving throw being Poisoned for 72 hours, taking 10d4 poison damage, and being slowed for the duration of the poison or half as much on a successful save. A creature subjected to this poison via a weapon attack must succeed a DC 16 constitution saving throw taking 5d6 poison damage on a failed save and half as much on a success.

Devils Kiss: This poison is best ingested, but can be applied to a weapon for less potency. A creature whom ingests this poison must succeed a DC 20 Constitution saving throw, as the poison ignites the stomach acid within the creature taking 8d8 fire damage that ignores resistances on a failed saved, or half as much on a successful save. The creature must succeed a DC 18 Constitution saving throw each round until they pass, ending this effect, taking 3d8 fire damage on a failed save

Kamizuru Venom: This venom is extracted from the Kamizu's Bee Forest. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 19 Constitution saving throw taking 6d8 poison damage, being poisoned and envenomed for the 1 hour on a failed save, or half damage and no further effect on a successful save.

Moulding Mushroom: This poison is extracted from the Molding Fungi forest. This poison can only be ingested to take effect. A creature whom ingests this poison must succeed a DC 19 Constitution saving throw be paralyzed for 1 hour on a failed save.

Angel's Breath: This poison is a mixed concoction made from Devils Kiss, Moulding Mushroom, and Assassins Blood. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 20 Constitution saving throw becoming Unconscious for 96 Hours (4 Days) on a failed save, or being Slowed, and Weakened for 24 hours on a Successful save.

Zetsubo Petals: This poison is developed using an extremely rare flower only found in the land of Iron. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 21 Constitution saving throw gaining 5 ranks of Envenomed and the Berserk Condition for the next hour on a failed save, or becoming poisoned for 1 hour on a successful save.

Torpor: This poison is given a deceptively simple name considering it is known as one of the top 3 poisonous concoctions in the shinobi world. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 22 Constitution saving throw being poisoned for 1 week, when they would regain hit points by any means, they instead gain 1/4th of the amount they would regain, and taking 10d8 poison damage every 24hours. This poison cannot be neutralized with a Jutsu of Rank, no less than A-Rank on a failed save, or half a much on a successful save.

Black Lilly: This poison is crafted from the mysterious Black lotus Lilly. This flower is so poisonous, when it grows it usually kills all wildlife within 1 mile of it. This flower is known to grow once every year in the Black Forest, in the land of fire. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 23 Constitution saving throw taking 15d8 poison damage every hour for the next 5 hours and gains the poisoned condition. If a creature is within 5 feet of another creature while breathing, the unaffected creature has to succeed a DC 18 Saving throw suffering the same effects as the original creature. This poison can be nullified by a Jutsu of no less than S-Rank.

Malice: This poison was created by a shinobi by the name of Sasori and was long since banned by all villages. This poison is one of legendary fatality. A creature subjected to this poison must succeed a DC 25 Constitution saving throw ignoring resistance or Immunity. On a failed save the affected creature becomes unconscious for 72 hours, and immediately dies at the end of the duration. This poison can be nullified by a Jutsu of no less than S-Rank.

SECURITY KIT

A security kit includes the tools and mechanical components necessary to bypass electronic and mechanical locks. It includes sensor devices, a specialized Radio link designed to detect silent alarms, a small file, a set of lockpicks, a small mirror mounted to an elongated handle, a set of narrow-bladed scissors, and a pair of pliers. Proficiency with these tools lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to disarm traps or open locks.

TRACKING KIT

This kit includes all of the necessary implements to find, mark, and creatures that leave behind any tracks in their movement. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to identify potential directions of a creature you are trying to track.

TRAPPERS KIT

This kit includes all of the necessary implements to prepare and set traps to snare and capture creatures who set them off. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to create a trap of any kind. Also, proficiency with this kit is required to create Traps.

WEAPONSMITH KIT

This kit includes all of the necessary implements to prepare and create mundane weapons while in the presence or access of extreme heat and cooling capabilities. Proficiency with this kit lets you add your proficiency bonus to any ability checks you make to make weapons. Also, proficiency with this kit is required to create Chakra Enhanced Weapons of any type.

SCROLLS

Scrolls in the Naruto Universe are one of the primary tools in a ninja's arsenal. The average sized scroll is small enough that several can be carried at the same time, either in a flak jacket or in a pouch.

Larger scrolls are usually carried on the ninja's back. In addition to writing on scrolls, ninja use them to summon creatures, people, and items, making transportation easier and providing more options when on a mission. Some techniques can also be stored in scrolls with enough time.

There are a variety of scroll types that a shinobi can use to assist in carrying or transporting things.

ITEM SCROLL

This scroll is designed with the intent to seal, and store up to 5 Bulk worth of tools, objects, or miscellaneous items. Items can be stored in this scroll at a rate of 1 bulk per 10 minutes of downtime or during downtime.

You could also purchase these scrolls with items already sealed into them. Such scrolls usually only have a single object sealed inside of it. The more rare or expensive the item, the scroll usually will reflect this cost but with an additional tax for the time used to seal the item.

WEAPON SCROLL

This scroll is designed with the intent to seal, and store Single weapons of no greater than 5 Bulk. Weapons sealed this way usually require 1 hour of prep time to seal into a scroll due to their size in comparison to smaller items in an Item Scroll. Weapons sealed inside of a Weapon scroll can be summoned from the scroll on command as a bonus action. Doing this does destroy the scroll in the process.

When you store Weapons with the ammunition quality, you store 1 full stack (1d8 Ammunition Die) of the weapons in a scroll. You can as a Bonus action restore your Ammunition die of that weapon type, by expending a weapon scroll, with those weapons sealed inside them. Doing this does destroy the scroll in the process.

JUTSU SCROLL

A Jutsu scroll bears the words, formula's and concepts behind a single Ninjutsu or Genjutsu, written in a mystical cipher. If you have a jutsu sealed inside the scroll on your known jutsu list, you can read and cast the stored jutsu as an action without providing any additional components. Otherwise, you require a Ninshou for Ninjutsu or Illusion for Genjutsu, ability check to determine the jutsu sealed inside the scroll. The DC equals 15 + The Jutsu's rank (D-Rank: 1, C-Rank: 2, B-Rank: 3, A-Rank: 4, S-Rank: 5). This DC can be increased or decreased at the DM's discretion based on the probability of you seeing or hearing about this jutsu if at all. Scrolls found or purchased with a Jutsu sealed inside the Scroll have a predefined Save DC and attack bonus based on the rank of the jutsu used. If you want to seal a Jutsu inside a blank Jutsu scroll, it requires a Ninshou or Illusions ability check based on the jutsu sealed, and Downtime to do it.

CHAPTER 6: USING ABILITY SCORES

ix abilities provide a quick description of every creature's physical and mental characteristics:

Strength. measuring physical power

Dexterity. measuring agility

Constitution. measuring endurance and

Stamina

Intelligence. measuring reasoning and memory

Wisdom. measuring awareness and intuition

Charisma. measuring force of personality

Is a character muscle-bound and insightful? Brilliant and charming? Nimble and hardy? Ability scores define these qualities—a creature's assets as well as weaknesses.

The three main rolls of the game—the ability check, the saving throw, and the attack roll—rely on the six ability scores. The book's introduction describes the basic rule behind these rolls: roll a d20, add an ability modifier derived from one of the six ability scores, and compare the total to a target number.

This chapter focuses on how to use ability checks and saving throws, covering the fundamental activities that creature's attempt in the game. Rules for attack rolls appear in chapter 8.

ABILITY SCORES AND MODIFIERS

Each of the creature's abilities has a score, a number that defines the magnitude of that ability. An ability score is not just a measure of innate capabilities, but also encompasses a creature's training and competence in activities related to that ability.

A score of 8 or 9 is the normal human average, but Shinobi and many monsters are a cut above average in most abilities. A score of 18 is the highest that a person usually reaches in their lifetime. Shinobi can have scores as high as 20, and monsters and villains can have scores as high as 30.

Each ability also has a modifier, derived from the score and ranging from -5 (for an ability score of 1) to +10 (for a score of 30). The Ability Scores and Modifiers table notes the ability modifiers for the range of possible ability scores, from 1 to 30.

To determine an ability modifier without consulting the table, subtract 10 from the ability score and then divide the total by 2 (round down).

Because ability modifiers affect almost every attack roll, ability check, and saving throws, ability modifiers come up in play more often than their associated scores.

ADVANTAGE AND DISADVANTAGE

Sometimes a special ability or power tells you that you have advantage or disadvantage on an ability check, a saving throw, or an attack roll. When that happens, you roll a second d20 when you make the roll. Use the higher of the two rolls if you have advantage, and use the lower roll if you have disadvantage. For example, if you have disadvantage and roll a 17 and a 5, you use the 5. If you instead have advantage and roll those numbers, you use the 17.

If multiple situations affect a roll and each one grants advantage or imposes disadvantage on it, you don't roll more than one additional d20. If two favorable situations

Score	Modifier
2-3	-4
4-5	-3
6-7	-2
8-9	-1
10-11	-0
12-13	+1
14-15	+2
16-17	+3
18-19	+4

24-25	+7
26-27	+8
28-29	+9

grant advantage, for example, you still roll only one additional d20.

If circumstances cause a roll to have both advantage and disadvantages, you are considered to have neither of them, and you roll one d20. This is true even if multiple circumstances impose disadvantage and only one grants advantage or vice versa. In such a situation, you have neither advantage or disadvantage.

When you have advantage or disadvantage and something in the game lets you reroll the d20, you can reroll only one of the dice. You choose which one. For example, if Sasuke has advantage on an ability check and rolls a 1 and a 13, then Sasuke could use that feature to reroll the 1.

You usually gain advantage or disadvantage through the use of special abilities, actions, or Jutsu. Will of Fire (see chapter 3) can also give a character advantage on checks related to the character's personality, ideals, or bonds. The GM can also decide that circumstances influence a roll in one direction or the other and grant advantage or impose disadvantage as a result.

PROFICIENCY BONUS

Characters have a proficiency bonus determined by level, as detailed in chapter 1. Monsters also have this bonus, which is incorporated in their stat blocks. The bonus is used in the rules on ability checks, saving throws, Armor Class and attack rolls.

Your proficiency bonus can't be added to a single die roll or other number more than once. For example, if two different rules say you can add your proficiency bonus to a Wisdom saving throw, you nevertheless add the bonus only once when you make the save.

Occasionally, your proficiency bonus might be multiplied or divided (doubled or halved, for example) before you apply it. If a circumstance suggests that your proficiency bonus applies more than once to the same roll, you still add it only once and multiply or divide it only once.

By the same token, if a feature or effect allows you to multiply your proficiency bonus when making an ability check that wouldn't normally benefit from your proficiency bonus, you still don't add the bonus to the check. For that check your proficiency bonus is 0, given the fact that multiplying 0 by any number is still 0. For instance, if you lack proficiency in the History skill, you gain no benefit from a feature that lets you double your proficiency bonus when you make Intelligence (History) checks.

In general, you don't multiply your proficiency bonus for attack rolls or saving throws. If a feature or effect allows you to do so, these same rules apply.

EXPERTISE

Certain features, such as the Expertise class feature or Acrobat feat, let you double your proficiency bonus with a given skill proficiency, granting expertise in that skill. As usual, you can only gain expertise in a skill or tool once.

ABILITY CHECKS

An ability check tests a character or monster's innate talent and training in an effort to overcome a challenge. The GM calls for an ability check when a character or monster attempts an action (other than an attack) that has a chance of failure. When the outcome is uncertain, the dice determine the results.

For every ability check, the GM decides which of the 4 abilities is relevant to the task at hand and the difficulty of the task, represented by Difficulty Class. The more difficult a task, the higher its DC. The Typical Difficulty Classes table shows common DCs.

To make an ability check, roll a d20 and add the relevant ability modifier. As with other d20 rolls, apply bonuses and penalties, and compare the total to the DC. If the total equals or exceeds the DC, the ability check is a success, the creature overcomes the challenge at hand. Otherwise, it's a failure, which means the character or monster makes no progress toward the objective or makes progress combined with a setback determined by the GM.

CONTESTS

Sometimes one character or monster's efforts are directly opposed to another's. This can occur when both of them are trying to do the same thing and only one can succeed, such as attempting to snatch up a ring that has fallen on the floor. This situation also applies when one of them is trying to prevent the other one from accomplishing a goal. For example, when a monster tries to force open a door that an adventurer is holding closed. In situations like these, the outcome is determined by a special form of ability check, called a contest.

Both participants in a contest make ability checks appropriate to their efforts. They apply all appropriate bonuses and penalties, but instead of comparing the total to a DC, they compare the totals of their two checks. The participant with the higher check total wins the contest. That character or monster either succeeds at the action or prevents the other one from succeeding.

If the contest results in a tie, the situation remains the same as it was before the contest. Thus, one contestant might win the contest by default. If two characters tie in a contest to snatch a ring off the floor, neither character grabs it. In a contest between a monster trying to open a door and an adventurer trying to keep the door closed, a tie means that the door remains shut.

SKILLS

Each ability covers a broad range of capabilities, including skills that a character or a monster can be proficient in. A skill represents a specific aspect of an ability score, and an individual's proficiency in a skill demonstrates a focus on that aspect. (A character's starting skill proficiencies are determined at character creation, and the monster's skill proficiencies appear in the monster's stat block.)

For example, a Dexterity check might reflect a character's attempt to pull off an acrobatic stunt, to palm an object, or to stay hidden. Each of these aspects of Dexterity has an associated skill: Acrobatics, Sleight of Hand, and Stealth, respectively. So, a character who has proficiency in the Stealth skill is particularly good at Dexterity checks related to sneaking and hiding.

The skills related to each ability score are shown in the following list. See an ability's description in the later sections of this chapter for examples of how to use a skill associated with an ability.

Strength: Athletics, Martial Arts

Dexterity: Acrobatics, Sleight of Hand, Stealth

Constitution: Chakra Control

Intelligence: Crafting, History, Investigation, Nature, Ninshou

Wisdom: Animal handling, Illusions, Insight, Medicine, Perception, Survival

Charisma: Deception, Intimidation, Performance, Persuasion

Sometimes, the GM might ask for an ability check using a specific skill—for example, "Make a Wisdom (Perception) check." At other times, a player might ask the GM if proficiency in a particular skill applies to a check. In either case, proficiency in a skill means an individual can add his or her proficiency bonus to ability checks that involve that skill. Without proficiency in the skill, the individual makes a normal ability check.

For example, if a character attempts to climb up a dangerous cliff. The Dungeon Master might ask for a Strength (Athletics) check. If the character is proficient in Athletics, the character's proficiency bonus is added to the Strength check. If the character lacks that proficiency, he or she just makes a Strength check.

PASSIVE CHECKS

A passive check is a special kind of ability check that doesn't involve any die rolls. Such a check can represent the average result for a task done repeatedly, such as searching for secret doors over and over again, or can be used when the GM wants to secretly determine whether the characters succeed at something without rolling dice, such as noticing a hidden monster.

Here's how to determine a character's total for a passive check:

10 + all modifiers that normally apply to the check.

If the character has advantage on the check, add 5. For disadvantage, subtract 5. The game refers to a passive check total as a score.

For example, if a 1st-level character has a Wisdom of 15 and proficiency in Perception, he or she has a passive Wisdom (Perception) score of 14.

The rules on hiding in the "Dexterity" section below rely on passive checks, as do the exploration rules in chapter 7.

WORKING TOGETHER

Sometimes two or more characters team up to attempt a task. The character who's leading the effort, or the one with the highest ability modifier, can make an ability check with advantage, reflecting the help provided by the other characters. In combat, this requires the Help action (see chapter 8).

A character can only provide help if the task is one that he or she could attempt alone. For example, trying to open a lock requires proficiency with security kits, so a character who lacks that proficiency can't help another character in that task. Moreover, a character can help only when two or more individuals working together would actually be productive. Some tasks, such as threading a needle, are no easier with help.

GROUP CHECKS

When a number of individuals are trying to accomplish something as a group, the GM might ask for a group ability check. In such a situation, the characters who are skilled at a particular task help cover those who aren't.

To make a group ability check, everyone in the group makes the ability check. If at least half the group succeeds, the whole group succeeds. Otherwise, the group fails.

Group checks don't come up very often, and they're most useful when all the characters succeed or fail as a group. For example, when adventurers are navigating a swamp, the GM might call for a group Wisdom (Survival) check to see if the characters can avoid the quicksand, sinkholes, and other natural hazards of the environment. If at least half the group succeeds, the successful characters are able to guide their companions out of danger. Otherwise, the group stumbles into one of these hazards.

USING EACH ABILITY

Every task that a character or monster might attempt in the game is covered by one of the six abilities. This section explains in more detail what those abilities mean and the ways they are used in the game.

STRENGTH

Strength measures bodily power, athletic training, and the extent to which you can exert raw physical force.

STRENGTH CHECKS

A Strength check can model any attempt to lift, push, pull, or break something, to force your body through a space, or to otherwise apply brute force to a situation.

The Athletics skill reflects aptitude in certain kinds of Strength checks. The Taijutsu Skill reflects your aptitude to use complex Taijutsu maneuvers, and Recognize another creature's physical aptitude in Taijutsu and general knowledge in Taijutsu.

Athletics. Your Strength (Athletics) check covers difficult situations you encounter while Climbing, jumping, or swimming. Examples include the following activities:

- You attempt to climb a sheer or slippery cliff, avoid hazards while scaling a wall, or cling to a surface while something is trying to knock you off.
- You try to jump an unusually long distance or pull off a stunt midjump.
- You struggle to swim or stay afloat in treacherous currents, storm-tossed waves, or areas of thick seaweed. Or another creature tries to push or pull you underwater or otherwise interfere with your swimming.

Martial Arts. Your Strength (Martial Arts) check covers situations you encounter while training, learning, or Encountering Complex Martial arts Maneuvers. This skill can also be Applied to Intelligence to signify more knowledge on a particular maneuver or technique or Dexterity to signify a more agile version or attempt at a Maneuver. This Skill is placed in Strength as a baseline, but applies to these 2 Skills as well. Examples include the following activities:

- You see a Taijutsu and attempt to Identify it if you have seen or heard of it before as a reaction.
- You begin to create the foundations of a new Taijutsu form or technique while training or creating a jutsu
- You clash Taijutsu attacks with another creature and must best them in a bout of Strength or Speed overcoming their skill in their respective technique with your own during a jutsu clash.

Other Strength Checks. The GM might also call for a Strength check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Force open a stuck, locked, or barred door
- Break free of bonds
- Push through a tunnel that is too small
- Hang on to a wagon while being dragged behind it
- Tip over a statue
- Keep a boulder from rolling

ATTACK ROLLS AND DAMAGE

You add your Strength modifier to your attack roll and your damage roll when attacking with a melee weapon such as a Great Axe or Naginata. You use melee weapons to make melee attacks in hand-to-hand combat, and some of them can be thrown to make a ranged attack.

LIFTING AND CARRYING

Your Strength score determines the amount of weight you can bear. The following terms define what you can lift or carry.

Carrying Capacity. Your carrying capacity is your Strength score multiplied by 15. This is the weight (in pounds) that you can carry, which is high enough that most characters don't usually have to worry about it.

Push, Drag, or Lift. You can push, drag, or lift a weight in pounds up to twice your carrying capacity (or 30 times your Strength score). While pushing or dragging weight in excess of your carrying capacity, your speed drops to 5 feet.

Size and Strength. Larger creatures can bear more weight, whereas Tiny creatures can carry less. For each size category above Medium, double the creature's carrying capacity and the amount it can push, drag, or lift. For a Tiny creature, halve these weights.

DEXTERITY

Dexterity measures agility, reflexes, and balance.

DEXTERITY CHECKS

A Dexterity check can model any attempt to move nimbly, quickly, or quietly, or to keep from falling on tricky footing. The Acrobatics, Sleight of Hand, and Stealth skills reflect aptitude in certain kinds of Dexterity checks.

Acrobatics. Your Dexterity (Acrobatics) check covers your attempt to stay on your feet in a tricky situation, such as when you're trying to run across a sheet of ice, balance on a tightrope, or stay upright on a rocking ship's deck. The GM might also call for a Dexterity (Acrobatics) check to see if you can perform acrobatic stunts, including dives, rolls, somersaults, and flips.

Sleight of Hand. Whenever you attempt an act of legerdemain or manual trickery, such as planting something on someone else or concealing an object on your person, make a Dexterity (Sleight of Hand) check. The GM might also call for a Dexterity (Sleight of Hand) check to determine whether you can lift a wallet off another person or slip something out of another person's pocket.

Stealth. Make a Dexterity (Stealth) check when you attempt to conceal yourself from enemies, slink past guards, slip away without being noticed, or sneak up on someone without being seen or heard.

Other Dexterity Checks. The GM might call for a Dexterity check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Control a heavily laden cart on a steep descent
- Steer a chariot around a tight turn
- Pick a lock
- Disable a trap
- Securely tie up a prisoner
- Wriggle free of bonds
- Play a stringed instrument

ATTACK ROLLS AND DAMAGE

You add your Dexterity modifier to your attack roll and your damage roll when attacking with a ranged weapon, such as a Short bow or Shuriken. You can also add your Dexterity modifier to your attack roll and your damage roll when attacking with a melee weapon that has the finesse property, such as a Katana or Broadsword.

ARMOR CLASS

Depending on the armor you wear, you might add some or all of your Dexterity modifier to your Armor Class.

INITIATIVE

At the beginning of every combat, you roll initiative by making a Dexterity check + half your proficiency rounded down. Initiative determines the order of creatures' turns in combat, as described in chapter 8.

STEALTH

When you try to hide, make a Dexterity (Stealth) check. Until you are discovered or you stop hiding, that check total is contested by the Wisdom (Perception) check of any creature that actively searches for signs of your presence.

You can't hide from a creature that can see you, and if you make noise (such as shouting a warning or knocking over a vase), you give away your position. An invisible creature can't be seen, so it can always try to hide. Signs of its passage might still be noticed, however, and it still has to stay quiet.

In combat, most creatures stay alert for signs of danger all around, so if you come out of hiding and approach a creature, it usually sees you. However, under certain circumstances, the Dungeon Master might allow you to stay hidden as you approach a creature that is distracted, allowing you to gain advantage on an attack before you are seen.

Passive Perception. When you hide, there's a chance someone will notice you even if they aren't searching. To determine whether such a creature notices you, the GM compares your Dexterity (Stealth) check with that creature's passive Wisdom (Perception) score, which equals 10 + the creature's Wisdom modifier, as well as any other bonuses or penalties. If the creature has advantage, add 5. For disadvantage, subtract 5.

For example, if a 1st-level character (with a proficiency bonus of +3) has a Wisdom of 15 (a +2 modifier) and proficiency in Perception, he or she has a passive Wisdom (Perception) of 13.

What can you See? one of the main factors in determining whether you can find a hidden creature or object is how well you can see in an area, which might be lightly or heavily obscured. (See Chapter 7)

CONSTITUTION

The Constitution measures health, stamina, vital forces, and Chakra limits.

CONSTITUTION CHECKS

Constitution checks are uncommon. Only one skill applies to Constitution checks and that would be your Chakra Control, the rest of the effects that Constitution provides can be seen as always active, or Passive. Because the endurance this ability represents is largely passive rather than involving a specific effort on the part of a character or monster. A Chakra control check can be used to model you attempting to control your chakra or a jutsu with much finer focus or empowering it beyond its normal parameters. A Constitution check can model your attempt to push beyond normal limits, however.

Chakra Control. Your Constitution (Chakra Control) check covers your attempt to manipulate your chakra in any way. This includes Jutsu Clashes. Additionally, this check is mad whenever you would make a Concentration check to maintain a jutsu your concentrating on.

Other Constitution Checks. The GM might call for a Constitution check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Hold your breath
- March or labor for hours without rest
- Go without sleep
- Survive without food or water
- Quaff an entire stein of sake in one go

HIT POINTS

Your Constitution modifier contributes to your hit points. Typically, you add your Constitution modifier to each Hit Die you roll for your hit points.

If your Constitution modifier changes, your hit points maximum changes as well, as though you had the new modifier from 1st level. For example, if you raise your Constitution score when you reach 4th level and your Constitution modifier increases from +1 to +2, you adjust your hit point maximum as though the modifier had always been +2. So, you add 3 hit points for your first three levels, and then roll your hit points for 4th level using your new modifier. Or if you're 7th level and some effect lower your Constitution score so as to reduce your Constitution modifier by 1, your hit point maximum is reduced by 7.

CHAKRA POINTS

Your Constitution modifier contributes to your chakra points. Typically, you add your Constitution modifier to each Chakra Die you roll for your chakra points. If your Constitution modifier changes, your Chakra point maximum changes as well, as though you had the new modifier from 1st level. For example, if you raise your Constitution score when you reach 4th level and your Constitution modifier increases from +1 to +2, you adjust your Chakra point maximum as though the modifier had always been +2. So, you add 3 Chakra points for your first three levels, and then roll your hit points for 4th level using your new modifier. Or if you're 7th level and some effect lower your Constitution score so as to reduce your Constitution modifier by 1, your Chakra point maximum is reduced by 7.

INTELLIGENCE

Intelligence measures mental acuity, accuracy of recall, and the ability to reason.

INTELLIGENCE CHECKS

An Intelligence check comes into play when you need to draw on logic, education, memory, or deductive reasoning. The Crafting, History, Investigation, Nature, and Ninjutsu skills reflect aptitude in certain kinds of Intelligence checks.

Crafting. Your Intelligence (Crafting) checks measure your ability to appraise, repair, disable, or create objects of varying fields such as Technology, architecture and even demolitions. You can also use this skill to recall information regarding the basics and advanced concepts of Crafting.

History. Your Intelligence (History) check measures your ability to recall information about artifacts, histories, religions, cultures and other known or discovered facts or theories.

Investigation. When you look around for clues and make deductions based on those clues, you make an Intelligence (Investigation) check. You might deduce the location of a hidden object, discern from the appearance of a wound what kind of weapon dealt it, or determine the weakest point in a tunnel that could cause it to collapse. Poring through ancient materials in search of a hidden fragment of knowledge might also call for an Intelligence (Investigation) check.

Nature. Your Intelligence (Nature) check measures your ability to recall lore about terrain, plants and animals, the weather, and natural cycles.

Ninshou. Your Intelligence (Ninshou) check measures your ability to control, enhance, recognize, and create Ninshou of any type you are experienced with. This skill is also used when your ninjutsu with the Clash Keyword Clashes with an opposing Jutsu and a struggle ensues.

Other Intelligence Checks. The GM might call for an Intelligence check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Communicate with a creature without using words
- Estimate the value of a precious item
- Pull together a disguise to pass as a city guard
- Forge a document
- Win a game of skill

WISDOM

Wisdom reflects how attuned you are to the world around you and represents perceptiveness and intuition.

WISDOM CHECKS

A Wisdom check might reflect an effort to read body language, understand someone's feelings, notice things about the environment, or care for an injured person. The Animal Handling, Genjutsu, Insight, Medicine, Perception, and Survival skills reflect aptitude in certain kinds of Wisdom checks.

Animal Handling. When there is any question whether you can calm down a domesticated animal, keep a mount from getting spooked, or intuit an animal's intentions, the GM might call for a Wisdom (Animal Handling) check. You also make a Wisdom (Animal Handling) check to control your mount when you attempt a risky maneuver.

Illusion. Your Wisdom (Illusion) check measures your ability to control, enhance, recognize, and create Genjutsu of any type you are experienced with. This skill is also used when your Genjutsu with the Clash Keyword Clashes with an opposing Jutsu and a struggle ensues.

Insight. Your Wisdom (Insight) check decides whether you can determine the true intentions of a creature, such as when searching out a lie or predicting someone's next move. Doing so involves gleaning clues from body language, speech habits, and changes in mannerisms.

Medicine. A Wisdom (Medicine) check lets you try to stabilize a dying companion or diagnose an illness.

Perception. Your Wisdom (Perception) check lets you spot, hear, or otherwise detect the presence of something. It measures your general awareness of your surroundings and the keenness of your senses. For example, you might try to hear a conversation through a closed door, eavesdrop under an open window, or hear monsters moving stealthily in the forest. Or you might try to spot things that are obscured or easy to miss, whether they are orcs lying in ambush on a road, thugs hiding in the shadows of an alley, or candlelight under a closed secret door.

Survival. The GM might ask you to make a Wisdom (Survival) check to follow tracks, hunt wild game, guide your group through frozen wastelands, identify signs that wolves or Lions live nearby, predict the weather, or avoid quicksand and other natural hazards.

Other Wisdom Checks. The GM might call for a Wisdom check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Get a gut feeling about what course of action to follow

CHARISMA

Charisma measures your ability to interact effectively with others. It includes such factors as confidence and eloquence, and it can represent a charming or commanding personality.

CHARISMA CHECKS

A Charisma check might arise when you try to influence or entertain others, when you try to make an impression or tell a convincing lie, or when you are navigating a tricky social situation. The Deception, Intimidation, Performance, and Persuasion skills reflect aptitude in certain kinds of Charisma checks.

Deception. Your Charisma (Deception) check determines whether you can convincingly hide the truth, either verbally or through your actions. This deception can encompass everything from misleading others through ambiguity to telling outright lies. Typical situations include trying to fast-talk a guard, con a merchant, earn money through gambling, pass yourself off in a disguise, dull someone's suspicions with false assurances, or maintain a straight face while telling a blatant lie.

Intimidation. When you attempt to influence someone through overt threats, hostile actions, and physical violence, the GM might ask you to make a Charisma (Intimidation) check. Examples include trying to pry information out of a prisoner, convincing street thugs to back down from a confrontation, or using the edge of a broken bottle to convince a sneering informant to reconsider a decision.

Performance. Your Charisma (Performance) check determines how well you can delight an audience with music, dance, acting, storytelling, or some other form of entertainment.

Persuasion. When you attempt to influence someone or a group of people with tact, social graces, or good nature, the GM might ask you to make a Charisma (Persuasion) check. Typically, you use persuasion when acting in good faith, to foster friendships, make cordial requests, or exhibit proper etiquette. Examples of persuading others include convincing a Chamberlain to let your party see the king, negotiating peace between warring tribes, or inspiring a crowd of townfolk.

Other Charisma Checks. The GM might call for a Charisma check when you try to accomplish tasks like the following:

- Find the best person to talk to for news, rumors, and gossip

SAVING THROWS

A saving throw—also called a save—represents an attempt to resist a jutsu, a trap, a poison, a disease, or a similar threat. You don't normally decide to make a saving throw; you are forced to make one because your character or monster is at risk of harm.

To make a saving throw, roll a d20 and add the appropriate ability modifier. For example, you use your Dexterity modifier for a Dexterity saving throw.

A saving throw can be modified by a situational bonus or penalty and can be affected by advantage and disadvantages, as determined by the GM.

Each class gives proficiency in at least two saving throws. The Scout-Nin, for example, is proficient in Intelligence saves. As with skill proficiencies, proficiency in a saving throw lets a character add his or her proficiency bonus to saving throws made using a particular ability score. Some monsters have saving throw proficiencies as well.

The Difficulty Class for a saving throw is determined by the effect that causes it. For example, the DC for a saving throw allowed by a Jutsu is determined by the caster's Ninjutsu, Taijutsu, or Genjutsu casting ability and proficiency bonus. The result of a successful or failed saving throw is also detailed in the effect that allows the save. Usually, a successful save means that a creature suffers no harm, or reduced harm, from an effect.

CHAPTER 7: ADVENTURING & MISSIONS

Delving into an ancient Samurai's tomb, slipping through the Land of Waves underground water way in the Mist Village, cutting a fresh trail through the thick jungles in the Land of Fire's Forest of Death are the things that Naruto adventures are made of. Your character in the game might explore forgotten ruins and uncharted lands, uncover dark secrets and sinister plots, slay foul monsters and defeat erroneous criminals. And if all goes well, your character will survive to claim rich rewards and village wide fame and worldwide infamy before embarking on a new adventure or mission.

This chapter covers the basics of the adventuring life, from the mechanics of movement to the complexities of social interaction. The rules for resting are also in this chapter, along with a discussion of the activities your character might pursue between missions.

Whether shinobi are exploring a dusty dungeon or the complex relationships of a noble clan, the game follows a natural rhythm, as outlined in the book's introduction:

1. The GM describes the environment.
2. The players describe what they want to do.
3. The GM narrates the results of their actions.

Typically, the GM uses a map as an outline of the adventure, tracking the characters' progress as they explore enclave corridors or wilderness regions.

The GM's notes, including a key to the map, describe what the adventurers find as they enter each new area. Sometimes, the passage of time and the adventurers' actions determine what happens, so the GM might use a timeline or a flowchart to track their progress instead of a map.

TIME

In situations where keeping track of the passage of time is important, the GM determines the time a task requires. The GM might use a different time scale depending on the context of the situation at hand. In an enclosed environment, the adventurers' movement happens on a scale of minutes. It takes them about a minute to creep down a long hallway, another minute to check for traps on the door at the end of the hall, and a good ten minutes to search the chamber beyond for anything interesting or valuable. In a city or wilderness, a scale of hours is often more appropriate. Adventurers eager to reach the lonely tower at the heart of the forest hurry across those fifteen miles in just under four hours' time.

For long journeys, a scale of days works best. Following the road from the Leaf to the Sand, the adventurers spend four uneventful days before a Bandit ambush interrupts their journey.

In combat and other fast-paced situations, the game relies on rounds, a 6-second span of time described in chapter 8.

MOVEMENT

Swimming across a rushing river, sneaking down a building corridor, scaling a treacherous mountain slope—all sorts of movement play a key role in D&D adventures.

The GM can summarize the adventurers' movement without calculating exact distances or travel times: "You travel through the forest and find the ruin entrance late in the evening of the third day."

Even in a dungeon, particularly a large dungeon or a cave network, the GM can summarize movement between encounters: "After killing the guardian at the entrance to the ancient Uzumaki stronghold, you consult your map, which leads you through miles of echoing corridors to a chasm bridged by a narrow stone arch."

Sometimes it's important, though, to know how long it takes to get from one spot to another, whether the answer is in days, hours, or minutes. The rules for determining travel time depend on two factors: the speed and travel pace of the creatures moving and the terrain they're moving over.

SPEED

Every character and monster have a speed, which is the distance in feet that the character or monster can walk in 1 round. This number assumes short bursts of energetic movement in the midst of a life-threatening situation. The following rules determine how far a character or monster can move in a minute, an hour, or a day.

TRAVEL PACE

While traveling, a group of adventurers can move at a normal, fast, or slow pace, as shown on the Travel Pace table. The table states how far the party can move in a period of time and whether the pace has any effect. A fast pace makes characters less perceptive, while a slow pace makes it possible to sneak around and to search an area more carefully (see the "Activity While Traveling" section later in this chapter for more information).

FORCED MARCH

The Travel Pace table assumes that characters travel for 8 hours within a given day. They can push on beyond that limit, at the risk of exhaustion.

For each additional hour of travel beyond 8 hours, the characters cover the distance shown in the Hour column for their pace, and each character must make a Constitution saving throw at the end of the hour. The DC is $10 + 1$ for each hour past 8 hours. On a failed saving throw, a character suffers one level of exhaustion (see appendix A).

MOUNTS, TRAINS, AND VEHICLES

For short spans of time (up to an hour), many animals move much faster than humanoids. A mounted character can ride at a gallop for about an hour, covering twice the usual distance for a fast pace. If fresh mounts are available every 8 to 10 miles, characters can cover larger distances at this pace, but this is very rare except in densely populated areas.

TRAVEL PACE

Pace	Distance Per Minute	Distance Per Hour	Distance Per Day	Effort
Fast	500ft	5 miles	40 miles	-5 Passive Perception
Normal	300ft	3 miles	24 miles	-
Slow	200ft	2 miles	16 miles	+5 to stealth.

DIFFICULT TERRAIN

The travel speeds given in the Travel Pace table assume relatively simple terrain: roads, open plains, or clear enclosed corridors. But adventurers often face dense forests, deep swamps, rubble-filled ruins, steep mountains, and ice-covered ground—all considered difficult terrain.

You move at half speed in difficult terrain—moving 1 foot in difficult terrain costs 2 feet of speed—so you can cover only half the normal distance in a minute, an hour, or a day.

SPECIAL TYPES OF MOVEMENT

Movement through dangerous dungeons or wilderness areas often involve more than simply walking. Adventurers might have to climb, crawl, swim, or jump to get where they need to go.

WALL RUNNING & WATER WALKING

Unlike the Base version of D&D, Shinobi in the World of Naruto have ways to traverse uniquely difficult terrain such as steep walls, Deep waters, and even walking upside down. Shinobi are taught at a very young age, to mold chakra to the soles of their feet to walk across normally unwalkable surfaces. A Creature with at least 1 chakra point and knows a Jutsu of any type, can spend 1 chakra to activate the abilities of Water walking, and Wall Walking/Running. Once activated, you treat the surface you are walking on as a Solid surface for up to 1 hour. At the end of the hour, you must reactivate this ability to continue to do so. While Water walking or Wall Running, you may stand still or move at normal speed and unless under a unique circumstance, you suffer no Stealth Penalty.

CLIMBING, SWIMMING, AND CRAWLING

In other situations where wall running or water walking is not viable, your character can do any of the aforementioned. While climbing, swimming, or crawling, each foot of movement costs 1 extra foot (2 extra feet in difficult terrain), unless a creature has a climbing or swimming speed. At the GM's option, climbing a slippery vertical surface or one with few handholds requires a successful Strength (Athletics) check. Similarly, gaining any distance in rough water might require a successful Strength (Athletics) check.

JUMPING

Your Strength determines how far you can jump.

Long Jump. When you make a long jump, you cover a number of feet up to twice your Strength score if you move at least 10 feet on foot immediately before the jump. When you make a standing long jump, you can leap only half that distance. Either way, each foot you clear on the jump costs a foot of movement.

This rule assumes that the height of your jump doesn't matter, such as a jump across a stream or chasm. At your GM's option, you must succeed on a DC 10 Strength (Athletics) check to clear a low obstacle (no taller than a quarter of the jump's distance), such as a hedge or low wall. Otherwise, you hit it.

When you land in Difficult Terrain, you must succeed on a DC 10 Dexterity (Acrobatics) check to land on your feet. Otherwise, you land prone.

High Jump. When you make a high jump, you leap into the air a number of feet equal to twice your Strength score if you move at least 10 feet immediately before the jump. When you make a standing high jump, you can jump only half that distance. Either way, each foot you clear on the jump costs a foot of movement. In some circumstances, your GM might allow you to make a Strength (Athletics) check to jump higher than you normally can. You cannot take damage from falling from your own jump's height. If you fall further than your initiated jump height you take falling damage as normal.

ACTIVITY WHILE TRAVELING

As adventurers travel through a dungeon or the wilderness, they need to remain alert for danger, and some characters might perform other tasks to help the group's journey.

Marching Order The adventurers should establish a marching order. A marching order makes it easier to determine which characters are affected by traps, which ones can spot hidden enemies, and which ones are the closest to those enemies when a fight breaks out.

A character might occupy the front rank, one or more middle ranks, or the back rank. Characters in the front and back ranks need enough room to travel side by side with others in their rank. When space is too tight, the marching order must change, usually by moving characters to a middle rank. Fewer Than Three Ranks. If an adventuring party arranges its marching order with only two ranks, they are a front rank and a back rank. If there's only one rank, it's considered a front rank.

STEALTH

While traveling at a slow pace, the characters can move stealthily. As long as they're not in the open, they can try to surprise or sneak by other creatures they encounter.

NOTICING THREATS

Use the passive Wisdom (Perception) scores of the characters to determine whether anyone in the group notices a hidden threat. The GM might decide that a threat can be noticed only by characters in a particular rank. For example, as the characters are exploring a maze of tunnels, the GM might decide that only those characters in the back rank have a chance to hear or spot a stealthy creature following the group, while characters in the front and middle ranks cannot. While traveling at a fast pace, characters take a -5 penalty to their passive Wisdom (Perception) scores to notice hidden threats.

Encountering Creatures. If the GM determines that the adventurers encounter other creatures while they're traveling, it's up to both groups to decide what happens next. Either group might decide to attack, initiate a conversation, run away, or wait to see what the other group does.

Surprising Foes. If the adventurers encounter a hostile creature or group, the GM determines whether the adventurers or their foes might be surprised when combat erupts. See chapter 9 for more about surprise.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Characters who turn their attention to other tasks as the group travels are not focused on watching for danger. These characters don't contribute their passive Wisdom (Perception) scores to the group's chance of noticing hidden threats. However, a character not watching for danger can do one of the following activities instead, or some other activity with the GM's permission.

Navigate. The character can try to prevent the group from becoming lost, making a Wisdom (Survival) check when the GM calls for it. (The Dungeon Master's Guide has rules to determine whether the group gets lost.)

Draw a Map. The character can draw a map that records the group's progress and helps the characters get back on course if they get lost. No ability check is required.

Track. A character can follow the tracks of another creature, making a Wisdom (Survival) check when the GM calls for it. (The Dungeon Master's Guide has rules for tracking.)

Forage. The character can keep an eye out for ready sources of food and water, making a Wisdom (Survival) check when the GM calls for it. (The Dungeon Master's Guide has rules for foraging.)

THE ENVIRONMENT

By its nature, adventuring involves delving into places that are dark, dangerous, and full of mysteries to be explored. The rules in this section cover some of the most important ways in which adventurers interact with the environment in such places. The Dungeon Master's Guide has rules covering more unusual situations.

FALLING

A fall from a great height is one of the most common hazards facing an adventurer.

At the end of a fall, a creature takes 1d6 bludgeoning damage for every 10 feet it fell, to a maximum of 50d6. The creature lands prone, unless it avoids taking damage from the fall. A falling creature falls 500 feet per round.

SUFFOCATING

A creature can hold its breath for a number of minutes equal to 1 + its Constitution modifier (minimum of 30 seconds).

When a creature runs out of breath, it can survive for a number of rounds equal to its Constitution modifier (minimum 1 round). At the start of its next turn, it drops to 0 hit points and is dying.

For example, a creature with a Constitution of 14 can hold its breath for 3 minutes. If it starts suffocating, it has 2 rounds to reach air before it drops to 0 hit points.

VISION AND LIGHT

The most fundamental tasks of adventuring—noticing danger, finding hidden objects, hitting an enemy in combat, and targeting a power, to name just a few—rely heavily on a character's ability to see. Darkness and other effects that obscure vision can prove a significant hindrance. A creature without any additional abilities, features or equipment, on a clear day, can see 1 mile, or until your view is obscured by terrain features. If it's raining, it usually cuts it down to 500 feet and a light Fog cuts it down to 100 feet. While a creature can see 1 mile on a clear day, after 500 feet they lose the ability to discern any distinguishable features such as facial expressions or fine movement from a medium sized creature.

A given area might be lightly or heavily obscured. In a lightly obscured area, such as dim light, patchy fog, or moderate foliage, creatures have disadvantage on Wisdom (Perception) checks that rely on sight.

A heavily obscured area—such as darkness, opaque fog, or dense foliage—blocks vision entirely. A creature in a heavily obscured area effectively suffers from the blinded condition. The presence or absence of light in an environment creates three categories of illumination: bright light, dim light, and darkness.

Bright light let's most creatures see normally. Even gloomy days provide bright light, as do torches, lanterns, fires, and other sources of illumination within a specific radius.

Dim light, also called shadows, creates a lightly obscured area. An area of dim light is usually a boundary between a source of bright light, such as a torch, and surrounding darkness. The soft light of twilight and dawn also counts as dim light. A particularly brilliant full moon might bathe the land in dim light.

Darkness creates a heavily obscured area. Characters face darkness outdoors at night (even most moonlit nights), or within the confines of an unlit dungeon or a subterranean vault.

BLINDSIGHT

A creature with blindsight can perceive its surroundings without relying on sight, within a specific radius. Creatures without eyes and creatures with echolocation or heightened senses have this sense.

CHAKRA SIGHT

A creature with Chakra sight can see Chakra in its pure form. Viewing chakra in this way allows the user to see chakra as a wavy blue aura. In the case of Hyuga's and their Byakugan, they can see the Internal Network of a personal chakra similar to that of a human's blood pathway system, but in this case it's a blue network of chakra veins circulating throughout the body. Most Creature chakra are blue but there are some creatures whose chakras are distinctly different colors either due to the nature of their chakra or the technique they are using. While using Chakra sight, you are able to see creatures' chakras through darkness and cover up to 5 feet thick. Creatures whom chakra you see do not gain advantage against you from being obscured in anyway.

While using Chakra sight, you gain advantage against Genjutsu with the Visual Keyword.

DARKVISION

Many creatures within the Naruto Universe, especially those that dwell underground, have Darkvision. Within a specified range, a creature with Darkvision can see in darkness as if the darkness were dim light, so areas of darkness are only lightly obscured as far as that creature is concerned. However, the creature can't discern color in darkness, only shades of gray.

TRUE SIGHT

A creature with true sight can, out to a specific range, see in normal and enhanced darkness, see invisible creatures and objects, automatically detect visual illusions and succeed on saving throws against them, and perceives the original form of a shape changer or a creature that is transformed by a power.

FOOD & WATER

Characters who don't eat or drink suffer the effects of exhaustion. Exhaustion caused by lack of food or water can't be removed until the character eats and drinks the full required amount.

FOOD

A character needs one pound of food per day and can make food last longer by subsisting on half rations. Eating half a pound of food a day counts as half a day without food. A character can go without food for a number of days equal to 3 + his or her Constitution modifier (minimum 1). At the end of each day beyond that limit, a character automatically suffers one level of exhaustion. A normal day of eating resets the count of days without food to zero.

WATER

A character needs one gallon of water per day, or two gallons per day if the weather is hot. A character who drinks only half that much water must succeed on a DC 15 Constitution saving throw or suffer one level of exhaustion at the end of the day. A character with access to less water automatically suffers one level of exhaustion at the end of the day. If the character already has one or more levels of exhaustion, the character takes two levels in either case.

INTERACTING WITH OBJECTS

A character's interaction with objects in an environment is often simple to resolve in the game. The player tells the GM that his or her character is doing something, such as moving a lever, and the GM describes what, if anything happens. For example, a character might decide to pull a lever, which might, in turn, open a door, cause a room to flood with water, or open a secret door in a nearby wall. If the lever is rusted in position, though, a character might need to force it. In such a situation, the GM might call for a Strength check to see whether the character can wrench the lever into place. The GM sets the DC for any such check based on the difficulty of the task.

Characters can also damage objects with their weapons and Jutsu. Objects are immune to poison & Psychic damage, but otherwise they can be affected by physical attacks and Jutsu much like creatures can. The GM determines an object's Armor Class and hit points, and might decide that certain objects have resistance or immunity to certain kinds of attacks. (It's hard to cut a rope with a club, for example.) Objects always fail Strength and Dexterity saving throws, and they are immune to effects that require other saves. When an object drops to 0 hit points, it breaks. A character can also attempt a Strength check to break an object. The GM sets the DC for any such check.

RESTING

Heroic though they might be, shinobi can't spend every hour of the day in the thick of exploration, social interaction, and combat. They need rest time to sleep and eat, tend their wounds, gather their chakra and recover their stamina. shinobi can take short rests in the midst of an adventuring day and a long rest to end the day.

SHORT REST

A short rest is a period of downtime, at least 1 hour long, during which a character does nothing more strenuous than eating, drinking, reading, and tending to wounds. A character can spend one or more Hit & Chakra dice at the end of a short rest, up to half the character's maximum number of Hit and/or Chakra Dice. For each Hit or Chakra Die spent in this way, the player rolls the die and adds the character's Constitution modifier to it. The character regains hit points and/or Chakra points equal to the total. The player can decide to spend an additional Hit or chakra Die after each roll. A character regains some spent Hit and Chakra Dice upon finishing a long or full rest, as explained below.

LONG REST

A long rest is a longer period of downtime, at least 8 hours long, during which a character sleeps or performs light activity: reading, talking, eating, or standing watch for no more than 2 hours. If the rest is interrupted by a period of strenuous activity—at least 1 hour of walking, fighting, casting Jutsu, or similar adventuring activity—the characters must begin the rest again to gain any benefit from it.

At the end of a long rest, a character regains half of their Maximum hit and chakra points. The character also regains half of their spent Hit and Chakra Dice. For example, if a character has eight hit & chakra Dice, he or she can regain four spent Hit and chakra Dice upon finishing a long rest. This does not Heal Conditions that may last into the Long Rest, such as the Poisoned condition. Characters cannot gain the benefit of a long rest if they are poisoned. A character can't benefit from more than one long rest in a 24-hour period, and a character must have at least 1 hit point at the start of the rest to gain its benefits.

FULL REST

A full rest is a period of extended downtime, at least 24 hours long, during which a character sleeps or performs light activity: reading, talking, eating, or standing watch for no more than 8-12 hours. If the rest is interrupted by a period of strenuous activity—at least 1 hour of walking, fighting, casting Jutsu, or similar adventuring activity—the characters must begin the rest again to gain any benefit from it.

At the end of a full rest, a character regains their Maximum hit and chakra points. The character also regains all of their spent Hit and Chakra Dice. This Heals Conditions that may last into the full Rest, such as the Poisoned condition. A character can't benefit from more than one full rest in a 96-hour period, and a character must have at least 1 hit point at the start of the rest to gain its benefits.

SOCIAL INTERACTION

Exploring dungeons, overcoming obstacles, and slaying monsters are key parts of D&D adventures. No less important, though, are the social interactions that adventurers have with other inhabitants of the world. Interaction takes on many forms. You might need to convince an unscrupulous thief to confess to some malfeasance, or you might try to flatter a lord so that he will spare your life. The GM assumes the roles of any characters who are participating in the interaction that don't belong to another player at the table. Any such character is called a nonplayer character (NPC).

In general terms, an NPC's attitude toward you is described as friendly, indifferent, or hostile. Friendly NPCs are predisposed to help you, and hostile ones are inclined to get in your way. It's easier to get what you want from a friendly NPC, of course. Below you will find a Social Chart for Neutral NPCs that players or DM's may use to track the relationships with non-hostile NPCs and potentially plan social events at each new social Level.

Social interactions have two primary aspects: roleplaying and ability checks.

ROLE PLAYING

Roleplaying is, literally, the act of playing out a role. In this case, it's you as a player determining how your character thinks, acts, and talks.

Roleplaying is a part of every aspect of the game, and it comes to the fore during social interactions. Your character's quirks, mannerisms, and personality influence how interactions resolve.

There are two styles you can use when roleplaying your character: the descriptive approach and the active approach. Most players use a combination of the two styles. Use whichever mix of the two works best for you.

DESCRIPTIVE APPROACH TO ROLEPLAYING

With this approach, you describe your character's words and actions to the GM and the other players. Drawing on your mental image of your character, you tell everyone what your character does and how he or she does it.

For instance, Elease plays the Hyūga, Himari. Himari has a shy and sensitive personality and blames herself for any failures the team may endure. On a Mission, an obnoxious Mercenary sits at Himari's table and tries to strike up a conversation with the Hyūga.

Elease says, "Himari looks down into her lap, never looking this mercenary in the eye, while meekly responding to any conversation he strikes up."

In this example, Elease has conveyed Himari's mood and given the GM a clear idea of her character's attitude and actions.

When using descriptive roleplaying, keep the following things in mind:

- Describe your character's emotions and attitude.
- Focus on your character's intent and how others might perceive it.
- Provide as much embellishment as you feel comfortable with.

Don't worry about getting things exactly right. Just focus on thinking about what your character would do and describing what you see in your mind.

ACTIVE APPROACH TO ROLEPLAYING

If descriptive roleplaying tells your GM and your fellow players what your character thinks and does, active roleplaying shows them. When you use active roleplaying, you speak with your character's voice, like an actor taking on a role. You might even echo your character's movements and body language. This approach is more immersive than descriptive roleplaying, though you still need to describe things that can't be reasonably acted out.

Going back to the example of Elease roleplaying Hyūga above, here's how the scene might play out if Elease used active roleplaying:

Speaking as Himari, Elease says in a Meek, soft voice, "Oh, well, Um, Hi. I don't know why you are sitting here but I'm not all that interested." In his normal voice, Elease then adds, "I Look down and stare into my lap."

REACTIVE APPROACH TO ROLEPLAYING

The GM uses your character's actions and attitudes to determine how an NPC reacts. A cowardly NPC buckles under threats of violence. A stubborn merchant refuses to let anyone badger her. A vain lord laps up flattery. When interacting with an NPC, pay close attention to the GM's portrayal of the NPC's mood, dialogue, and personality. You might be able to determine an NPC's personality traits, ideals, flaws, and bonds, then play on them to influence the NPC's attitude.

Interactions in D&D are much like interactions in real life. If you can offer NPCS something they want, threaten them with something they fear, or play on their sympathies and goals, you can use words to get almost anything you want. On the other hand, if you insult a proud warrior or speak ill of a senator's allies, your efforts to convince or deceive will fall short.

ABILITY CHECKS

In addition to roleplaying, ability checks are key in determining the outcome of an interaction. Your roleplaying efforts can alter an NPC's attitude, but there might still be an element of chance in the situation. For example, your GM can call for a Charisma check at any point during an interaction if he or she wants the dice to play a role in determining an NPC's reactions. Other checks might be appropriate in certain situations, at your GM's discretion.

Pay attention to your skill proficiencies when thinking of how you want to interact with an NPC, and stack the deck in your favor by using an approach that relies on your best bonuses and skills. If the group needs to trick a guard into letting them into a pavilion, the Hunter who is proficient in Deception is the best bet to lead the discussion. When negotiating for a hostage's release, the Scout-Nin with Persuasion should do most of the talking.

BETWEEN ADVENTURES

Between trips to dungeons and battles against ancient evils, adventurers need time to rest, recuperate, and prepare for their next adventure. Many adventurers also use this time to perform other tasks, such as crafting arms and armor, performing research, or spending their hard-earned ryo.

In some cases, the passage of time is something that occurs with little fanfare or description. When starting a new adventure, the GM might simply declare that a certain amount of time has passed and allow you to describe in general terms what your character has been doing. At other times, the GM might want to keep track of just how much time is passing as events beyond your perception stay in motion.

GAINING DOWNTIME

Downtime is a measure of time that is used in-between your missions and adventures. DM's are encouraged to provide players with Downtime after every mission or Adventure to some degree. Normally Downtime is provided in a count of single days, but that can be easily seen as too cumbersome. In Naruto 5E, DM's and Players are provided Downtime in the form of Weeks, a 7-day collection of time. The minimum amount of downtime a player can be given is 1 week. Downtime activities are spent in weeks, usually 8-10 hours of day working on the activity, with the remaining time doing other things such as sleeping, spending time with NPC's or other minor activities but the lion's share being performing your chosen activity.

LIFESTYLE EXPENSES

Between adventures, you choose a particular quality of life and pay the cost of maintaining that lifestyle, as described in chapter 5. Living a particular lifestyle doesn't have a huge effect on your character, but your lifestyle can affect the way other individuals and groups react to you. For example, when you lead a wealthy lifestyle, it might be easier for you to influence the nobles of the city than if you live in poverty.

LIFESTYLE EXPENSES

Lifestyle	Ryo Cost/Week
Wretched	-
Squalid	5
Poor	10
Modest	50
Comfortable	75
Wealthy	100
Unprecedented	250

DOWNTIME ACTIVITIES

Between adventures, the GM might ask you what your character is doing during his or her downtime. Periods of downtime are always in the form a Weeks (1 Week, 2 Weeks, or even 12 Weeks) but each downtime activity requires a certain number of weeks to complete before you gain any benefit, and at least 8-10 hours of each day within the week, must be spent on the downtime activity for the week to count. The weeks do not need to be consecutive. If you have more than the minimum number of weeks to spend, you can keep doing the same thing for a longer period of time, or switch to a new downtime activity.

Downtime activities other than the ones presented below are possible. If you want your character to spend his or her downtime performing an activity not covered here, discuss it with your GM.

Downtime Activities

- Carousing
- Crafting Non-Enhanced Items
- Crafting Chakra-Enhanced Items
- Learning a Jutsu
- Creating a Jutsu
- Customizing a Jutsu
- Recuperating
- Researching
- Shopping
- Training

CAROUSING

You choose whether to spend time with the lower, middle, or upper class, costing 10, 50, and 250 Ryo per week respectively. If you want to spend time with the upper class, you'll either need access to the local nobility or be disguised with one. During the week you mingle, party, and socialize with members of that social class. At the end of the week, you gain a number of contacts within that class. Some examples are criminals in the lower class, soldiers in the middle class, and nobles in the upper class. This option is great for collecting allies and intel, especially if you are new to the area. If your character is a charismatic one who needs information, then you should carouse as much as you can.

CRAFTING NON-ENHANCED ITEMS

You can craft unenhanced objects, including adventuring equipment and works of art. You must be proficient with tools related to the object you are trying to create (typically artisan or crafting tools). You might also need access to special materials or locations necessary to create it. For example, someone proficient with crafting tools needs a forge in order to craft a sword or suit of armor.

For every week of downtime, you spend crafting, you can craft one or more items with a total market value not exceeding 75 Ryo, and you must expend raw materials worth half the total market value. If something you want to craft has a market value greater than 75 Ryo, you make progress every Week in 75 Ryo increments until you reach the market value of the item. For example, a Reinforced Chunin Jacket (market value 750 Ryo) takes 10\Weeks to craft by yourself.

Multiple characters can combine their efforts toward the crafting of a single item, provided that the characters all have proficiency with the requisite tools and are working together in the same place. Each character contributes 75 Ryo worth of effort for every week spent helping to craft the item. For example, three characters with the requisite tool proficiency and the proper facilities can craft a Reinforced Chunin Jacket in 3 weeks, at a total cost of 750 Ryo.

While crafting, you can maintain a modest lifestyle without having to pay 20 Ryo per Week. If you have expertise in your chosen tool, you can instead maintain a comfortable lifestyle without having to pay 40 Ryo per Week.

CRAFTING CHAKRA-ENHANCED ITEMS

You can craft Chakra Enhanced objects, including Jutsu Scrolls and Chakra-Enhanced Weapons. You must be proficient with a Weaponsmith Kit or Armorsmith Kit and be able to access a Sealsmith Forge. A Sealsmith forge is a special location dedicated towards modifying and augmenting normally mundane weapons and tools.

The process to create a Chakra enhanced item can feel long or arduous. While unlike normal Crafting where you need raw materials and a forge to melt down different materials to get the required results, this is less of an art and more focused in the realm of both Alchemy and science. When you want to craft a chakra enhanced item you must first begin to decide on how you wish to upgrade this weapon by spending 1 Week of Downtime to find the required materials for the Seal you wish to carve into your weapon or armor. All but the most legendary or even sentient weapons and armor can be infused with an Enhancement seal.

ENHANCEMENT SEAL

An Enhancement seal is a special form of Fuinjutsu that combine blacksmithing with Ninshou Seal weaving. Enhancement seals are what make Chakra Enhanced weapons so special. All mundane weapons and armor have the potential to have up to 5 Seals imbued upon them. This seal allotment is coequally known as Seal Slots.

These Seals are organized in the standard Rank System that proliferates the Shinobi World of D-Rank all the way up to S-Rank. Each seal tier have their own list of Seal, their own Ryo Cost, and some seals even increase the difficulty to infuse them onto your item of choice.

Much like Ninjutsu, shinobi must be of appropriate level in order to utilize and in many cases, even wield Chakra Enhanced weapons. In order to wield these weapons, you must be of the appropriate level. If even one seal infused on your weapon is of a higher rank, the weapon is counted as the highest rank imbued on it.

ENHANCEMENT SEAL MINIMUM LEVEL REQUIREMENT

Item Rank	Minimum Level
D-Rank	Level 1+
C-Rank	Level 5+
B-Rank	Level 9+
A-Rank	Level 13+
S-Rank	Level 17+

While most seals do not increase difficulty there is a standard Difficulty level based on the Rank of the chosen seal.

ENHANCEMENT SEAL CRAFTING DC

Item Rank	Minimum Crafting DC
D-Rank	15
C-Rank	18
B-Rank	21
A-Rank	24
S-Rank	27

Unlike normal Crafting when you are imbuing an item if you fail the Ability check, you don't lose out on all the material or cost, you instead lose time. You waste the Downtime spent working on the item, and must commit at least half of the listed time again towards recreating the seals. with an Enhancement seal, you must be mindful of a few restrictions;

- Seals of the Same name, do not stack.
- Seals of different names, do stack.
- Your weapon carries the same Downtime cost as the highest ranked Seal being imbued on your item.
- Regardless of who makes this item, if the wielder is not of the appropriate level, they do not gain proficiency with the weapon regardless of outside features of effects. Additionally, if it is armor, they do not gain the benefit of the armor's new effects.
- You must be proficient with the imbued item in order to use it effectively.

Seals of different ranks, occupy more of your weapons or armors Seal slots based on the rank of the seal. So be sure to plan ahead.

ENHANCEMENT SEAL SLOT ALLOTMENT

Enhancement Rank	Slots used
D-Rank	1
C-Rank	2
B-Rank	3
A-Rank	4
S-Rank	5

Finally, different seals regardless of rank carry their own Ryo cost to have them imbued. Normally the cost located in the Seals description is how much the seals materials cost in the market place for you to craft yourself. But if you wish to pay for someone else, such as a Sealsmith to imbue your weapons for you, there is a premium on this service. Increase the cost of your chosen seal(s) by 25%.

CHAKRA ENHANCED ITEM DOWNTIME COST

Item Rank	Downtime Cost
D-Rank	2 Week
C-Rank	4 Weeks
B-Rank	14 Weeks
A-Rank	24 Weeks
S-Rank	51 Weeks

LEARNING/ CREATING A JUTSU

You can spend time between adventures learning a new Jutsu that your master, your ally or your Mentor may know and you want to learn or you may want to create a new path, by creating your own jutsu. Learning or Creating jutsu does not count against your Jutsu known for your class

LEARNING A JUTSU

When you want to train towards Learning a New Jutsu, you must spend Downtime towards adding that jutsu to your Known jutsu list. After picking the jutsu you wish to learn, you must get the holder/owner of that particular jutsu to begin teaching you. Learning a Jutsu may be a grand experience that the DM can draw out for story purposes, but there are a few requirements that must be met.

- You cannot learn Jutsu more than 1 rank Above when you are able to learn Normally. (A Level 4 character can spend his Downtime to learn up to a C-Rank Jutsu, but not a B-Rank since a B Rank is two ranks higher than what he can at his level, which is D-Rank)
- You must have the Nature Affinity to learn a Jutsu with such a requirement. (You cannot learn a Fire Release Jutsu, if you only have Wind Affinity.)

You must commit a specified amount of Downtime towards learning this jutsu. (This downtime does not need to be at the same time.)

LEARNING A JUTSU

Jutsu Rank	Self-Taught Downtime Cost	Master Taught Downtime cost
E-Rank	3-Weeks	1-Week
D-Rank	5-Weeks	3-Weeks
C-Rank	10-Weeks	6-Weeks
B-Rank	21-Weeks	13-Weeks
A-Rank	52-Weeks	33 Weeks
S-Rank	80-Weeks	48 Weeks

CREATING A JUTSU

When you want to train towards Creating a Jutsu you are embarking on a journey that no one else has. The Jutsu you may create may be a minor form of Medical ninjutsu, or it may be an all-powerful multi-Elemental Jutsu. Either way this is a much more difficult and involved process than Learning a Jutsu. As a Jutsu creator, you must not only create the Jutsu's Effects, but you must decide how much power it has, how much chakra it costs and the requirements needed to even perform it. Do you need the Visual prowess of the Sharingan to pull this jutsu off? Do you need the Massive reserves of chakra like an Uzumaki to use it? Do you only need to have access to the Wind Affinity to use it? These are considerations you must undertake to begin the process of Jutsu Creation.

Either way, if you decide to Create a Jutsu, you must follow the following Building Path to achieve such a Goal. While Building your Jutsu, you will encounter points where you have to select Keywords to add to the Jutsu's overall build. Certain Keywords will Increase or Decrease the final chakra cost of the Jutsu, you add all of the selected Keywords costs together to get the final Chakra cost of your jutsu.

STEP ONE: DEVELOPING THE CONCEPT OF YOUR JUTSU

The first step of developing your own Jutsu (Or even creating a Variation of one that you already know) is to first figure out the type of jutsu it will be. Classifying your Jutsu allows you to create the core requirements of the Jutsu itself. By selecting one of the following Jutsu Types you set the path you must follow for the rest of this journey building this Jutsu.

- Ninjutsu- Molding Chakra to perform a technique that interacts with a creature or the world.
- Taijutsu- Using martial Arts techniques with or without weapons to attack or defend with one's body.
- Genjutsu- Molding Chakra to manipulate a creature's 5 senses into believing one aspect of reality that they are experiencing.

Once you have the Concept of your Jutsu decided you will go direction to your Jutsu's, Creation section. Each section carries its own list of Rules, Range Increments, Damage types, Keywords etc.

NINJUTSU CREATION RULES

STEP TWO: NINJUTSU PREREQUISITE(S), COMPONENTS & RANGE

The second step of developing your ninjutsu is to figure out the base requirements, how this new Jutsu is activated regarding its Components, and whether it will be a Ranged or Melee Jutsu. While Selecting the Required Keywords for your Jutsu, keep in mind Select Jutsu Types have Mandatory Components and regardless of what type of jutsu you make your jutsu must have at least 1 Component. If your jutsu does not have a Requirement in the list (Such as in the Requirement Keywords) then you may skip that Step. But most Jutsu encompass all or some of these Categories.

The fourth and Final step is to clarify the final rank, cost and downtime cost of Your Jutsu, while also coming up with a memorable name.

When you are finalizing your jutsu there are a few things you need to do in order to also get the final Rank of this new Jutsu.

First take your Jutsu's damage die (If any) and average the amount of potential damage it can deal. This is done by taking the damage die (D4, D6, D8, D10, D12) and using the dies Average. (D4 is 3, D6 is 4, D8 is 5, D10 is 6, D12 is 7). (If your Jutsu has the Unarmed keyword, you do not use your current damage die for this calculation.)

Second you take this average and Multiply it by the number of damage die your jutsu has and compare it to the table below to determine the Rank of the Jutsu and the Downtime cost associated with it.

If your jutsu does not deal damage, then you instead use the Chakra Cost Column of the table below to determine the Rank of the Jutsu and the Downtime cost associated with it.

FINAL TAIJUTSU DAMAGE & RANK CORRELATION

JUTSU CREATION EXAMPLE(S)

GIANT RASENGAN

Step One: Developing the Concept of your Jutsu.

Giant Rasengan is a Ninjutsu, which should be apparent from the way the show and manga presents it. We already know from the show what we need it to do. We need it to be a powerful, explosive force when we hit an enemy with it.

Step Two: Requirement, Component & Range Keywords.

Giant Rasengan does not have any Clan or Nature affinity Keywords, it is also a Touch Jutsu since Naruto has to be in Punching Range. Finally, the only Component it requires of Naruto is for him to be able to Mold Chakra so Chakra Molding is the only Component he needs.

Where are we so far?

Currently Giant Rasengan looks like this:

GIANT RASENGAN

Classification: Ninjutsu

Rank: -

Casting Time: -

Range: Touch

Duration: Instant

Components: CM

Cost: 1 Chakra

Keywords: -

Description: -

Step Three: Damage Types, Range, Effect Keywords.

Giant Rasengan is a powerful attack but generally has no damage type other than the extreme drilling force of the spinning chakra, so we will pick force as the damage type. +3

Next, we will skip the jutsu range options since our jutsu is a touch range one.

Next, we will select our list of jutsu keywords going in order we select:

Clash: The Rasengan's biggest appeal comes when he clashes with Sasuke's Chidori. +1 Chakra Cost.

Damage: Due to the Giant Rasengan being a Powerful Jutsu, we will apply the Damage Keyword 7 Times just to ensure we add to its umph. (10d4) +7 Chakra Cost.

Empowered Damage: We will Increase the Damage die Twice. Raising it up to a d8. (10d8) +4 Chakra Cost Knock Back: The Giant Rasengan has an extremely powerful knockback effect in the show. So, to find a baseline we will make it a 30ft Knock back, far enough to create distance but short enough to where Naruto can't re-engage in combat next round. +3 Chakra Cost.

After collecting all of the Keywords effects and Chakra Cost of our New Jutsu Here is how it will look.

GIANT RASENGAN

Classification: Ninjutsu

Rank: -

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: Instant

Components: CM

Cost: 19 Chakra

Keywords: Ninjutsu, Damage (Empowered), Knock Back, Clash

Description: You generate a Powerful sphere of spiraling chakra to strike an enemy with. Make a Melee Ninjutsu Attack. On a Hit, the target creature takes 10d8 Force Damage and must make a Strength Saving throw vs your Ninjutsu Save DC, on a failure they are knocked back 30ft.

Step Four: Finalizing the Cost, Name

Giant Rasengan is complete for the most part. Now we need to figure out the final rank of the jutsu. We take the Average of the Damage die. (D8 is 5) We then multiply this by the number of damage die the jutsu has (10).

$10 * 5 = 50$. Looking at the above Chart. Giant Rasengan ends up being an A-Rank jutsu.

GIANT RASENGAN

Classification: Ninjutsu

Rank: A-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: Instant

Components: CM

Cost: 19 Chakra

Keywords: Ninjutsu, Damage (Empowered), Knock Back, Clash

Description: You generate a Powerful sphere of spiraling chakra to strike an enemy with. Make a Melee Ninjutsu Attack. On a Hit, the target creature takes 10d8 Force Damage and must make a Strength Saving throw vs your Ninjutsu Save DC, on a failure they are knocked back 30ft.

CUSTOMIZING A JUTSU

Sometimes you don't want to create something new from scratch. Sometimes you want to modify something, making it your own. This process is called Jutsu Customization, or Customizing a Jutsu. This process will allow you to take an already defined jutsu that you know and modify its mechanics in multiple ways. You can take the simple Fireball Jutsu and modify it, enhancing it with Lightning Release, so you breathe a ball of multi-elemental destruction, without having to start from scratch.

As a Jutsu's Customizer, you must work with a jutsu that already exists and has predefined limitations built in for you to push to their breaking points.

Select one Jutsu that you know. This jutsu is one you begin to modify its core functions, mechanics and potential.

CUSTOMIZING A JUTSU RULES

STEP ONE: MODIFYING YOUR JUTSU'S CORE COMPONENTS

The First potential step of customizing/modifying your jutsu is to modify their base component requirements. Changing how this new Jutsu's version is activated regarding its Components. You can choose to add additional components or remove existing ones at varying chakra cost adjustments. If you do not want to modify this jutsu's component keywords, then you may skip this step.

COMPONENT KEYWORDS

Component Keyword	Removing Chakra Cost	Adding Chakra Cost	Downtime Cost
Hand Seals (HS)	+1	-1	1-Week
Chakra Seals (CS)	+1	-1	2-Week(s)
Weapon (W)	+1	-1	1-Week
Ninja Tools (NT)	+1	-1	1-Week

STEP TWO: MODIFYING YOUR JUTSU'S CORE KEYWORDS

The Second potential step of customizing/modifying your jutsu is to modify the base keyword requirements, changing how this new jutsu interacts with the world.

Ninjutsu

- You cannot remove the Ninjutsu Keyword
- If your Jutsu does not have a Nature Release Keyword, you can choose to add it so long as you can cast jutsu with that keyword. Adding a Nature release keyword in this way changes the damage type to match the corresponding Nature release.
- If your jutsu already has a nature release keyword, you cannot remove that keyword.
- If your jutsu already has a nature release keyword, you may add additional nature release keywords. For each additional nature release keyword, your jutsu's damage is evenly split between each new damage type.

Taijutsu

- If your Jutsu has the Finisher Keyword you cannot remove it.
- You cannot remove the Taijutsu or Bukijutsu Keywords

Genjutsu

- You cannot remove the Genjutsu Keyword.
- If you remove a Sensory Keyword (Visual, Auditory, Inhale etc.) you must replace it with another Sensory keyword.
- You cannot remove the Fuinjutsu Keyword.

CORE KEYWORDS

Core Keywords	Removing Chakra Cost	Adding Chakra Cost	Downtime Cost
Medical	-1	+1	1-Week
Fuinjutsu	-1	+1	1-Week
Earth Release	-	+2	3-Week
Wind Release	-	+2	3-Week
Fire Release	-	+2	3-Week
Water Release	-	+2	3-Week
Lightning Release	-	+2	3-Week
Visual	-2	+2	2-Week
Auditory	-1	+1	2-Week
Inhale	-1	+1	2-Week
Tactile	-1	+1	2-Week
Clash	-1	+1	2-Week
Finisher	-1	+1	1-Week

STEP THREE: MODIFYING YOUR JUTSU'S RANGE

The Third potential step of customizing/modifying your jutsu is to modify its range. Follow the following guide in regards to modifying your jutsu's range.

JUTSU RANGE

Component Keyword	Decreasing Range Chakra Cost	Increasing Range Chakra Cost	Downtime Cost
Jutsu Range	-1	+1	1-Week Per Increment

SELF

If your Jutsu has a range of self, the next range increment would be Touch. You cannot reduce range below Self

TOUCH

If your Jutsu has a range of touch, the next range increment would be 15 feet. If you reduce the Range, the range becomes Self.

RANGED

If your Jutsu has any range of 10 feet or greater, for each additional range increase, the range of the jutsu increases by double its current range. If you reduce the range, reduce the range by half to a minimum of 5 feet, which is counted as touch.

AREA OF EFFECT

If your Jutsu has an area of effect, such as a Sphere, Line, Cone, cylinder, cube or any other shape, for each additional range increase, the size of this jutsu increases by 10 feet. If you reduce the area of effect size it decreases by 10 feet.

STEP FOUR: MODIFYING DAMAGE & EFFECTS

The fourth Step of jutsu modification comes down to altering the strength and power behind your chosen jutsu.

JUTSU EFFECT KEYWORDS

All Jutsu, at their core imparts some effect. Effects can include Damage, a new Condition such as poisoned or burned, being stunned, a healing effect, or a defensive effect. While modifying your Jutsu, you manipulate the jutsu's core formula changing things ever so slightly.

The Final step is to clarify the final rank, cost and downtime cost of Your Jutsu, while also coming up with a memorable name.

When you are finalizing your jutsu there are a few things you need to do in order to also get the final Rank of this new Jutsu.

First take your Jutsu's damage (If any) and average the amount of potential damage it can deal. This is done by taking the damage die (D4, D6, D8, D10, D12) and using the dies Average. (D4 is 3, D6 is 4, D8 is 5, D10 is 6, D12 is 7).

Second you take this average and Multiply it by the number of damage die your jutsu has and compare it to the table below to determine the Rank of the Jutsu and the Downtime cost associated with it.

If your jutsu does not deal damage, then you instead use the Chakra Cost Column of the table below to determine the Rank of the Jutsu and the Downtime cost associated with it.

RECUPERATING

You can use downtime between adventures to recover from a debilitating injury, disease, or poison.

After 1 Week of downtime spent recuperating, you can make a DC 15 Constitution saving throw. On a successful save, you can choose one of the following results:

- End one effect on you that prevents you from regaining hit points.
- For the next week, gain advantage on saving throws against one disease or poison currently affecting you.

RESEARCHING

The time between adventures is a great chance to perform research, gaining insight into mysteries that have unfurled over the course of the campaign. Research can include poring over dusty tomes and crumbling scrolls in a library or buying drinks for the locals to pry rumors and gossip from their lips.

When you begin your research, the GM determines whether the information is available, how many weeks of downtime it will take to find it, and whether there are any restrictions on your research (such as needing to seek out a specific individual, tome, or location). The GM might also require you to make one or more ability checks, such as an Intelligence (Investigation) check to find clues pointing toward the information you seek, or a Charisma (Persuasion) check to secure someone's aid. Once those conditions are met, you learn the information if it is available.

SHOPPING

You can use downtime between adventures to go on a little shopping spree looking for the best possible deals on the items you are looking to buy. For 1 week of downtime, you search high and low, potentially traveling to other villages, towns, or cities to find the items you are looking for. Items you find have a 5d4 percent price reduction in the shop they reside in due to your dedication to looking for a good deal.

TRAINING

You can spend time between adventures, learning a new language, training with a set of tools, gaining a new Feat, or Learning a new Weapon. First, you must find an instructor willing to teach you. The GM determines how long it takes, and whether one or more ability checks are required. The training lasts for 25 Weeks and costs 50 Ryo per week. After you spend the requisite amount of time and money, you learn the new language, weapon, feat or gain proficiency with the new tool.

CHAPTER 8: COMBAT

The shrieks of kunai cutting through the air flying overhead. The clash of an Uchiha's Fireball colliding against a Hyuga's Palm Rotation. The crackle of lightning emanating from a powerful shinobi's hands as he yells in despair. The sharp tang of blood in the air, cutting through the stench of vile monsters. Roars of fury, shouts of triumph, cries of pain. Combat in D&D can be chaotic, deadly, and thrilling.

This chapter provides the rules you need for your characters and monsters to engage in combat, whether it is a brief skirmish or an extended conflict in a dungeon or on a field of battle. Throughout this chapter, the rules address you, the player or Game Master. The Game Master controls all the monsters and nonplayer characters involved in combat, and each other player controls an adventurer. "You" can also mean the character or monster that you control.

THE ORDER OF COMBAT

A typical combat encounter is a clash between two sides, a flurry of weapon swings, feints, parries, footwork, Ninjutsu casting, Genjutsu Illusions, and Taijutsu techniques. The game organizes the chaos of combat into a cycle of rounds and turns. A round represents about 6 seconds in the game world. During a round, each participant in a battle takes a turn. The order of turns is determined at the beginning of a combat encounter, when everyone rolls initiative. Once everyone has taken a turn, the fight continues to the next round if neither side has defeated the other.

SURPRISE

A squad of shinobi sneaks up on a Mercenary camp, springing from cover to attack them. Ninja Hounds patrol a hallway, leashed to their handler, unnoticed by the shinobi until the hound smells one of them. In these situations, one side of the battle gains surprise over the other.

The GM determines who might be surprised. If neither side tries to be stealthy, they automatically notice each other. Otherwise, the GM compares the Dexterity (Stealth) checks of anyone hiding with the passive Wisdom (Perception) score of each creature on the opposing side. Any character or monster that doesn't notice a threat is surprised at the start of the encounter. If you're surprised, you can't move or take an action on your first turn of combat, and you can't take a reaction until that turn ends. A member of a group can be surprised even if the other members aren't.

YOUR TURN

On your turn, you can move a distance up to your speed and take one action. You decide whether to move first or take your action first. Your speed—sometimes called your walking speed—is noted on your character sheet. The most common actions you can take are described in the "Actions in Combat" section later in this chapter. Many class features and other abilities provide additional options for your action.

The "Movement and Position" section later in this chapter gives the rules for your move.

You can forgo moving, taking an action, or doing anything at all on your turn. If you can't decide what to do on your turn, consider taking the Dodge or Ready action, as described in "Actions in Combat."

COMBAT: STEP BY STEP

- 1) Determine surprise. The GM determines whether anyone involved in the combat encounter is surprised.
- 2) Establish positions. The GM decides where all the characters and monsters are located. Given the adventurers' marching order or their stated positions in the room or other location.
- 3) Roll initiative. Everyone involved in the combat encounter rolls initiative, determining the turn order.
- 4) Take turns. Each participant in the battle takes a turn in initiative order.
- 5) Begin the next round. When everyone involved in the combat has had a turn, the round ends. Repeat step 4 until the fighting stops.

BONUS ACTIONS

Various class features, Jutsu, and other abilities let you take an additional action on your turn called a bonus action. The Flurry of Blows feature, for example, allows a Taijutsu Specialist to take a bonus action. You can take a bonus action only when a special ability, Jutsu, or other feature of the game states that you can do something as a bonus action. You otherwise don't have a bonus action to take. You can take only one bonus action on your turn, so you must choose which bonus action to use when you have more than one available.

You choose when to take a bonus action during your turn, unless the bonus action's timing is specified, and anything that deprives you of your ability to take actions also prevents you from taking a bonus action.

OTHER ACTIVITIES ON YOUR TURN

Your turn can include a variety of flourishes that require neither your action nor your move.

You can communicate however you are able, through brief utterances and gestures, as you take your turn. You can also interact with one object or feature of the environment for free, during either your move or your action. For example, you could open a door during your move as you stride toward a foe, or you could draw your weapon as part of the same action you use to attack. If you want to interact with a second object, you need to use your action. Some modified items and other special objects always require an action to use, as stated in their descriptions.

The GM might require you to use an action for any of these activities when it needs special care or when it presents an unusual obstacle. For instance, the GM could reasonably expect you to use an action to open a stuck door or turn a crank to lower the drawbridge.

INTERACTING WITH OBJECTS AROUND YOU

Here are a few examples of the sorts of things you can do in tandem with your movement and action:

- Draw or stow a weapon
- Open or close a door
- Withdraw a Chakra Pill from your pack
- Pick up a dropped weapon
- Take an item from a table

- Remove a ring from your finger
- Stuff some food into your mouth
- Plant a banner in the ground
- Fish a few Ryo from your wallet
- Drink all the liquid in a glass
- Throw a lever or a switch
- Pull a glow stick from a leg Pouch.
- Take a book from a shelf you can reach
- Extinguish a small flame
- Don a mask
- Pull the hood of your cloak up and over your head
- Put your ear to a door
- Kick a small stone
- Turn a key in a lock
- Tap the floor with a 10-foot pole
- Hand an item to another character

REACTIONS

Certain special abilities, Jutsu's, and situations allow you to take a special action called a reaction. A reaction is an instant response to a trigger of some kind, which can occur on your turn or on someone else's. The opportunity attack, described later in this chapter, is the most common type of reaction.

When you take a reaction, you can't take another one until the start of your next turn. If the reaction interrupts another creature's turn, that creature can continue its turn right after the reaction.

MOVEMENT AND POSITION

In combat, characters and monsters are in constant motion, often using movement and position to gain the upper hand.

On your turn, you can move a distance up to your speed. You can use as much or as little of your speed as you like on your turn, following the rules here.

Your movement can include jumping, climbing, and swimming. These different modes of movement can be combined with walking, or they can constitute your entire move. However, you're moving, you deduct the distance of each part of your move from your speed until it is used up or until you are done moving.

The "Special Types of Movement" section in Chapter 7 gives the particulars for jumping, climbing, and swimming.

BREAKING UP YOUR MOVE

You can break up your movement on your turn, using some of your speed before and after your action. For example, if you have a speed of 30 feet, you can move 10 feet, take your action, and then move 20 feet.

MOVING BETWEEN ATTACKS

If you take an action that includes more than one attack, you can break up your movement even further by moving between those attacks. For example, a Scout-Nin who can make two attacks with the Extra Attack feature and who has a speed of 25 feet could move 10 feet, make an attack, move 15 feet, and then attack again.

USING DIFFERENT SPEEDS

If you have more than one speed, such as your walking speed and a flying speed, you can switch back and forth between your speeds during your move. Whenever you switch, subtract the distance you've already moved from the new speed. The result determines how much farther you can move. If the result is 0 or less, you can't use the new speed during the current move.

For example, if you have a flying speed of 30 and a walking speed of 60 because you cast the Chakra Movement Technique on yourself, you could walk 20 feet, then fly 10 feet, and then land to walk 30 feet more.

DIFFICULT TERRAIN

Combat rarely takes place in bare rooms or on featureless plains. Boulder-strewn caverns, briar-choked forests, treacherous staircases—the setting of a typical fight contains difficult terrain.

Every foot of movement in difficult terrain costs 1 extra foot. This rule is true even if multiple things in a space count as difficult terrain.

Low furniture, rubble, undergrowth, steep stairs, snow, and shallow bogs are examples of difficult terrain. The space of another creature, whether hostile or not, also counts as difficult terrain.

BEING PRONE

Combatants often find themselves lying on the ground, either because they are knocked down or because they throw themselves down. In the game, they are prone, a condition described in the Conditions chapter.

You can drop prone without using any of your speed. Standing up takes more effort; doing so costs an amount of movement equal to half your speed. For example, if your speed is 30 feet, you must spend 15 feet of movement to stand up. You can't stand up if you don't have enough movement left or if your speed is 0.

To move while prone, you must crawl or use Justus that teleport. Every foot of movement while crawling costs 1 extra foot. Crawling 1 foot in difficult terrain, therefore, costs 3 feet of movement.

MOVING AROUND OTHER CREATURES

You can move through a non-hostile creature's space. In contrast, you can move through a hostile creature's space only if the creature is at least two sizes larger or smaller than you. Remember that another creature's space is difficult terrain for you.

Whether a creature is a friend or an enemy, you can't willingly end your move in its space.

If you leave a hostile creature's reach during your move, you provoke an opportunity attack, as explained later in the chapter.

FLYING MOVEMENT

Flying creatures enjoy many benefits of mobility, but they must also deal with the danger of falling. If a flying creature is knocked prone, has its speed reduced to 0, or is otherwise deprived of the ability to move, the creature falls, unless it has the ability to hover.

CREATURE SIZE

Each creature takes up a different amount of space. The Size Categories table shows how much space a creature of a particular size controls in combat. Objects sometimes use the same size categories.

SIZE CATEGORIES

Size	Space
Tiny	5 by 5 ft.
Small	5 by 5 ft.
Medium	5 by 5 ft.
Large	10 by 10 ft.
Huge	15 by 15 ft.

SPACE

A creature's space is the area in feet that it effectively controls in combat, not an expression of its physical dimensions. A typical Medium creature isn't 5 feet wide, for example, but it does control a space that wide. If a Medium Hyūga stands in a 5-foot-wide doorway, other creatures can't get through unless the Hyūga lets them. A creature's space also reflects the area it needs to fight effectively. For that reason, there's a limit to the number of creatures that can surround another creature in combat. Assuming Medium combatants, eight creatures can fit in a 5-foot radius around another one. Because larger creatures take up more space, fewer of them can surround a creature. If five Large creatures crowd around a Medium or smaller one, there's little room for anyone else. In contrast, as many as twenty Medium creatures can surround a Gargantuan one.

If a square costs extra movement, as a square of difficult terrain does, you must have enough movement left to pay for entering it. For example, you must have at least 2 squares of movement left to enter a square of difficult terrain.

SQUEEZING INTO A SMALLER SPACE

A creature can squeeze through a space that is large enough for a creature one size smaller than it. Thus, a Large creature can squeeze through a passage that's only 5 feet wide. While squeezing through a space, a creature must spend 1 extra foot for every foot it moves there, and it has disadvantage on attack rolls and Dexterity saving throws. Attack rolls against the creature have advantage while it's in the smaller space.

PLAYING ON A GRID

If you play out a combat using a square grid and miniatures or other tokens, follow these rules: (If you use a grid often, consider writing your speed in squares on your character sheet.)

Squares. Each square on the grid represents 5 feet.

Speed. Rather than moving foot by foot, move square by square on the grid. This means you use your speed in 5-foot segments. This is particularly easy if you translate your speed into squares by dividing the speed by 5. For example, a speed of 30 feet translates into a speed of 6 squares.

Entering a Square. To enter a square, you must have at least 1 square of movement left, unless the square is diagonally adjacent to the square, you're in (discussed below).

Corners. Diagonal movement can't cross the corner of a wall, large tree, or other terrain feature that fills its space.

Ranges. To determine the range on a grid between two things—whether creatures or objects—start counting squares from a square adjacent to one of them and stop counting in the space of the other one. Count by the shortest route.

Diagonals. When measuring range or moving diagonally, the first diagonal square counts as 5 feet, but the second diagonal square counts as 10 feet. This pattern of 5 feet and then 10 feet continues whenever you're counting diagonally, even if you move horizontally or vertically between different bits of diagonal movement. For instance, a character might move one square diagonally (5 feet), then three squares straight (15 feet), and then another square diagonally (10 feet) for a total movement of 30 feet.

ACTIONS IN COMBAT

When you take your action on your turn, you can take one of the actions presented here, an action you gained from your class or a special feature, or an action that you improvise. Many creatures have action options of their own in their stat blocks.

When you describe an action not detailed elsewhere in the rules, the GM tells you whether that action is possible and what kind of roll you need to make, if any, to determine success or failure.

ATTACK

The most common action to take in combat is the Attack action, whether you are swinging a Katana, firing a longbow, or brawling with your fists.

With this action, you make one melee or ranged attack. See the "Making an Attack" section for the rules that govern attacks.

Certain features, such as the Extra Attack feature of the Scout-Nin, allow you to make more than one attack with this action.

CAST A JUTSU

All Characters within this system have access to Ninjutsu, Taijutsu and Genjutsu Casting as well as many creatures have access to Jutsu and can use them to great effect in combat. Each Jutsu has a casting time, which specifies whether the caster must use an action, a reaction, minutes, or even hours to cast the Jutsu. Casting a Jutsu is, therefore, not necessarily an action. Most Jutsu do have a casting time of 1 action, so casting a Ninjutsu Taijutsu or Genjutsu often uses his or her action in combat to cast such a Jutsu. See chapter 9 for the rules on Ninjutsu, Taijutsu and Genjutsu casting

CLASHING JUTSU

While most jutsu will never collide with one another, there are some that will. When this collision happens a Jutsu Clash is initiated. (This is counted as a type of Contest in Combat as detailed later in this chapter) Jutsu with the Clash Keyword that are used in the same turn (Or Round depending on the Jutsu/Ability) initiates a clash. When a clash is initiated the opposing users of either ability or jutsu must make opposing Checks using certain skills depending on the ability/jutsu used.

Ninjutsu Clash: Intelligence (Ninshou) or Constitution (Chakra Control) Ability check (the user's choice) vs an opposing Intelligence (Ninshou) or Constitution (Chakra Control) ability check.

Taijutsu Clash: Strength or Dexterity (Martial Arts), Strength (Athletics), or Dexterity (Acrobatics) ability check vs an opposing: Strength or Dexterity (Martial Arts), Strength (Athletics), or Dexterity (Acrobatics) ability check.

Ninjutsu vs Taijutsu Clash: Follow the above rules for the triggering Jutsu.

The winner of the Jutsu Clash deals his or her normal Jutsu effect/damage while the losers jutsu immediately ends and suffers 1 Degree of exhaustion.

ELEMENTAL ADVANTAGE

When two different Ninjutsu of differing nature releases clash or interact, you would normally have to assume the results. With the Elemental Advantage rules, this will clear up questionable rulings when a creature uses an ability or Ninjutsu that has one of 5 Nature Release Keywords (Earth, Wind, Fire, Water or Lightning Release) against another ability or Ninjutsu that has a Superior or Inferior Nature Release against it.

Each of the 5 Nature Releases are Strong or weak to another with some being neutral to each other. When this interaction happens the user of the Superior element makes their attack roll or Clash check at advantage, while the user of the inferior element rolls normally.

The following is the circle of Elemental Superiority; ('>' means the nature release to the left of this symbol is superior to the nature release on the right of it.)

Fire > Wind > Lightning > Earth > Water > Fire

DASH

When you take the Dash action, you gain extra movement for the current turn. The increase equals your speed, after applying any modifiers. With a speed of 30 feet, for example, you can move up to 60 feet on your turn if you dash.

Any increase or decrease to your speed changes this additional movement by the same amount. If your speed of 30 feet is reduced to 15 feet, for instance, you can move up to 30 feet this turn if you dash.

DISENGAGE

If you take the Disengage action, your movement doesn't provoke opportunity attacks for the rest of the turn.

DODGE

When you take the Dodge action, you focus entirely on avoiding attacks. Until the start of your next turn, any attack roll made against you has disadvantage if you can see the attacker, and you make Dexterity saving throws with advantage. You lose this benefit if you are incapacitated (as explained in Conditions) or if your speed drops to 0.

HELP

You can lend your aid to another creature in the completion of a task. When you take the Help action, the creature you aid gains advantage on the next ability check it makes to perform the task you are helping with, provided that it makes the check before the start of your next turn.

Alternatively, you can aid a friendly creature in attacking a creature within 5 feet of you. You feint, distract the target, or in some other way team up to make your ally's attack more effective. If your ally attacks the target before your next turn, the first attack roll is made with advantage.

HIDE

When you take the Hide action, you make a Dexterity (Stealth) check in an attempt to hide, following the rules in chapter 6 for hiding. If you succeed, you gain certain benefits, as described in the "Unseen Attackers and Targets" section later in this chapter.

IMPROVISING AN ACTION

Your character can do things not covered by the actions in this chapter, such as breaking down doors, intimidating enemies, sensing weaknesses in defenses, or calling for a parley with a foe. The only limits to the actions you can attempt are your imagination and your character's ability scores. See the descriptions of the ability scores in chapter 6 for inspiration as you improvise.

When you describe an action not detailed elsewhere in the rules, the GM tells you whether that action is possible and what kind of roll you need to make, if any, to determine success or failure.

READY

Sometimes you want to get a jump on a foe or wait for a particular circumstance before you act. To do so, you can take the Ready action on your turn so that you can act later in the round using your reaction.

First, you decide what perceivable circumstance will trigger your reaction. Then, you choose the action you will take in response to that trigger, or you choose to move up to your speed in response to it. Examples include "If the soldier steps on the trapdoor, I'll pull the lever that opens it," and "If the enemy steps next to me, I move away."

When the trigger occurs, you can either take your reaction right after the trigger finishes or ignore the trigger. Remember that you can take only one reaction per round.

When you ready a Jutsu, you cast it as normal but hold its chakra, which you release with your reaction when the trigger occurs. To be readied, a Jutsu must have a casting time of 1 action, and holding onto the Jutsu's effect requires concentration (explained in chapter 9). If your concentration is broken, the jutsu dissipates without taking effect.

SEARCH

When you take the Search action, you devote your attention to finding something. Depending on the nature of your search, the GM might have you make a Wisdom (Perception) check or an Intelligence (Investigation) check.

USE AN OBJECT

You normally interact with an object while doing something else, such as when you draw a Longbow as part of an attack. When an object requires your action for its use, you take the Use an Object action. This action is also useful when you want to interact with more than one object on your turn.

MAKING AN ATTACK

Whether you're striking with a melee weapon, firing a weapon at range, or making an attack roll as part of a Jutsu, an attack has a simple structure.

- 1) Choose a target. Pick a target within your attack's range: a creature, an object, or a location.
- 2) Determine modifiers. The GM determines whether the target has cover and whether you have advantage or disadvantage against the target. In addition, Justus, special abilities, and other effects can apply penalties or bonuses to your attack roll.
- 3) Resolve the attack. You make the attack roll. On a hit, you roll damage, unless the particular attack has rules that specify otherwise. Some attacks cause special effects in addition to or instead of damage. If there's ever any question whether something you're doing counts as an attack, the rule is simple: if you're making an attack roll, you're making an attack.

ATTACK ROLLS

When you make an attack, your attack roll determines whether the attack hits or misses. To make an attack roll, roll a d20 and add the appropriate modifiers. If the total of the roll plus modifiers equals or exceeds the target's Armor Class (AC), the attack hits. The AC of a character is determined at character creation, whereas the AC of a creature is in its stat block.

MODIFIERS TO THE ROLL

When a character makes an attack roll, the two most common modifiers to the roll are an ability modifier and the character's proficiency bonus. When a creature makes an attack roll, it uses whatever modifier is provided in its stat block.

Ability Modifier. The ability modifier used for a melee weapon attack is Strength, and the ability modifier used for a ranged weapon attack is Dexterity. Weapons that have the finesse or thrown property break this rule. Some Jutsu's also require an attack roll. The ability modifier used for a Jutsu attack depends on the Jutsu casting ability of the caster, as explained in chapter 10.

Proficiency Bonus. You add your proficiency bonus to your attack roll when you attack using a weapon with which you have proficiency, as well as when you attack with a Jutsu.

ROLLING 1 OR 20

Sometimes fate blesses or curses a combatant, causing the novice to hit and the veteran to miss.

If the d20 roll for an attack is a 20, the attack hits regardless of any modifiers or the target's AC. In addition, the attack is a critical hit, as explained later in this chapter.

If the d20 roll for an attack is a 1, the attack misses regardless of any modifiers or the target's AC.

UNSEEN ATTACKERS AND TARGETS

Combatants often try to escape their foes' notice by hiding, casting the camouflage Jutsu, or lurking in darkness. When you attack a target that you can't see, you have disadvantage on the attack roll. This is true whether you're guessing the target's location or you're targeting a creature you can hear but not see. If the target isn't in the location you targeted, you automatically miss, but the GM typically just says that the attack missed, not whether you guessed the target's location correctly.

When a creature can't see you, you have advantage on attack rolls against it. If you are hidden—both unseen and unheard—when you make an attack, you give away your location when the attack hits or misses.

MELEE ATTACKS

Used in hand-to-hand combat, a melee attack allows you to attack a foe within your reach. A melee attack typically uses either unarmed or handheld weapons such as an Axe, a Katana, or Tonfa's. A typical monster makes a melee attack when it strikes with its claws, horns, teeth, tentacles, or other body part. A few Jutsu also involve making a melee attack.

Most creatures have a 5-foot reach and can thus attack targets within 5 feet of them when making a melee attack. Certain creatures (typically those larger than Medium) have melee attacks with a greater reach than 5 feet, as noted in their descriptions.

When you are unarmed, you can fight in melee by making an unarmed strike. You are proficient in your unarmed strikes and unless otherwise indicated, they do 1 + your Strength modifier bludgeoning damage. For the purpose of interacting with other features, feats, and jutsu, your unarmed attacks count as also being finesse.

OPPORTUNITY ATTACKS

In a fight, everyone is constantly watching for enemies to drop their guard. You can rarely move heedlessly past your foes without putting yourself in danger; doing so provokes an opportunity attack.

You can make an opportunity attack when a hostile creature that you can see moves out of your reach. To make the opportunity attack, you use your reaction to make one melee attack against the provoking creature. The attack interrupts the provoking creature's movement, occurring right before the creature leaves your reach. A creature can only trigger an attack of opportunity from you once per movement.

You can avoid provoking an opportunity attack by taking the Disengage action. You also don't provoke an opportunity attack when you teleport or when someone or something moves you without using your movement, action, or reaction. For example, you don't provoke an opportunity attack if an explosion hurls you out of a foe's reach or if gravity causes you to fall past an enemy.

CONTESTS IN COMBAT

Battle often involves pitting your prowess against that of your foe. Such a challenge is represented by a contest. This section includes the most common contests that require an action in combat: grappling and shoving a creature. The GM can use these contests as models for improvising others.

GRAPPLING

When you want to grab a creature or wrestle with it, you can use the Attack action to make a special melee attack, a grapple. If you're able to make multiple attacks with the Attack action, this attack replaces one of them.

The target of your grapple must be no more than one size larger than you, and it must be within your reach. Using at least one free hand, you try to seize the target by making a grapple check, a Strength (Athletics) check contested by the target's Strength (Athletics) or Dexterity (Acrobatics) check (the target chooses the ability to use). If you succeed, you subject the target to the grappled condition (see conditions). The condition specifies the things that end it, and you can release the target whenever you like (no action required).

Escaping a Grapple. A grappled creature can use its action to escape. To do so, it must succeed on a Strength (Athletics) or Dexterity (Acrobatics) check contested by your Strength (Athletics) check.

Moving a Grappled Creature. When you move, you can drag or carry the grappled creature with you, but your speed is halved unless the creature is two or more sizes smaller than you.

SHOVING

Using the Attack action, you can make a special melee attack to shove a creature, either to knock it prone or push it away from you. If you're able to make multiple attacks with the Attack action, this attack replaces one of them.

The target of your shove must be no more than one size larger than you, and it must be within your reach. You make a Strength (Athletics) check contested by the target's Strength (Athletics) or Dexterity (Acrobatics) check (the target chooses the ability to use). If you win the contest, you either knock the target prone or push it 5 feet away from you.

RANGED ATTACKS

When you make a ranged attack, you fire an arrow or crossbow bolt, hurl a Kunai, or otherwise send projectiles to strike a foe at a distance. A creature might have a natural ranged weapon. Many Jutsu also involve making a ranged attack.

RANGE

You can make ranged attacks only against targets within a specified range. If a ranged attack, such as one made with a Jutsu, has a single range, you can't attack a target beyond this range. Some ranged attacks, such as those made with a ranged weapon, have two ranges. The smaller number is the normal range, and the larger number is the long range. Your attack roll has disadvantage when your target is beyond normal range, and you can't attack a target beyond the long range.

RANGED ATTACK IN CLOSE COMBAT

Aiming a ranged attack is more difficult when a foe is next to you. When you make a ranged attack with a weapon, a Jutsu, or some other means, you have disadvantage on the attack roll if you are within 5 feet of a hostile creature who can see you and who isn't incapacitated.

TWO-WEAPON FIGHTING

When you take the Attack action and attack with a light weapon that you're holding in one hand (or a double weapon), you can use a bonus action to attack with a different light weapon that you're holding in the other hand. You don't add your ability modifier to the damage of the bonus attack, unless that modifier is negative. If a weapon has the thrown property, you can throw the weapon, instead of making a melee attack with it.

COVER

Walls, trees, creatures, and other obstacles can provide cover during combat, making a target more difficult to harm. A target can benefit from cover only when an attack or other effect originates on the opposite side of the cover.

There are three degrees of cover. If a target is behind multiple sources of cover, only the most protective degree of cover applies; the degrees aren't added together. For example, if a target is behind a creature that gives half cover and a tree trunk that gives three-quarters cover, the target has three-quarters cover.

A target with half cover has a +2 bonus to AC and Dexterity saving throws. A target has half cover if an obstacle blocks at least half of its body. The obstacle might be a low wall, a large piece of furniture, a narrow tree trunk, or a creature, whether that creature is an enemy or a friend.

A target with three-quarters cover has a +5 bonus to AC and Dexterity saving throws. A target has three-quarters cover if about three-quarters of it is covered by an obstacle. The obstacle might be a portcullis, an arrow slit, or a thick tree trunk.

A target with total cover can't be targeted directly by an attack or a Jutsu, although some Jutsu can reach such a target by including it in an area of effect. A target has total cover if it is completely concealed by an obstacle.

DAMAGE AND HEALING

Injury and the risk of death are constant companions of those who explore the worlds of D&D. The thrust of a Katana, a well-placed Shuriken, or a jolt of lightning from a Lightning affinity Jutsu all have the potential to damage, or even kill, the hardest of creatures.

HIT POINTS

Hit points represent a combination of physical and mental durability, the will to live, and luck. Creatures with more hit points are more difficult to kill. Those with fewer hit points are more fragile.

A creature's current hit points (usually just called hp) can be any number from the creature's hit point maximum down to 0. This number changes as a creature takes damage or receives healing.

Whenever a creature takes damage, that damage is subtracted from its hit points. The loss of hit points has no effect on a creature's abilities until the creature drops to 0 hit points.

DAMAGE ROLLS

Each weapon, Jutsu, and harmful monster ability specifies the damage it deals. You roll the damage die or dice, add any modifiers, and apply the damage to your target. Modified weapons, special abilities, and other factors can grant a bonus to damage.

When attacking with a weapon, you add your ability modifier—the same modifier used for the attack roll—to the damage. A Jutsu tells you which dice to roll for damage and whether to add any modifiers.

If a Jutsu or other effect deals damage to more than one target at the same time, roll the damage once for all of them. For example, when a Ninjutsu Specialist casts Fireball Jutsu or a Nara casts a Black Spider Lily, the Jutsu's damage is rolled once for all creatures caught in the blast.

CRITICAL HITS

When you score a critical hit, you get to roll extra dice for the attack's damage against the target. Roll all of the attack's damage dice twice and add them together. Then add any relevant modifiers as normal. To speed up play, you can roll all the damage dice at once.

For example, if you score a critical hit with a Kunai, roll 2d4 for the damage, rather than 1d4, and then add your relevant ability modifier. If the Attack involves other damage dice, such as from the Hunter-Nin's Sneak Attack feature, you roll those dice twice as well.

DAMAGE TYPES

Different attacks, damaging Jutsu's, and other harmful effects deal different types of damage. Damage types have no rules of their own, but other rules, such as damage resistance, rely on the types.

The damage types follow, with examples to help a GM assign a damage type to a new effect.

Acid. The corrosive spray of a black viper wolf's breath and the dissolving enzymes secreted by a black pudding deal acid damage.

Bludgeoning. Blunt force attacks—hammers, falling, constriction, and the like—deal bludgeoning damage.

Cold. The chill of a cold wave of water or chilling wave of Ice deals cold damage.

Earth. The damage made by Earth based attacks.

Fire. The concussive damage of an explosion or an open flame deal fire damage.

Force. Certain techniques that channel the pure energy of Chakra deal force damage.

Lightning. The electrifying energy of the force lightning or electroshock Jutsu's deals lightning damage.

Necrotic. Necrotic damage dealt by techniques that deals directly with one's life force.

Piercing. Puncturing and impaling attacks, including spears and monsters' bites, deal piercing damage.

Poison. Venomous stings and toxic liquids deal poison damage.

Psychic. The crippling agony caused by techniques that affect the mind, deals psychic damage.

Slashing. Swords, axes, and monsters' claws deal slashing damage.

Wind. Any sort of damage done by an attack that uses air or is made of air, such as a gust of wind or a raging tornado is treated as wind damage.

DAMAGE RESISTANCE AND VULNERABILITY

Some creatures and objects are exceedingly difficult or unusually easy to hurt with certain types of damage. If a creature or an object has resistance to a damage type, damage of that type is halved against it. If a creature or an object has resistance to a condition, they roll their saving throws at advantage. If a creature or an object has vulnerability to a damage type, damage of that type is doubled against it. If a creature or an object has vulnerability to a condition, they make their saving throw at disadvantage.

Resistance and then vulnerability are applied after all other modifiers to damage. For example, a creature has resistance to Wind damage and is hit by an attack that deals 25 Wind damage. The creature is also within an aura that reduces all damage by 5. The 25 damage is first reduced by 5 and then halved, so the creature takes 10 damage.

Multiple instances of resistance or vulnerability that affect the same damage type count as only one instance. For example, if a creature has resistance to lightning damage as well as resistance to all Ninjutsu damage, the damage of Ninjutsu based lightning damage is reduced by half against the creature, not reduced by three-quarters.

HEALING

Unless it results in death, damage isn't permanent. Even death is reversible through certain Jutsu. Rest can restore a creature's hit points (as explained in chapter 7), and special methods such as a Healing Jutsu or a Blood Pill can remove damage in an instant.

When a creature receives healing of any kind, hit points regained are added to its current hit points. A creature's hit points can't exceed its hit point maximum, so any hit points regained in excess of this number are lost. For example, a Medical-Nin grants a Hunter-Nin 8 hit points of healing. If the Hunter-Nin has 14 current hit points and has a hit point maximum of 20, the Hunter regains 6 hit points from the Medical-Nin, not 8.

A creature that has died can't regain hit points until a Jutsu such as Healing-Hands has restored it to life.

DROPPING TO 0 HIT POINTS

When you drop to 0 hit points, you either die outright or fall unconscious, as explained in the following sections.

DESCRIBING THE EFFECTS OF DAMAGE

Game Masters describe hit point loss in different ways. When your current hit point total is half or more of your hit point maximum, you typically show no signs of injury. When you drop below half your hit point maximum, you show signs of wear, such as cuts and bruises. An attack that reduces you to 0 hit points strikes you directly, leaving a bleeding injury or other trauma, or it simply knocks you unconscious.

INSTANT DEATH

Massive damage can kill you instantly. When damage reduces you to 0 hit points and there is damage remaining, you die if the remaining damage equals or exceeds your half your point maximum.

For example, a Scout-Nin with a maximum of 12 hit points currently has 6 hit points. If she takes 12 damage from an attack, she is reduced to 0 hit points, but 6 damage remains. Because the remaining damage equals half her hit point maximum, the Scout-Nin dies.

FALLING UNCONSCIOUS

If damage reduces you to 0 hit points and fails to instantly kill you, you fall unconscious (see Conditions). This unconsciousness ends if you regain any hit points.

DEATH SAVING THROWS

Whenever you start your turn with 0 hit points, you must make a special saving throw, called a death saving throw, to determine whether you creep closer to death or hang onto life. Unlike other saving throws, this one isn't tied to any ability score. You are in the hands of fate now, aided only by Jutsu and features that improve your chances of succeeding on a saving throw. Roll a d20. If the roll is 10 or higher, you succeed. Otherwise, you fail. A success or failure has no effect by itself. On your third success, you become stable (see below). On your third failure, you die. The successes and failures don't need to be consecutive; keep track of both until you collect three of a kind. The number of both is reset to zero when you regain any hit points or become stable.

Rolling 1 or 20. When you make a death saving throw and roll a 1 on the d20, it counts as two failures. If you roll a 20 on the d20, you regain 1 hit point.

Damage at 0 Hit Points. If you take any damage while you have 0 hit points (for example, by catching fire because your limbs were all chopped off next to a pit of lava), you suffer a death saving throw failure. If the damage is from a critical hit, you suffer two failures instead. If the damage equals or exceeds your hit point maximum, you suffer instant death.

STABILIZING A CREATURE

The best way to save a creature with 0 hit points is to heal it. If healing is unavailable, the creature can at least be stabilized so that it isn't killed by a failed death saving throw.

You can use your action to administer first aid to an unconscious creature and attempt to stabilize it, which requires a successful DC 15 Wisdom (Medicine) check.

A stable creature doesn't make death saving throws, even though it has 0 hit points, but it does remain unconscious. The creature stops being stable, and must start making death saving throws again, if it takes any damage. A stable creature that isn't healed regains 1 hit point after 8 hours.

ADVERSARIES AND DEATH

Most GMs have a monster die the instant it drops to 0 hit points, rather than having it fall unconscious and make death saving throws.

Mighty villains and special nonplayer characters are common exceptions; the GM might have them fall unconscious and follow the same rules as player characters.

KNOCKING A CREATURE OUT

Sometimes an attacker wants to incapacitate a foe, rather than deal a killing blow. When an attacker reduces a creature to 0 hit points with a melee or Ranged weapon that deals Lightning or Bludgeoning damage, the attacker can knock the creature out. The attacker can make this choice the instant the damage is dealt. The creature falls unconscious and is stable.

TEMPORARY HIT POINTS

Some Jutsu and special abilities confer temporary hit points to a creature. Temporary hit points aren't actual hit points; they are a buffer against damage, a pool of hit points that protect you from injury.

When you have temporary hit points and take damage, the temporary hit points are lost first, and any leftover damage carries over to your normal hit points. For example, if you have 5 temporary hit points and take 7 damage, you lose the temporary hit points and then take 2 damage.

Because temporary hit points are separate from your actual hit points, they can exceed your hit point maximum. A character can, therefore, be at full hit points and receive temporary hit points.

Healing can't restore temporary hit points, and they can't be added together. If you have temporary hit points and receive more of them, you decide whether to keep the ones you have or to gain new ones.

If you have 0 hit points, receiving temporary hit points doesn't restore you to consciousness or stabilize you. They can still absorb damage directed at you while you're in that state, but only true healing can save you.

Unless a feature that grants you, temporary hit points has a duration, they last until they're depleted or you finish a long rest.

CONDITIONS

Conditions alter a creature's capabilities in a variety of ways and can arise as a result of a Jutsu, a class feature, a monster's attack, or other effects. Most conditions, such as blinded, are impairments, but a few, such as invisible, can be advantageous.

A condition lasts either until it is countered (the prone condition is countered by standing up, for example) or for a duration specified by the effect that imposed the condition.

If multiple effects impose the same condition on a creature, each instance of the condition has its own duration, but most condition's effects don't get worse. A creature either has a condition or doesn't.

In rare conditions such as "Bleeding" or "Slowed" these conditions can get worse if applied multiple times detailed by the Condition gaining a number next to it (I.e., Bleeding 3 or Slowed 5). A select few of these conditions will persist outside of combat. The following definitions specify what happens to a creature while it is subjected to a condition.

BERSERK

- A berserk creature is driven mad with blind rage, most commonly due to the effects of a drug, a Genjutsu, or a creature associated with madness.
- A berserk creature must use its action each round to attack the creature nearest to it. If it can make extra attacks as part of the Attack action, it uses those extra attacks, moving to attack the next nearest creature after it fells its current target. If it has multiple possible targets, it attacks one at random.
- If a berserk creature can use its reaction and/or bonus action to deal damage directly to a creature, it must do so.
- When a non-hostile creature moves out of a berserk creature's reach, it provokes an opportunity attack.
- A berserk creature has disadvantage on Wisdom ability checks and saving throws.
- A berserk creature automatically fails Intelligence ability checks and saving throws.
- A berserk creature is immune to the charmed and Fear conditions.
- The condition ends if the berserk creature starts its turn with no creatures within 60 feet of it that it can see or hear.
- Creatures that are immune to the charmed condition are also immune to the berserk condition. A Jutsu which cures the charmed condition also cures this Condition.
- Creatures who are suffering from this condition cannot mold chakra.

BLEEDING

A bleeding creature has been dealt a serious wound that has opened a vein or artery. They are still conscious, but unless the wound is treated, they could die. Bleeding prevents resting.

- At the end of their turn, a bleeding creature takes 1d4 necrotic damage which cannot be reduced by any means.
- The creature may attempt to stop the bleeding by succeeding on a DC 15 medicine check.
- The Bleeding condition can grow in lethality, If the creature affected by the bleeding condition is affected by the Bleeding condition again, they gain another rank, increasing the necrotic damage by 1d4.

BLINDED

- A blinded creature can't see and automatically fails any ability check that requires sight.
- Attack rolls against the creature have advantage, and the creature's attack rolls have disadvantage.
- Dexterity Rolls made by the creature are made at disadvantage.
- A creature can willingly close their eyes for an extended period of time. Doing so imposes this Condition on them until the beginning of their next turn.

BURNED

- A Burned Creature or object takes 1d8 fire damage at the start of each of their turns for the duration of this condition or 1 minute has passed, whichever comes first.
- A Creature can spend an Action to make a DC 15 Dexterity (Survival) Check to put out the flames. On a successful check, the condition ends.
- Burned can be applied to a creature up to 3 times total. Each application increase the amount of fire damage by 1d8, up to a maximum of 3d8 at max ranks.
- A creature takes a -2 Penalty to Concentration Checks for each Rank of Burned they are currently affected by.
- Creatures that are immune to fire damage are immune to this condition.

CHARMED

- A charmed creature can't attack the charmer or target the charmer with harmful abilities or effects.
- The charmer has advantage on any ability check to interact socially with the creature.
- A charmed creature cannot mold chakra.

CHILLED

- A Chilled Creature has its body overwhelmed by cold, taking 1d6 cold damage at the start of each of their turns for the duration of this condition or 1 minute has passed, whichever comes first.
- Chilled can be applied to a creature up to 5 times total. Each application increase the amount of cold damage by 1d6, up to a maximum of 5d6 at max ranks.
- Each application of Chilled Resets the duration a creature is affected by this condition.
- A creature takes a -1 Penalty to Dexterity Saving throws and Ability Checks for each Rank of Chilled they are currently affected by.
- A Creature Resistant to Cold Damage instead takes 1d4 cold damage and no further effects from this condition.
- A Creature Immune to Cold Damage Cannot be Chilled and therefor is immune to this condition.

DAZED

- A Dazed creature is recovering from a powerful blow and cannot take as many actions as usual.
- A Dazed creature can only take a Move action or a Standard action.
- A Dazed creature cannot take a bonus action or benefit from a reaction.
- The Dazed Condition lasts until the End of the affected creature's next turn.

DEAFENED

- A deafened creature can't hear and automatically fails any ability check that requires hearing.
- A deafened creatures has a -10 Penalty to their Passive Perception.
- Creatures Currently Hidden from a Deafened creature do not need to reroll Dexterity (Stealth) Checks to maintain Stealth against them.
- Wisdom Rolls made by the creature are made at disadvantage.
- A creature can willingly cover their ears for an extended period of time. Doing so imposes this Condition on them until the beginning of their next turn.

ENVENOMED

- An envenomed character takes 1d6 poison damage at the beginning of each of its turns for the duration.
- Creatures that are immune to the poisoned condition or poison damage are immune to the envenomed condition.
- Envenomed can be applied to a creature a up to 5 times total. Each application increases the amount of poison damage by 1d6, up to a maximum of 5d6 at max ranks.
- Each application of Envenomed does not reset the time a creature is poisoned unless otherwise stated.
- Creatures that apply the poisoned condition can choose to apply the envenomed condition instead, however, the duration is halved (to a minimum of 1 round), if any.

EXHAUSTION

Some special abilities and environmental hazards, such as and the long-term effects of freezing or scorching temperatures, can lead to a special condition called exhaustion. Exhaustion is measured in six levels. An effect can give a creature one or more levels of exhaustion, as specified in the effect's description.

If an already exhausted creature suffers another effect that causes exhaustion, its current level of exhaustion increases by the amount specified in the effect's description. A creature suffers the effect of its current level of exhaustion as well as all lower levels. For example, a creature suffering level 2 exhaustion has its speed halved and has disadvantage on ability checks.

An effect that removes exhaustion reduces its level as specified in the effect's description, with all exhaustion effects ending if a creature's exhaustion level is reduced below 1. Finishing a long rest reduces a creature's exhaustion level by 1, provided that the creature has also ingested some food and drink.

EXHAUSTION LEVEL

Rank	Effect
1	Disadvantage on ability checks
2	Speed halved
3	Disadvantage on attack rolls and saving throws
4	Hit point maximum halved
5	Speed reduced to 0
6	Death

FEAR

Some special abilities and jutsu can lead to a special condition called Fear sometimes called Frightened. Fear is measured in 5 levels (or ranks). An effect can give a creature one or more levels of fear as specified in the effect's description. All conditions listed only take effect while you can see the cause of your fear.

FEAR LEVEL

Rank	Effect
1	Disadvantage on ability checks
2	Disadvantage on Attack Rolls.
3	Loses the Ability to Maintain Concentration on Jutsu and effects.
4	Disadvantage on Strength, Dexterity, and Intelligence Saving throws
5	Stunned

GRAPPLED

- A grappled creature's speed becomes 0, and it can't benefit from any bonus to its speed.
- The condition ends if the grappler is incapacitated (see the condition).
- The condition also ends if an effect removes the grappled creature from the reach of the grappler or grappling effect.

INCAPACITATED

- An incapacitated creature can't take actions or reactions.

INVISIBLE

- An invisible creature is impossible to see without the aid of powers or a special sense. For the purpose of hiding, the creature is heavily obscured. The creature's location can be detected by any noise it makes or any tracks it leaves.
- Attack rolls against the creature have disadvantage, and the creature's attack rolls have advantage.

PARALYZED

- A paralyzed creature is incapacitated (see the condition) and can't move or speak.
- The creature automatically fails Strength and Dexterity saving throws. Attack rolls against the creature have advantage.
- Any attack that hits the creature is a critical hit if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature.

PETRIFIED

- A petrified creature is transformed, along with any object it is wearing or carrying, into a solid inanimate substance (usually stone). Its weight increases by a factor of ten, and it ceases aging.
- The creature is incapacitated (see the condition), can't move or speak, and is unaware of its surroundings.
- Attack rolls against the creature have advantage.
- The creature automatically fails Strength and Dexterity saving throws.
- The creature has resistance to all damage.
- The creature is immune to poison and disease, although a poison or disease already in its system is suspended, not neutralized.

POISONED

- A poisoned creature has disadvantage on attack rolls and ability checks.
- A Poisoned Creature do not gain the benefits of a Short or Long Rest.

PRONE

- A prone creature's only movement option is to crawl, unless it stands up and thereby ends the condition.
- The creature has disadvantage on melee attack rolls.
- The creature has disadvantage on ranged attack rolls against targets within 30 feet.
- An attack roll against the creature has advantage if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature. Otherwise, the attack roll has disadvantage.

RESTRAINED

- A restrained creature's speed becomes 0, and it can't benefit from any bonus to its speed.
- Attack rolls against the creature have advantage, and the creature's attack rolls have disadvantage.
- The creature has disadvantage on Dexterity saving throws.

SHOCKED

- A shocked creature's speed is reduced by half.
- A shocked creature takes an additional 1d6 Lightning damage when they would take Lightning Damage.
- A Shocked creature can't take bonus actions as their muscles seize up at inopportune moments.
- A shocked creature has a -1 Penalty to Strength Saving throws.
- Shocked can be applied to a creature up to 5 times total. Each application increase the Penalty by -1, up to a maximum of -5 at max ranks.
- A creature resistant or Immune to Lightning damage also has resistance or immunity to this condition.

SLOWED

- A slowed creature has its speed halved.
- Slowed creatures have their AC reduced by 2 while they are slowed, and have disadvantage on Dexterity saving throws.
- A Slowed Creature can be slowed even further with multiple applications of this condition. If a Slowed creature is affected by the Slowed Condition again, their AC is further reduced by 2, and their speed is reduced by half again. (Rounded to the nearest 5 feet, with a min of 5 Feet)
- Slowed creatures can't use reactions, and can only use an action or bonus action on their turn, not both. A slowed creature can also never make more than one attack per turn.

STUNNED

- A stunned creature is incapacitated (see the condition), can't move, and can speak only falteringly.
- The creature automatically fails Strength and Dexterity saving throws.
- Attack rolls against the creature have advantage.

UNCONSCIOUS

- An unconscious creature is incapacitated (see the condition), can't move or speak, and is unaware of its surroundings
- The creature drops whatever it holding and falls prone.
- The creature automatically fails Strength and Dexterity saving throws.
- Attack rolls against the creature have advantage.
- Any attack that hits the creature is a critical hit if the attacker is within 5 feet of the creature.

WEAKENED

- A weakened creature deals only half damage with melee attacks, and has disadvantage on Strength and Dexterity checks and Saves.
- A weakened creature has a -2 Penalty to Strength and Constitution Ability checks and Saving throws
- A weakened creature's speed is reduced by 10 feet, to a minimum of half its base speed.

CHAPTER 9: JUTSU CASTING

agic exists in the worlds of Naruto in the form of Jutsu. This chapter provides the rules for casting these Jutsu. There are Three Types of Jutsu: Ninjutsu, Genjutsu, and Taijutsu. Jutsu follow the following rules here.

WHAT IS A JUTSU?

A Jutsu is a discrete or blatantly obvious effect, a shaping of chakra from one's body that creates a desired effect. In casting a Jutsu, a character carefully constructs the desired effect using their chakra, and then releases it, all in the span of a few seconds.

Jutsu can be versatile tools, powerful weapons, or protective wards. They can deal damage or heal it, impose or remove conditions (see Conditions), drain life energy away, and restore life to the dead.

A great number of Jutsu exist and over time many have been created and forgotten. An ancient Ninjutsu technique may exist in a long-lost Ninja Scroll.

JUTSU KNOWN

Before a Shinobi can use a Jutsu, he or she must have the Jutsu learned, or must have access to the Jutsu in an enhanced item. Once a Jutsu's learned, it is always prepared. The number of Jutsu a Ninja can have at any given time depends on the character's level and Ninja Class.

When you learn a Jutsu of E-Rank, S-Rank, or anywhere in between, you choose from the list of Jutsu provided in Chapters 10, 11, & 12. You can learn Jutsu from any level up to your Max Jutsu Known, including E-Rank Jutsu. The total number of Jutsu you learn in this way can't exceed your Jutsu Known for your class.

If a Jutsu is granted to you by a class feature, that Jutsu does not count against your Jutsu known and you can't voluntarily unlearn it but instead switch it with another Jutsu following the rules and conditions of the feature that granted you the extra jutsu. If you already know that Jutsu, you may learn an additional Jutsu that is available to you that still meets the features conditions.

Additionally, every time you learn a new Jutsu as a result of gaining a level, you can choose one or all of the Jutsu you know and replace it with other Jutsu of the same type (Ninjutsu, Genjutsu or Taijutsu, as long as that Jutsu's not of a higher level than your max jutsu rank.

CHAKRA POINTS

Regardless of how many Jutsu a ninja knows, he or she can cast only a limited number of Jutsu before resting. Manipulating your Chakra and channeling its energy into even a simple Jutsu is physically and mentally taxing, and higher-Ranked Jutsu are even more so. Thus, each class's description includes a table showing that classes Chakra Die (Similar to the Classes Hit die).

When a character casts a Jutsu he or she expends a number of points based on the chakra cost of the Jutsu to cast it. When Umara casts Substitution Technique, a D-Rank Jutsu she spends 5 of her 12 chakra points, leaving 7 remaining.

Finishing a long rest restores up to half of your maximum chakra points, while a full rest restores all of your chakra points. (see chapter 7 for the rules on resting).

CASTING IN ARMOR

Because of the mental focus and precise gestures required for Hand Seal Weaving, you must be proficient with the armor you are wearing to cast a Jutsu with any Hand Seal component. You are otherwise too distracted and physically hampered by your armor for Jutsu casting.

CASTING A JUTSU

When a character casts any Jutsu, the same basic rules are followed, regardless of the character's class or the Jutsu's effects.

Each Jutsu's description in chapters 10, 11, and 12 begins with a block of information, including the Jutsu's name, Rank, Chakra Cost, prerequisites (if it has any), casting time, range, and duration. The rest of a Jutsu entry describes the Jutsu's effect.

CASTING A JUTSU AT A HIGHER RANK

When a shinobi casts a Jutsu, that jutsu is normally locked to whatever rank it is casted it. But in some special cases, some jutsu can be upcasted to higher ranks if you can both learn & cast jutsu of at least one rank higher than the jutsu's base rank. As a general rule of thumb, unless stated otherwise by a class or clan feature, or a feat you can upcast jutsu to the following ranks at the appropriate levels;

- C-Rank Starting at 5th Level
- B-Rank Starting at 9th level
- A-Rank Starting at 13th level
- S-Rank Starting at 17th level

CLASSIFICATION

All jutsu fall into one of 5 classifications. A Hijutsu, Ninjutsu, Genjutsu, Taijutsu or Bukijutsu. While Ninjutsu and Genjutsu are mutually exclusive. Bukijutsu is a subtype of Taijutsu. And Hijutsu can technically be any of the above.

HIJUTSU

A jutsu with the Hijutsu Classification usually indicates it's a Jutsu from a clan, and not something can be easily or normally learned by anyone outside of that clan.

NINJUTSU

A jutsu with the Ninjutsu Classification has the ability to affect the physical world in some way shape or form. Ninjutsu is a unique category of jutsu which forms the basis of the five nature releases (Earth, Wind, Fire, Water & lightning)

GENJUTSU

A jutsu with the Genjutsu Classification is one of illusions and affects the mind, and personal realities of those it would target. Genjutsu for the most part do not directly affect the physical world and instead affects one's perception of the physical world.

TAIJUTSU

A jutsu with the Taijutsu Classification is one of physical activity. Taijutsu is one where someone is using their body to complete a series of complicated movements.

BUKIJUTSU

A jutsu with the Bukijutsu Classification is one of tool manipulation. Bukijutsu utilizes physical tools such as swords, wires, kunai, shuriken etc. to complete a series of complicated movements. This is a subsection of Taijutsu since they both require the physical movements of the user.

RANK

Ranks describe the level of power a jutsu, item, or in some cases a shinobi is expected to have. There are effectively 6 ranks within the hierarchy of jutsu and shinobi. E, D, C, B, A & S-Rank.

E-RANK

E-Rank describes the lowest and least powerful, effective or even useful techniques, threats, or tools. E-Rank is the most widely known amongst the common population and is considered the most basic thing a shinobi could know.

D-RANK

D-Rank is preceded by E-rank and followed by C-rank. It is typically used when classifying techniques intended for ninja of the genin level. D-rank techniques are often one of the first techniques a ninja will learn after leaving the Academy.

There are also D-rank missions, the lowest classification a mission can receive. These missions are usually assigned to genin. Naruto Uzumaki describes D-rank missions as not being actual missions as they deal with tasks as simple as finding missing pets and weeding a garden.

C-RANK

C-Rank is preceded by D-rank and followed by B-rank. It is typically used when classifying techniques intended for ninja of the chunin level. C-rank techniques are often one of the first techniques a ninja will learn that require some amount of training.

There are also C-rank missions. These missions are usually assigned to chunin, or in some cases, genin. Assignments include bodyguard duty and hunting wild animals, all of which will likely pose some risk to the ninja.

B-RANK

B-Rank is preceded by C-rank and followed by A-rank. It is typically used when classifying techniques intended for ninja of the jōnin or chunin level. B-rank techniques are typically useful and can be learned relatively easily with enough time, such as the Multi-Shadow Clone Technique.

There are also B-rank missions. These missions are usually assigned to jōnin or chunin. Assignments can involve spying or assassinations, and ninja are expected to go up against enemy ninja during the course of the mission.

A-RANK

A-Rank is preceded by B-rank and followed by S-rank. It is typically used when classifying techniques intended for ninja of the Kage and jōnin levels. A-rank techniques are often very useful, but need extensive training before they can be mastered. Some A-rank techniques also pose a risk to the user, resulting in their classification as kinjutsu (Literally meaning: Forbidden Techniques).

There are also A-rank missions. These missions relate to what is in a village or country's personal interests and are extremely difficult or dangerous to complete, usually assigned to jōnin.

S-RANK

S-Rank is preceded by A-rank. It is typically used when classifying techniques intended for highly experienced jōnin and Kage-level shinobi. S-rank techniques are almost always unique to a single user, and as such are trademark abilities of that user.

Missions can also be classified as S-rank, these are the highest paying and most dangerous type of mission a ninja can go on. These missions are exclusively assigned to highly skilled jōnin or large squads of ninjas

CASTING TIME

Most Jutsu require a single action to cast, but some Jutsu's require a bonus action, a reaction, or much more time to cast.

BONUS ACTION

A Jutsu cast with a bonus action is especially swift. You must use a bonus action on your turn to cast the Jutsu, provided that you haven't already taken a bonus action this turn.

FULL TURN ACTION

A Jutsu cast with a Full turn action is one that requires time and focus. You must use Your standard and bonus action on your turn to cast the Jutsu, provided that you haven't already taken a standard and/or bonus action this turn.

REACTION

Some Jutsu can be cast as reactions. These Jutsu take a fraction of a second to bring about and are cast in response to some event. If a Jutsu can be cast as a reaction, the Jutsu's description tells you exactly when you can do so.

LONGER CASTING TIMES

Certain Jutsu require more time to cast: minutes or even hours. When you cast a Jutsu with a casting time longer than a single action or reaction, you must spend your action each turn casting the jutsu, and you must maintain your concentration while you do so (see "Concentration" below). If your concentration is broken, the Jutsu fails, but you don't expend chakra points. If you want to try casting the jutsu again, you must start over.

RANGE

The target of a Jutsu must be within the Jutsu's range. For a Jutsu like Agonizing Thorn, the target is a creature. For a Jutsu like Earth Flow Spears, the target is the point in space where the Spikes rise from the ground.

Most Jutsu have ranges expressed in feet. Some Jutsu can target only a creature (including you) that you touch. Other Jutsu, such as the Substitution Technique, affect only you. These Jutsu have a range of self.

Jutsu that create cones or lines of effect that originate from you also have a range of self, indicating that the origin point of the power's effect must be you (see "Areas of Effect" later in this chapter).

Once a Jutsu is cast, its effects aren't limited by its range, unless the Jutsu's description says otherwise.

COMPONENTS

A Jutsu's components are physical requirements you must meet in order to cast it. Each jutsu's description indicates whether it requires handseals (HS), chakra molding (CM), chakra seals (CS), mobility (M), weapons (W) or ninja Tools (NT) components. If you can't provide one or more of a jutsu's components, you are unable to cast the jutsu.

HAND SEALS (HS)

Hand signs that are made in an extremely specific order fast enough to be done in the span of a few seconds. If a Jutsu requires hand seals as a component, the caster must have free use of at least one hand to perform these gestures.

CHAKRA MOLDING (CM)

An advanced technique that requires the casters to mold and shape chakra into specific forms or shapes. If a jutsu requires chakra molding as a component, the caster must be able to mold chakra. Thus, a character who has their chakra network sealed, disrupted or are under mentally compromising conditions such as Berserk or Charmed can't cast a jutsu with a chakra molding component.

If you lose the ability to mold chakra while concentrating on a Jutsu that requires Chakra molding, you lose the ability to concentrate on such a jutsu, thus ending its effects immediately.

CHAKRA SEALS (CS)

Paper tags with a personal formula printed on it with ink and chakra to symbolize your personal design. These chakra seals are then infused with different chakra signatures to get the desired effect. If a jutsu requires a Chakra seal, the caster must have a free use of at least one hand to imprint the needed chakra signature onto it.

MOBILITY (M)

The ability to move one's entire body to perform an action. A jutsu that requires mobility as a component requires that the caster is able to move all parts of their body and must have a movement speed greater than 0. Conditions that would restrict movement removes the casters ability to be mobile such as "Restrained" or "Paralyzed"

WEAPONS (W)

Weapons are tools of war and usually used for combat exclusively. Jutsu that requires a Weapon as a component will usually have the weapon needed as well (Ex. W (Katana)). If a jutsu requires multiple weapons they will be listed with the word "and" in-between them. If a jutsu requires a weapon from a list they will be separated by a comma. Melee weapons are not consumed when used. Thrown or Ranged weapons do consume ammunition unless otherwise stated.

There are times when a jutsu that requires a weapon will instead list a damage type common to weapons as the weapon needed. This means any weapon that deals that damage type can be used as a component for that jutsu.

NINJA TOOLS (NT)

Ninja tools are usually a series of particular items such as Scrolls, flowers, Tool Kits and a number of other items. Jutsu that requires a Ninja tool as component will usually have the tool needed as well. (Ex. NT (Medicine Kit)). If a jutsu requires multiple tools they will be listed with the word "and" in-between them. If a jutsu requires a ninja tool from a list they will be separated by a comma. These tools are always consumed by the use of the jutsu and are lost.

DURATION

A Jutsu's duration is the length of time the Jutsu persists. A duration can be expressed in rounds, minutes, hours, or even years. Some Jutsu specify that their effects last until the Jutsu is dispelled or destroyed.

INSTANTANEOUS

Many Jutsu are instantaneous. The Jutsu harms, heals, creates, or alters a creature or an object in a way that can't be dispelled, because its effect exists only for an instant.

CONCENTRATION

Some Jutsu require you to maintain concentration in order to keep their effect active. If you lose concentration, those Jutsu end. You can maintain up to two different Jutsu at once.

If a jutsu must be maintained with concentration, that fact appears in its Duration entry and the jutsu specifies how long you can concentrate on it. You can end concentration at any time (no action required).

Jutsu that are maintained cost half (Round down) of the chakra spend to cast the jutsu. The cost to maintain concentration must be paid at the beginning of each of your turns or the Jutsu ends immediately.

Normal activity, such as moving and attacking, doesn't interfere with concentration. The following factors can break concentration:

- Casting a third Jutsu that requires concentration. You lose concentration on a jutsu if you cast a third jutsu that requires concentration. You can't concentrate on more than 2 jutsu at once.
- Whenever you take damage while you are concentrating on a jutsu, you must make a Constitution (Chakra control) ability check to maintain your concentration. The DC equals 15 or Half the damage you take + The number of Jutsu you are concentrating on. whichever number is higher. If you take damage from multiple sources during the same round, such as multiple motes of fire, you make a separate saving throw for each source of damage.
- Being incapacitated or killed. You lose concentration on a jutsu if you are incapacitated or if you die.

The GM might also decide that certain environmental phenomena, such as turbulence on a ship or train or rocky terrain while on a horse, require you to succeed on a DC 10 Constitution saving throw to maintain concentration on a jutsu.

Sometimes you would cast a Jutsu that requires Concentration while outside of direct combat or conflict on a mission or during a roleplay session. GM's are urged to not track a player's time while using the jutsu, instead only charging them for the initial cost of the jutsu for the duration. Concentration as a mechanic is designed to restrict extremely powerful Jutsu from remaining in play during combat by having a "tax" imposed for such a powerful effect. When using jutsu outside of such situations, they instead create unique and powerful roleplay opportunities.

KEYWORDS

There is an additional section right before a jutsu's description labeled as keyword. Keywords are a handy way to search for certain jutsu that interact with each other, Class or Clan features or feats. While Keywords doesn't directly pertain to a jutsu's effects, they can affect who can and cannot pick up certain jutsu without completing some conditions.

- Ninjutsu-Jutsu with the Ninjutsu Keyword when cast use your Ninjutsu attack bonus or Save DC.
- Genjutsu-Jutsu with the Genjutsu Keyword when cast use your Genjutsu attack bonus or Save DC
- Taijutsu-Jutsu with the Taijutsu Keyword when cast use your Taijutsu attack bonus or Save DC
- Bukijutsu-Jutsu with the Bukijutsu keyword when cast also uses your Taijutsu attack bonus or save DC
- Hijutsu- Jutsu with the Hijutsu keyword are unique to Clans only. This keyword doesn't affect the casting requirements of a jutsu it is attached to.
- Medical-Jutsu with the Medical keyword are considered Medical Ninjutsu and you must have a feature or feat that allows you to add jutsu with this keyword to your jutsu list.
- Earth Release-Jutsu with the Earth Release keyword are considered earth release jutsu and you must have a feature or feat that allows you to add jutsu with this keyword to your jutsu list. (Such as the Nature Release feat)
- Wind Release- Jutsu with the Wind Release keyword are considered wind release jutsu and you must have a feature or feat that allows you to add jutsu with this keyword to your jutsu list. (Such as the Nature Release feat)
- Fire Release- Jutsu with the Fire Release keyword are considered Fire release jutsu and you must have a feature or feat that allows you to add jutsu with this keyword to your jutsu list. (Such as the Nature Release feat)

- Lightning Release- Jutsu with the Lightning Release keyword are considered lightning release jutsu and you must have a feature or feat that allows you to add jutsu with this keyword to your jutsu list. (Such as the Nature Release feat)
- Fuinjutsu- Jutsu with the Fuinjutsu keyword are considered summoning or Sealing jutsu. Jutsu that has the Fuinjutsu keyword usually requires Chakra seals to cast.
- Sensory-Jutsu with the Sensory keyword are jutsu designed to track and find other creatures through manipulation of chakra.
- Visual- Jutsu with the Visual Keyword, are genjutsu that tricks the targets visual perception. Creatures with True sight or Blindness are immune to jutsu with this keyword. Chakra sight provides advantage against Jutsu with this keyword.
- Auditory- Jutsu with the Auditory keyword, are genjutsu that tricks the targets personal perception of sound. Deafness provides immunity to jutsu with this keyword.

- Inhaled- Jutsu with the Inhaled keyword, are genjutsu that are triggered by inhaling a type of poison or drug. Immunity to poison provides immunity to jutsu with this keyword.
- Tactile- Jutsu with the Tactile keyword, are genjutsu that tricks the targets perception of touch (both pleasure and pain).
- Clash-Jutsu with the Clash keyword can initiate a Jutsu Clash. You can find more rules on Clashing until the Clashing jutsu section in Chapter 8: Combat.
- Finisher-Jutsu with the Finisher keyword are especially powerful techniques usually reserved for Taijutsu and Bukijutsu. Jutsu with the Finisher keyword can usually be used at the end of a string of other Jutsu that calls for a finisher in their jutsu description. Jutsu with the finisher keyword can be cast without being a part of a string of other taijutsu.

TARGETS

A typical jutsu requires you to pick one or more targets to be affected by the Jutsu's effect. A Jutsu's description tells you whether the Jutsu targets creatures, objects, or a point of origin for an area of effect (described below). Unless a jutsu has a perceptible effect, a creature might not know it was targeted by a jutsu at all. An effect like crackling lightning is obvious, but a more subtle effect, such as an attempt to read a creature's thoughts, typically goes unnoticed, unless a jutsu says otherwise.

A CLEAR PATH TO THE TARGET

To target something, you must have a clear path to it, so it can't be behind total cover.

If you place an area of effect at a point that you can't see and an obstruction, such as a wall, is between you and that point, the point of origin comes into being on the near side of that obstruction.

TARGETING YOURSELF

If a Jutsu targets a creature of your choice, you can choose yourself, unless the creature must be hostile or specifically a creature other than you. If you are in the area of effect of a jutsu you cast, you can target yourself.

AREAS OF EFFECT

Jutsu's such as 10,000 Slicing Blades and Great Fireball cover an area, allowing them to affect multiple creatures at once.

A Jutsu's description specifies its area of effect, which typically has one of five different shapes: cone, cube, cylinder, line, or sphere. Every area of effect has a point of origin, a location from which the Jutsu effect erupts. The rules for each shape specify how you position its point of origin. Typically, a point of origin is a point in space, but some Jutsu have an area whose origin is a creature or an object.

A Jutsu's effect expands in straight lines from the point of origin. If no unblocked straight line extends from the point of origin to a location within the area of effect, that location isn't included in the Jutsu's area. To block one of these imaginary lines, an obstruction must provide total cover, as explained in chapter 8.

CONE

A cone extends in a direction you choose from its point of origin. A cone's width at a given point along its length is equal to that point's distance from the point of origin. A cone's area of effect specifies its maximum length. A cone's point of origin is not included in the cone area of effect, unless you decide otherwise.

CUBE

You select a cube's point of origin, which lies anywhere on a face of the cubic effect. The cube's size is expressed as the length of each side. A cube's point of origin is not included in the cube's area of effect, unless you decide otherwise.

CYLINDER

A cylinder's point of origin is the center of a circle of a particular radius, as given in the power description. The circle must either be on the ground or at the height of the power effect. The energy in a cylinder expands in straight lines from the point of origin to the perimeter of the circle, forming the base of the cylinder. The power's effect then shoots up from the base or down from the top, to a distance equal to the height of the cylinder. A cylinder's point of origin is included in the cylinder's area of effect.

LINE

A line extends from its point of origin in a straight path up to its length and covers an area defined by its width. A line's point of origin is not included in the line's area of effect, unless you decide otherwise.

SPHERE

You select a sphere's point of origin, and the sphere extends outward from that point. The sphere's size is expressed as a radius in feet that extends from the point. A sphere's point of origin is included in the sphere's area of effect.

SAVING THROWS

Many powers specify that a target can make a saving throw to avoid some or all of a Jutsu's effects. The Jutsu specifies the ability that the target uses for the save and what happens on a success or failure.

The DC to resist one of your jutsu equals 8 + your Ninjutsu, Genjutsu or Taijutsu modifier (The Type of Jutsu you use, is the modifier you use) + your proficiency bonus + any special modifiers.

ATTACK ROLLS

Some Jutsu require the ninja to make an attack roll to determine whether the jutsu effect hits the intended target. Your attack bonus with a Jutsu attack equals your Ninjutsu, Taijutsu or Genjutsu ability modifier (The Type of Jutsu you use, is the modifier you use) + your proficiency bonus. Most Jutsu that require attack rolls involve ranged attacks. Remember that you have disadvantage on a ranged attack roll if you are within 5 feet of a hostile creature that can see you and that isn't incapacitated (see chapter 8).

COMBINING EFFECTS

The effects of different jutsu add together while the durations of those jutsu overlap. The effects of the same jutsu cast multiple times don't stack, however. Instead, the most potent effect such as the highest bonus—from those castings applies while their durations overlap.

For example, if two allies cast Bravery on the same target, that character gains the Jutsu's benefit only once; he or she doesn't get to roll two bonus dice.

ELEMENTAL RELEASE

When searching through Ninjutsu, you will see different keywords such as Earth Release, Wind Release, Fire Release, etc. These indicate that in order to learn these jutsu you must have a matching nature release affinity. You can gain these affinities in one of three ways.

- Clans: Some clans provide early access to a nature release affinity such as the Uchiha clan and their Passive Affinity, which gives their Fire release affinity. Meaning they can add ninjutsu with the fire release keyword.
- Classes: Some classes provide opportunities to learn nature release affinities, such as the Ninjutsu specialist, Ninjutsu Focus subclasses. By selecting one at 2nd level, you gain the corresponding nature release affinity allowing you to learn jutsu with the same keyword.
- Feats: By taking the Nature Release Feat, when you are able, you select one of the five nature releases and gain its affinity, allowing you to learn jutsu with the same keyword.

JUTSU COST ORDER

Sometimes when combining a series of features, jutsu and abilities affects the total cost of the jutsu being cast and it can become a question of what order to apply said cost affecting features. To simplify the experience, you apply Cost altering features in the following order;

- 1) Base Jutsu cost
- 2) Jutsu Upcasting Cost (If any)
 - Jutsu Upcasting Cost Reduction (If any)
- 3) Additional Chakra Costs (If Any)
- 4) Chakra Cost Reductions (If any)

CHAPTER 10: NINJUTSU

NON-ELEMENTAL NINJUTSU

Non-Elemental Ninjutsu are ninjutsu that do not require Nature Release mastery or investment. These jutsu are more focused on versatility and chakra manipulation and control, such as increasing your movement speed by pooling chakra to the soles of your feet before taking off. Although a lot of these techniques are not as complicated as using a nature transformation, they are still extremely useful when on missions not requiring high level combat. There are Higher level Non-Elemental Jutsu such as Rasengan, the pinnacle chakra molding without elemental chakra. Non-Elemental Ninjutsu have no advantages or disadvantage against any other nature release.

WARDING SEAL

Classification: Ninjutsu

Rank: B-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: Instant

Components: HS, CM, CS

Cost: 14 Chakra

Keywords: Ninjutsu, Fuinjutsu

Description: When you cast this jutsu, you inscribe a harmful seal either on a surface (such as a section of floor, a wall, or a table) or within an object that can be closed to conceal the seal (such as a book, a scroll, or a treasure chest). If you choose a surface, the seal can cover an area of the surface no larger than 10 feet in diameter. If you choose an object, that object must remain in its place; if the object is moved more than 10 feet from where you cast this jutsu, the seal is broken and this jutsu ends without being triggered.

The seal is nearly invisible, requiring an Intelligence (Investigation) or Intelligence (Ninshou) check against your ninjutsu save DC to find it.

You decide what triggers the seal when you cast the jutsu. For seals inscribed on a surface, the most typical triggers include touching or stepping on the seal, removing another object covering it, approaching within a certain distance of it, or manipulating the object that holds it.

You can further refine the trigger so the jutsu is activated only under certain circumstances or according to a creature's physical characteristics (such as height or weight). You can also specify creatures that don't trigger the seal, such as those who say a certain password.

When you inscribe the seal, you can store a Ninjutsu or Genjutsu of B-Rank or lower in the seal by casting it as part of creating the seal. The jutsu must target a single creature or an area. The jutsu being stored has no immediate effect when cast in this way. When the seal is triggered, the stored jutsu is cast. If the jutsu has a target, it targets the creature that triggered the seal. If the jutsu affects an area, the area is centered on that creature. If the jutsu summons hostile creatures or creates harmful objects or traps, they appear as close as possible to the intruder and attack it. If the jutsu requires concentration, it lasts until the end of its full duration.

At Higher Ranks: For each rank you cast this jutsu above B-Rank, increase the cost of this jutsu by 3 and the rank of a Sealed Jutsu by 1. (B>A>S)

Earth Release is one of the basic elemental nature transformation techniques and allows the user to manipulate the surrounding earth for offensive and defensive purposes or create it; be it dirt, mud, or rock.

Earth Release techniques have the ability to change the strength and composition of the earth from being as hard as metal to as soft as clay as well as manipulating their density, making them heavier or lighter. This includes allowing the user to travel through ground and rock in various ways which can be essential for both transportation and for setting up attacks or creating defenses or for offence. Indeed, this makes earth techniques one of the most versatile of the elemental techniques. Pre-existing earth is not necessary though, for the user can create it with their own chakra.

Earth Release is naturally strong against Water Release and weak against Lightning Release

Prerequisite: You must have the Earth Release Affinity to learn jutsu with the Earth Release Keyword.

WIND RELEASE

Wind Release is the rarest of the five nature transformations, but those who can use it are able to cut through anything. Some shinobi use it by channeling wind chakra into weapons, making the blades far sharper and giving them greater reach. Wind Release can also be exhaled from the user's mouth, such as to blow away everything in the area, or generated with the user's hands, allowing precision strikes. Although Wind Release has naturally good range and power, it can be further enhanced by compressing it or layering different wind streams together. Wind Release can easily launch particles into the air, whether to create dust clouds that conceal the user's movements or sand storms that perforate targets.

Wind Release is naturally strong against Lightning Release and weak against Fire Release

FIRE RELEASE

Fire Release is the most common of the five nature transformations in the leaf village and land of fire, but those who can use it are able to knead chakra and set fire to anything. Fire Release is almost always used offensively and has very few defensive applications. Some shinobi use it to damage massive areas and harm large groups of foes. Fire Release is commonly exhaled from the user's mouth. Although Fire Release has naturally amazing power, it suffers from high chakra cost and is difficult to control flames after use.

Fire Release is naturally strong against Wind Release and weak against Water Release

WATER RELEASE

Water Release jutsu are most easily performed using existing water sources, such as lakes or rivers. Users can also create water within their bodies with chakra, which they expel from their mouths, though this is generally regarded as a testament of skill.

Water Release is typically used offensively, doing battering damage because of the sheer volume of water or slicing damage because of the water's high pressure. Water Release can be used to trap targets, such as imprisoning them with dense water or ensnaring them with sticky water. Water is a common option, with users surrounding themselves with water to be protected from harm. Alternatively, users can hide themselves from opponents with thick mist to obscure vision or water droplets to render the user invisible.

Water Release is naturally strong against Fire Release and weak against Earth Release.

Prerequisite: You must have the Water Release Affinity to learn jutsu with the Water Release Keyword.

LIGHTNING RELEASE

Lightning Release jutsu are the most complicated of the 5 nature transformations to produce. Users must vibrate their chakra to create sparks and eventually jolts of lightning, guiding and controlling it with chakra. Users of Lightning Release, usually cannot create lightning inside their bodies instead opting to create it on the surface of their skin and focus it into points or use their own lightning to guide natural lightning produced in thunder clouds, though this is very difficult and is generally regarded as a testament of true skill is completed. Lightning Release is typically used offensively, doing piercing damage when applied to a weapon, or doing massive electrical damage when hitting a creature. Lightning Release can be used to trap targets, such as ensnaring them with static electricity numbing their body and preventing them from moving. Defensively, Lightning is an uncommon option, with users surrounding themselves with Lightning to be protected from harm, although this is very difficult as lightning generally cannot be made uniform, but it is a testament to the users Nature Change skill.

Lightning Release is naturally strong against Earth Release and weak against Wind Release.

Prerequisite: You must have the Lightning Release Affinity to learn jutsu with the Lightning Release Keyword.

SUMMONING JUTSU

Summoning is a tool that the lucky few who have been able to form a blood pact can do, using special techniques to whisk creatures of their chosen blood pact into battle to aid them. Summoned creatures can only be called upon using the D-Rank Summoning Technique Ninjutsu. When selecting this jutsu, players/characters should select one of the above Creature types that they have encountered or formed a blood contract with as described in the Summoning Technique's description.

SIGNING A BLOOD PACT

The first step to being a summoner is finding a tribe's blood pact contract and signing it in blood. Such a contract is an elaborate scroll with the names of all current and past summoners that have signed it with that particular tribe. A contract is usually signed between the summoner and a tribe, but summons or tribes often align themselves with a summoner's organization, usually wearing some identifying mark of the organization they are allied to (such as a clan symbol or forehead protector). Tribes often do this to avoid conflict within their own ranks.

FINDING A CONTRACT

A contract can be found in one of three ways: A C-Rank summoned creature can summon a copy of the contract, a new contract is created, or the original contract is found within the world (usually under heavy guard or in ancient, forgotten places full of danger).

TRIBES AND LOYALTIES

When two summonses of the same type are summoned on opposing sides of the battlefield, they will often either refuse to fight, or only fight when summoned, harboring no hostility towards one another afterward. This largely depends on the summon types involved, or even the individual creatures summoned. Summons without free will cannot disobey the summoner, and will fight even if they don't want to. Not all tribes are aware of each other, even within their own type, but it is not at all uncommon for there to be different kinds of relations between each other (such as rivalries, alliances or even outright hostilities).

DETERMINE RANK, LEVEL AND COST

When you prepare to summon a creature, choose the Rank and Level you wish to summon. Note that you cannot summon a creature that has a Higher Rank than you can cast normally.

RANK

A summoned creature's Rank indicates its status among its peers and its relative power. To summon a creature of a specific Rank you must be able to cast jutsu of an equal rank according to your class levels. Summons of C-Rank and higher are capable of speech, and can summon their tribe's blood pact contract as a full-round action, or dismiss it as a free action. Some tribes may differ (e.g., Insectoids never have speech). Summons of B-Rank and below cannot disobey the summoner's orders, though they cannot be forced to summon their tribe's contract.

D-Rank (Soldiers): Soldiers are the grunts, summoned for simple tasks like providing a distraction, aiding in combat or supporting their summoner in different tasks; these summons usually do not have the ability to cast jutsu instead opting to using their races natural talents but to an accelerated degree. They cannot disobey the summoner's commands.

C-Rank (Protector): Similar to Soldiers, but they are more efficient at what they do. These summons usually can cast jutsu of their own as a Standard action and are far more competent. These are the creatures that most summoners grow alongside and bond with the most. They must obey the summoner's commands.

B-Rank (Guardian): Strong and usually larger than the previous ranks. These summoned creatures occasionally have special weapons, tools, attacks or abilities they can use that are unique to their creature race. They must obey the summoner.

A-Rank (Noble): These require great skill and much Chakra to summon, but they are powerful and dignified combatants. They have free will, but are very partial to following the summoner's orders. These creatures are usually regarded as the strongest within any given tribe due to their size, experience or raw power.

S-Rank (Champion): The greatest among their tribe's brethren, these summonses are of varying size but always substantial strength. They are extremely difficult and costly to summon, and are less likely to follow a summoner's orders if they do not make sense or are not aligning with their own ideas. These creatures are able to cast jutsu just as well as or better than most human shinobi or equal strength in some situations. They also hold the key to attaining their tribe's version of Sage mode.

If you are not in good standing with the summons tribe, a Champion may ask for compensation. Compensation usually comes in the form of a mission of atonement. These missions usually encompass the Ranks of A or S-Rank missions in terms of difficulty or complexity and usually require some form of confrontation with a rival tribe to some degree. A tribute need not always be paid immediately upon summoning, as the summon usually agrees to have payment delivered at a later time. Generally speaking, if you do not pay the tribute after the task is performed, the tribe may refuse to be summoned until payment is fulfilled.

LEVEL

In addition to Rank, summons have a Level determined by their Rank. A Summon has 2 Hit and Chakra Dice per Level.

- D-Rank: Level 2
- C-Rank: Level 4
- B-Rank: Level 6
- A-Rank: Level 8
- S-Rank: Level 10

COST

A summoned creatures Chakra cost is based on its Rank.

- D-Rank: 5 Chakra
- C-Rank: 10 Chakra
- B-Rank: 15 Chakra
- A-Rank: 20 Chakra
- S-Rank: 30 Chakra

STATISTICS AND ADVANCEMENT

To determine the statistics of a summon, you look up the description of the summon type and fill up an empty stat block (see further below) as follows:

- Determine its size, ability scores, movement types, speeds, Save DC's, features and special qualities according to its Type and Rank. (Some feats may be similar to adversary abilities)
- Calculate the creature's AC by using the following Formula: $10 + \text{Size Bonus} + \text{Half your Prof Bonus} + \text{Creatures Defensive Ability Score}$ (This decides which Ability score between Dexterity and Con is used to calculate AC)
- Determine the base damage of its natural weapons according to its Creature Type.
- Determine its Level:
 - Determine its HD and CD and calculate its Hit and Chakra Points (for faster summoning builds, take an average roll for each HD and CD, i.e., 2d6 makes 7 HP).
 - Determine its Attack Bonuses and Saves according to its Ability Scores, Proficiencies and Half your Proficiency bonus.
 - Add proficient skills based on the creature's type.
 - New feats exclusive to summons are listed further into this chapter.
- Apply all bonuses and penalties from feats, abilities, species modifiers and ability scores where applicable.

Size modifiers: The applicable bonuses are listed in the table below.

SIZE MODIFIERS

Size	AC Bonus	Attack Bonus	Damage Die
Tiny	+2	+2	1d6
Small	+1	+1	1d8
Medium	+0	+0	1d10
Large	-1	-1	1d12
Huge	-2	-2	2d6
Gargantuan	-3	-3	2d8

BUILDING A STAT BLOCK

To use a summon, you can use a stat block. A stat block is a creature entry (like those for monsters) listing all of its relevant statistics. When you look at a summon type's description and table and combine it with the way you Use summons, you can build a complete stat block, which looks like the one presented below (where an x is a value to be filled in) All Creatures of a given type generally have the same statistics with the DM creating unique variants of said creature. There is no need to make a new Stat block each time you summon a creature of the same rank even if narratively they are totally different creatures' names and personalities. Doing so slows the pace of the game otherwise.

SUMMON DURATION

A summons Chakra Point total is calculated like that of a heroic character, and decreases by 1 every 1 hour while it is summoned. Summons cannot have their Chakra restored or increased by any means while summoned, and once a summoned creature's Chakra Pool reaches 0, it is immediately unsummoned to their home plane where they recover their Hit points and chakra over the course of 8 hours. If a Summon is summoned before a full 8 hours passes, they roll up to half their Chakra Dice to recover chakra. A summon with free will, or one who is ordered to, can unsummon itself as a full-round action.

DEATH AND INJURY

When a summon is reduced below 0 hit points, it is defeated and returns to its original plane of existence. Summoned creatures will rest and recover naturally while in their home plane, and when summoned again will be summoned with their current HP and CP, meaning summoning one too quickly after it was defeated will summon it in an injured state. When a unique summon drops below 0 hp it starts dying (as normal characters do), but has a chance each round to return to its home plane, where it automatically stabilizes and starts recovering naturally. (Roll 1d20, on a roll of 19-20 they unsummon themselves) If a summon would die (reduced to at least -10 hit points or below or fails 3 death saving throws) they cannot be summoned again, and most likely the structure of the tribe changes. If a summon does not return to its home plane, it dies and can never be summoned again. Its body does not return to its home plane. If the summoner is slain, a summoned creature without free will continues to follow the summoner's last given order.

CHAPTER 11: GENJUTSU

ne of the main jutsu categories which uses chakra. Unlike ninjutsu, the effects of Genjutsu are not real, being only sensory illusions experienced by those who fall victim to it. Genjutsu falls under the broad category of Yin Release. A Genjutsu is created when a ninja controls the chakra flow of a target's cerebral nervous system, thereby affecting their five senses; this is frequently used to create false images and/or trick the body into believing it has experienced physical pain.

E-RANK:

AFFECTION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 Minute

Components: CM

Cost: 2 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: For the duration, you have advantage on all Persuasion checks directed at one creature you touch that isn't hostile towards you. When the jutsu ends the creature may realize that you used a jutsu to influence its mood if it doesn't fit your previous relationship. A creature prone to violence might attack you if they realize this. Another creature may seek retribution in other ways (At the DM's discretion), depending on the nature of your interactions.

CLONE TECHNIQUE

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Self

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Components: HS

Cost: 2 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Visual

Description: The most basic clone technique that is taught in most academies across the ninja world. By using this technique, the user creates 2 duplicates of themselves. The clones stay near you and disappear when attacked. The clones appear by the user's side and cannot stray more than 5 feet away from the original. The duplicates look like the user and are perfect duplicates, but they cannot speak or perform any action that requires having a body, like lifting an object or attacking a creature. Once touched by another creature or object or violently shaken, it disappears in a puff of smoke.

After Activation, as a reaction you make a creature attacking you roll an additional 1d6, subtracting the result from their total attack roll. Doing this causes one of your clones to be struck regardless of the attack missing or hitting you. After the duration or both of your clones have been struck, this jutsu immediately ends. Any creature using a Jutsu with the Sensory Keyword or that can see through Genjutsu are not affected by this jutsu.

At Higher Levels: This Jutsu's proficiency increases as you increase in level. When you reach 5th level create 3 duplicates, 11th level (4 duplicates), 17th level (5 duplicates).

DISTANT ECHO

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 60 Feet

Duration: Up to 1 minute

Components: HS, CM

Cost: 1 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: You create a sound within range that lasts for the duration. The sound also ends if you dismiss it as an action or use this jutsu again. The sound you create can be any volume, ranging from a whisper to a scream. It can be your voice or another sound you have heard before such as another person's voice, a lion's roar or a shattering vase. The sound continues unabated throughout the duration or you can make discrete sounds at different times before the jutsu ends.

At Higher Levels: This Jutsu's proficiency increases as you increase in level. At 5th level select 1 additional location for the sound to originate. 11th level, 2 additional locations, 17th level, 3 additional locations.

DOUBT

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: 1 Minute

Components: CS

Cost: 2 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: For the duration, you have advantage on all Intimidation checks directed at one creature you touch that you are interacting with. When the jutsu ends the creature may realize that you used a jutsu to influence its mood if it doesn't fit your previous relationship. A creature prone to violence might attack you if they realize this. Another creature may seek retribution in other ways (At the DM's discretion), depending on the nature of your interactions.

ENCODE THOUGHTS

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Self

The thought strand appears in an unoccupied space on a surface of your choice, such as a wall, blank scroll, book, or skin in the form of text or images of your memories design.

If you cast this Genjutsu while concentrating on a Genjutsu or ability that allows you to manipulate the thoughts of others (such as Memory Domination), you can transform the thought or memories you read, rather than your own into a thought strand.

MINOR ILLUSION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: E-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 Feet

Duration: 1 Minute

Components: HS

Cost: 2 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Visual, Auditory

Description: You create a sound or an image of an object within range that lasts for the duration. The illusion also ends if you dismiss it as an action or cast this genjutsu again.

If you create a sound, its volume can range from a whisper to a scream. It can be your voice, someone else's voice, a lion's roar, a beating of drums, or any other sound you choose. The sound continues unabated throughout the duration, or you can make discrete sounds at different times before the spell ends. If you create an image of an object—such as a chair, muddy footprints, or a small chest—it must be no larger than a 5-foot cube. The image can't create sound, light, smell, or any other sensory effect. Physical interaction with the image reveals it to be an illusion, because things can pass through it.

If a creature uses its action to examine the sound or image, the creature can determine that it is an illusion with a successful Intelligence (Investigation), or Wisdom (Illusion) check against your genjutsu save DC. If a creature discerns the illusion for what it is, the illusion becomes faint to the creature.

On a failed save, the target takes 4d6 psychic damage, and it can't take a reaction until the end of its next turn, and half damage on a successful save. The target must also make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, the target must choose on its next turn whether it gets a move, an action, or a bonus action; it only gets one of the three, suffering no additional effects on a successful save.

Cost: 7 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

SUGGESTION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: C-Rank

Casting Time: 1Action

Range: 30 Feet

Duration: Concentration, up to 8 hours

Components: HS, CM

Cost: 9 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: You suggest a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two) and use genjutsu to influence a creature you can see within range that can hear and understand you. Creatures that can't be charmed are immune to this effect. The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the course of action sound reasonable. Asking the creature to stab itself, throw itself onto a spear, immolate itself, or do some other obviously harmful act ends the jutsu. The target must make a Wisdom saving throw. On a failed save, it purses the course of action you described to the best of its ability. The suggested course of action can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do.

You can also specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. For example, you might suggest that a shinobi give her horse to the first beggar she meets. If the condition isn't met before the jutsu expires, the activity isn't preformed. If you or any of your companions damage the target, the genjutsu ends.

THOUGHT SHIELD

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 30 Feet

Duration: 8 Hour

Duration: Instant

Components: HS, CM

Cost: 9 Chakra

Until the genjutsu ends, a creature that enters the spell's area for the first time on a turn or starts its turn there must make a Charisma saving throw. On a failed save, a creature can't speak a deliberate lie while in the radius. You know whether each creature succeeds or fails on its saving throw.

An affected creature is aware of the spell and can thus avoid answering questions to which it would normally respond with a lie. Such creatures can be evasive in its answers as long as it remains within the boundaries of the truth.

B-RANK:

COMPULSION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: B-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 60 Feet

Duration: Concentration, Up to 1 minute

Components: HS, CM

Cost: 13 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: Creatures of your choice that you can see within range and that can hear you must make a Wisdom saving throw. A target automatically succeeds on this saving throw if it can't be charmed. On a failed save, a target is affected by this genjutsu. Until the genjutsu ends, you can use a bonus action on each of your turns to designate a direction that is horizontal to you. Each affected target must use as much of its movement as possible to move in that direction on its next turn. It can take its action before it moves. After moving in this way, it can make another Wisdom saving throw to try to end the effect. A target isn't compelled to move into an obviously deadly hazard, such as a fire pit, but it will provoke opportunity attacks to move in the designated direction.

CONFUSION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: B-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 90 feet

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Components: HS, CM

Cost: 12 Chakra

centered on a point you choose within range must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw when you cast this genjutsu or be affected by it. An affected target can't take reactions and must roll a d10 at the start of each of its turns to determine its behavior for that turn.

CONFUSION EFFECTS

D10 Behavior

- | | |
|------|---|
| 1 | The creature uses all its movement to move in a random direction. To determine the direction, roll a d8 and assign a direction to each die face. The creature doesn't take an action this turn. |
| 2-6 | The creature doesn't move or take actions this turn. |
| 7-8 | The creature uses its action to make a melee attack against a randomly determined creature within its reach. If there is no creature within its reach, the creature does nothing this turn. |
| 9-10 | The creature can act and move normally. |

Duration: Concentration, Up to 1 minute

On a failed save, the target loses the ability to distinguish friend from foe, regarding all creatures it can see as enemies until the genjutsu ends. Each time the target takes damage, it can repeat the saving throw, ending the effect on itself on a success. Whenever the affected creature chooses another creature as a target, it must choose the target at random from among the creatures it can see within range of the attack, jutsu, or other ability it's using. If an enemy provokes an opportunity attack from the affected creature, the creature must make that attack if it is able to.

MAJOR IMAGE

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: B-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: 120 Feet

Duration: Until Dispelled

Components: HS, CM, CS

Cost: 12 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory, Tactile, Visual

Description: You create the image of an object, a creature, or some other visible phenomenon that is no larger than a 20-foot cube. The image appears at a spot that you can see within range and lasts for the duration. It seems completely real, including sounds, smells, and temperature appropriate to the thing depicted. You can't create sufficient heat or cold to cause damage, a sound loud enough to deal damage or deafen a creature, or a smell that might sicken a creature.

As long as you are within range of the illusion, you can use your action to cause the image to move to any other spot within range. As the image changes location, you can alter its appearance so that its movements appear natural for the image. For example, if you create an image of a creature and move it, you can alter the image so that it appears to be walking. Similarly, you can cause the illusion to make different sounds at different times, even making it carry on a conversation, for example.

Physical interaction with the image reveals it to be a genjutsu, because things can pass through it. A creature that uses its action to examine the image can determine that it is an illusion with a successful Intelligence (Investigation) or Wisdom (Illusion) check against your genjutsu save DC. If a creature discerns the illusion for what it is, the creature can see through the image, and its other sensory qualities become faint to the creature.

MEMORY DOMINATION

Classification: Genjutsu

Rank: B-Rank

Casting Time: 1 Action

Range: Touch

Duration: Until Restored

Components: HS, CM, CS

Cost: 14 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu

Description: You attempt to reshape another creature's memories. One creature that you touch must make an Intelligence saving throw. If you are fighting the creature, it has advantage on the saving throw. On a failed save, the target becomes charmed by you for 1 minute. The charmed target is incapacitated and unaware of its surroundings, though it can still hear you. If it takes any damage or is targeted by another jutsu, this jutsu ends, and none of the target's memories are modified. While this charm lasts, you can affect the target's memory of an event that it experienced within the last 12 Months and that lasted no more than 1 Day.

You can Temporarily overwrite all memory of the event, allow the target to recall the event with perfect clarity and exacting detail, change its memory of the details of the event, or create a memory of some other event.

You must speak to the target to describe how its memories are affected and it must be able to understand your language for the modified memories to take root. Its mind fills in any gaps in the details of your description. If the jutsu ends before you have finished describing the modified memories, the creature's memory isn't altered.

The modified memories take hold when the jutsu ends. A modified memory doesn't necessarily affect how a creature behaves, particularly if the memory contradicts the creature's natural inclinations, allegiance, or beliefs. An illogical modified memory is dismissed, perhaps as a bad dream. The DM might deem a modified memory too nonsensical to affect a creature in a significant manner.

A Genjutsu Break or Greater Restorative Jutsu cast on the target, specifically intended to restore the creature's true memory will restore the memory.

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory, Tactile, Visual

Description: After placing your specially made Genjutsu chakra seal onto a surface of your choice, the chakra seal creates an illusion of an object, creature, or some other visible phenomenon within range that activates when a specific condition occurs. This Genjutsu was imperceptible until then. It must be no larger than a 30-Foot cube, and you decide when you cast the Genjutsu how the illusion behaves and what sounds it makes. The scripted performance can last up to 5 minutes. But will repeat from the beginning.

When the condition you specify occurs, the illusion springs into existence and performs in the manner you described. Once the Illusion finishes performing, it repeats from the beginning continuing until the condition of the illusion being cast is no longer met.

Physical interaction with the image reveals it to be an illusion, because things can pass through it. A creature that uses its action to examine the illusion can determine that it is an illusion with a successful Genjutsu (Wisdom) check against the Jutsu save DC. If a creature discerns the illusion for what it is, the creature can see through the image, and any noise it makes sounds hollow to the creature.

Cost: 20 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Auditory

Description: You attempt to beguile a humanoid that you can see within range. It must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or be charmed by you for the duration. If you or creatures that are friendly to you are fighting it, it has advantage on the saving throw.

While the target is charmed, you have a telepathic link with it as long as the two of you are within 1 mile of each other. You can use this telepathic link to issue commands to the creature while you are conscious (no action required), which it does its best to obey. You can specify a simple and general course of action, such as "Attack that creature", "Run over there", or "Fetch that object". If the creature completes the order and doesn't receive further direction from you, it defends and preserves itself to the best of its ability.

You can use your action to take total and precise control of the target. Until the end of your next turn, the creature takes only the actions you choose, and doesn't do anything that you don't allow it to do. During this time, you can also cause the creature to use a reaction, but this requires you to use your own reaction as well.

Each time the target takes damage, it makes a new Wisdom saving throw against the spell. If the saving throw succeeds, the genjutsu ends.

Cost: 20 Chakra a Week for 52 weeks consistently.

Keywords: Genjutsu, Fuinjutsu

Description: This jutsu requires a living replacement body void of consciousness and 100 Chakra seals systematically placed around the replacement body. This jutsu creates an inert duplicate of a living creature's consciousness with all of its current memories and experiences as a safeguard against death. This Mental Clone is cultured over the course of 1 year, as the user would offer a portion of its chakra weekly to grow the psyche of the clone.

You can choose to have the clone be a younger version of the subject. This culturing must be maintained consistently for at least a year. If the subject does not offer its chakra for more than 1 week, the culturing is prematurely stopped as the mental clone awakes with an insufficient amount of chakra as its own person and not linked to the original subject as intended.

If this jutsu is completed successfully, at any time after the clone matures, if the original creature dies, its consciousness is transferred to the clone provided the consciousness isn't damaged and is able to transfer. The clone only retains the mental stats (Intelligence, Wisdom & Charisma) of the original subject and all of its knowledge at the point of this Jutsu's original start.

Cost: 17 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Visual
Description: This genjutsu allows you to change the appearance of any number of creatures that you can see within range. You give each target you choose a new, illusory appearance. An unwilling target can make a Charisma saving throw, and if it succeeds, it is unaffected by this genjutsu.

The genjutsu disguises physical appearances as well as clothing, armor, weapons, and equipment. You can make each creature seem 1 foot shorter or taller and appear thin, fat, or in-between. You can't change a target's body type, so you must choose a form that has the same basic arrangement of limbs. Otherwise, the extent of the illusion is up to you. The genjutsu lasts for the duration, unless you use your action to dismiss it sooner. The changes wrought by this genjutsu fail to hold up to physical inspections. For example, if you use this genjutsu to add a hat to a creature's outfit, objects pass through the hat, and anyone who touches it would feel nothing or would feel the creature's head and hair. If you use this genjutsu to appear thinner than you are, the hand of someone who reaches out to touch you would bump into you while it was seemingly still in midair.

A creature can use its action to inspect a target and make an Intelligence (Investigation) or Wisdom (Illusion) check against your genjutsu save DC. If it succeeds, it becomes aware that the target is disguised.

S-RANK:

ANTIPATHY/SYMPATHY

Classification: Genjutsu
Rank: S-Rank
Casting Time: 1 Hour
Range: 120 Feet
Duration: 10 Days
Components: HS, CM, CS
Cost: 28 Chakra

Keywords: Genjutsu, Visual
Description: This genjutsu attracts or repels creatures of your choice. You target something within range, either a Huge or smaller object or creature or an area that is no larger than a 200-foot cube. Then specify a kind of intelligent creature, such as Sage beasts, Demons, or even Humans. You inject the target with an aura that either attracts or repels the specified creatures for the duration. Choose antipathy or sympathy as the aura's effect.

Antipathy. The genjutsu causes creatures of the kind you designated to feel an intense urge to leave the area and avoid the target. When such a creature can see the target or comes within 120 feet of it, the creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or gain 4 ranks of fear against the target. The creature remains frightened while it can see the target or is within 120 feet of it. While frightened by the target, the creature must use its movement to move to the nearest safe spot from which it can't see the target. If the creature moves more than 120 feet from the target and can't see it, the creature is no longer frightened, but the creature becomes frightened again if it regains sight of the target or moves within 120 feet of it.

Sympathy. The enchantment causes the specified creatures to feel an intense urge to approach the target while within 120 feet of it or able to see it. When such a creature can see the target or comes within 120 feet of it, the creature must succeed on a Wisdom saving throw or use its movement on each of its turns to enter the area or move within reach of the target. When the creature has done so, it can't willingly move away from the target. If the target damages or otherwise harms an affected creature, the affected creature can make a Wisdom saving throw to end the effect, as described below.

Ending the Effect. If an affected creature ends its turn while not within 120 feet of the target or able to see it, the creature makes a Wisdom saving throw. On a successful save, the creature is no longer affected by the target and recognizes the feeling of repugnance or attraction as magical. In addition, a creature affected by the genjutsu is allowed another Wisdom saving throw every 24 hours while the genjutsu persists. A creature that successfully saves against this effect is immune to it for 1 minute, after which time it can be affected again.

Bukijutsu (Literally meaning: sword hidden in the hand techniques) pertains to techniques that entail the throwing of shuriken, kunai, Senbon, or any other number of hand-held weapons. Bukijutsu can be used in combination with Taijutsu, ninjutsu, and/or chakra flow in order to create more devastating techniques. Additionally, Shurikenjutsu can pertain to techniques used through ninjutsu-made weapons.

As a consequence of the versatility of the weapons involved, it is practiced by nearly all shinobi to some extent. However, because of its value as a supplemental art, numerous more innovative techniques have been developed, including ones that can even alter the trajectory of the projectiles once they've been thrown. Expert users can use such methods to accurately hit targets that are even located in their blind spot

The combination of ability scores, Clan, class, and background defines your character's capabilities in the game, and the personal details you create set your character apart from every other character. Even within your class and Clan, you have options to fine-tune what your character can do. But this chapter is for players who want to go a step further.

This chapter defines sets of rules for customizing your character: multiclassing and feats. Multiclassing lets you combine classes together, and feats are special options you can choose when increasing your ability scores as you gain levels.

MULTICLASSING

Multiclassing allows you to gain levels in multiple classes. Doing so lets you mix the abilities of those classes to realize a character concept that might not be reflected in one of the standard class options.

With this rule, you have the option of gaining a level in a new class whenever you advance in level, instead of gaining a level in your current class. Your levels in all your classes are added together to determine your character level. For example, if you have three levels in Scout-Nin and two in Intelligence Operative, you're a 5th-level character.

As you advance in levels, you might primarily remain a member of your original class with just a few levels in another class, or you might change course entirely, never looking back at the class you left behind. You might even start progressing in a third or fourth class. Compared to a single-class character of the same level, you'll sacrifice some focus in exchange for versatility.

PREREQUISITES

To qualify for a new class, you must meet the ability score prerequisites for both your current class and your new one, as shown in the Multiclassing Prerequisites table. For example, a Scout-Nin who decides to multiclass into the Genjutsu-Specialist class must have either Strength or Dexterity and Wisdom or Charisma scores of 14 or higher. Without the full training that a beginning character receives, you must be a quick study in your new class, having a natural aptitude that is reflected by higher-than-average ability scores.

MULTICLASSING PREREQUISITES

Class	Ability Score Minimum
Genjutsu Specialist	Wisdom or Charisma 14
Hunter-Nin	Dexterity 14
Intelligence Operative	Intelligence 14
Medical-Nin	Intelligence or Wisdom 14
Ninjutsu Specialist	Intelligence 14
Scout-Nin	Strength or Dexterity 14 & Intelligence or Wisdom 14
Taijutsu Specialist	Strength or Dexterity 14 & Wisdom 14
Weapon Specialist	Strength 14 or Dexterity 14
Puppet Master	Constitution & Intelligence 14

EXPERIENCE POINTS

The experience point cost to gain a level is always based on your total character level, as shown in the Character Advancement table in chapter 1, not your level in a particular class. So, if you are a Scout-Nin 6/ Intelligence Operative 1, you must gain enough XP to reach 8th level before you can take your second level as an Intelligence Operative or your seventh level as a Scout-Nin.

MULTICLASSING EXAMPLE

Breanna is playing a 4th-level Hunter-Nin. When her character earns enough experience points to reach 5th level, Breanna decides that her character will multiclass instead of continuing to progress as a Hunter-Nin. Breanna's Hunter-Nin has been spending a lot of time with Her Jonin mentor, which happens to be a Weapon-Specialist, and has even been doing some jobs on the side for the Anbu Black-Ops as a bounty hunter. Breanna decides that her character will multiclass into the Weapon Specialist class, and thus her character becomes a 4th-level Hunter-Nin and 1st-level Weapon-Specialist (written as Hunter-Nin 4/Weapon Specialist 1).

When Breanna's character earns enough experience to reach 6th level, she can decide whether to add another Hunter-Nin level (Becoming a Hunter-Nin 5/ Weapon Specialist 1), another Weapon Specialist level (Becoming a Hunter-Nin 5/Weapon Specialist 2), or a level in a third class, perhaps dabbling in Taijutsu Specialization due to some training with her teammates. (Becoming a Hunter-Nin 4/ Weapon Specialist 1/Taijutsu Specialist 1)

HIT POINTS, CHAKRA POINTS, HIT DIE & CHAKRA DIE

You gain the hit and chakra points from your new class as described for levels after 1st. You gain the 1st-level hit & Chakra points for a class only when you are a 1st-level character.

You add together the Hit & chakra Dice granted by all your classes to form your pool of Hit & chakra Dice. If the dice are the same die type, you can simply pool them together. For example, both the Scout-Nin and the Medical-Nin have a d8 Hit die and d10 Chakra die, so if you are a Scout-Nin 5/Medical-Nin 5, you have ten d8 Hit Dice and ten d10 chakra die. If your classes give you Hit or chakra Dice of different types, keep track of them separately. If you are a Scout-nin 5/Weapon Specialist 5, for example, you have five d10 Hit Dice & five d8 Hit Dice. (and five d8/d10 Chakra die as well)

PROFICIENCY BONUS

Your proficiency bonus is always based on your total character level, as shown in the Character Advancement table in chapter 1, not your level in a particular class. For example, if you are a Scout-Nin 3/ Intelligence operative 2, you have the proficiency bonus of a 5th-level character, which is +5.

If a class feature or feat allows you to forgo your proficiency bonus, you may only do so once.

PROFICIENCIES

When you gain a level in a class other than your first, you gain only some of that class's starting proficiencies, as shown in the Multiclassing Proficiencies table.

MULTICLASSING PROFICIENCIES

Class	Proficiencies Gained
Genjutsu Specialist	-
Hunter-Nin	Light armor, One skill from the class's skill list, trackers kit.
Intelligence Operative	Light armor, medium armor; One Ninja Tool Kit from their list.
Medical-Nin	Light armor; Simple Weapons; Medicine Kit; Medicine skill
Ninjutsu Specialist	-
Scout-Nin	Light armor; Medium armor; Martial Weapons; one skill from their list
Taijutsu Specialist	Tonfa, Nunchaku and combat gauntlets
Weapon Specialist	All Armors; Simple & Martial Weapons
Puppet Master	Light Armor, One skill from list, Weaponsmith kit.

CLASS FEATURES

When you gain a new level in a class, you get its features for that level. A few features, however, have additional rules when you're multiclassing: Extra Attack, Superiority Die and Unarmored Defense. The Ability to cast Jutsu (Ninjutsu, Taijutsu, and Genjutsu) is inherent to all player characters regardless of class, you instead have a predetermined maximum amount of Jutsu You can know.

EXTRA ATTACK

If you gain the Extra Attack class feature from more than one class, the features don't add together. You can't make more than two attacks with this feature.

SUPERIORITY DIE

If you gain superiority dice of any type (from another class, you instead gain one additional die to your existing pool of dice.

UNARMED DEFENSE

If you already have the Unarmed Defense feature, you can't gain it again from another class.

JUTSU CASTING

Your capacity for Jutsu Casting depends partly on your combined levels in all your classes and partly on your individual levels in those classes. Once you have levels from more than one class, use the rules below. If you multiclass but don't pick a class that gains more or less jutsu than your current classes Tier then ignore these rules.

JUTSU KNOWN & HIGHEST LEVEL KNOWN.

You determine how many Jutsu you know and at what rank, based on the following requirements in this order:

Your Character level, determines the Highest Rank known, following either classes Highest Rank jutsu known.

You determined the number of jutsu known using the following chart.

MULTICLASSING JUTSU KNOWN TABLE

Class	Jutsu Gained Per level
Genjutsu Specialist	+1 Every 3 Levels.
Hunter-Nin	+1 Every 3 Levels.
Intelligence Operative	+1 Every 2 Levels.
Medical-Nin	+1 Every Level
Ninjutsu Specialist	+1 Every Level
Scout-Nin	+1 Every 2 Levels.
Taijutsu Specialist	+1 Every 3 Levels
Weapon Specialist	+1 Every 3 Levels

JUTSU MODIFIERS

While each class provides you with modifiers for each of your 3 differing types of Jutsu, multiclassing can seemingly complicate things. To simplify this, you only follow the Jutsu Save DC and Jutsu Modifiers of the class you have the most levels in, as that class is what you have put most of your focus on. In the event you have an equal level in 2 or more classes, you select the class you want to use, Jutsu Save/Jutsu modifiers. You cannot pick and choose; you must select a class suite of saves/modifiers.

FIGHTING STYLES

Certain class features or feats offer your choice of Fighting Style. Choose from the following. You can't take a Fighting Style option more than once, even if you later get to choose again.

BLADE MASTERY

CHAPTER 14: ALLIES & ADVERSARIES

The World of Naruto is full of unique characters. Friends and Foes if you will. These characters fill the world with unique perspectives and traits. Below we will detail how this game differentiates both Friends and Foes.

While we generally differentiate between the types of NPC's the players will encounter, it is also beneficial to set expectations in how the rest of the world is structured.

EVERY DAY NPC'S

While within the world of Naruto, there are high flying shinobi and samurai performing world altering attacks, breathing fire, calling on lightning and creating tornados. There are many more civilians, guardsman, bakers. Nobles, merchants and everyday people who cannot fathom the power that such grand Shinobi hold.

When creating a supporting cast of NPC's remember that the Players characters are meant to be extraordinary, their growth rate will dwarf a significant volume of the population. To better demonstrate this here are a few key things to keep in mind.

- An ability score of 8 is absolutely average within the world, with most common people never exceeding a 12 in 2 or more scores.
- Most civilians, guards, merchants etc. will never reach beyond level 4.
- The Average Genin ranges between Levels 1-4.
- The Average Chunin ranges between levels 5-8
- The Average Jonin ranges between levels 9-12
- Most Kage with some notable exceptions range between 13-15
- Most Legendary shinobi and samurai with world altering techniques range between 16-20

While this is a general guide to follow you can stretch the boundaries as much as you want.

ALLIES

Allies are a classification most people call Non-Hostile or Friendly NPC's. While they exist within the world as the characters the DM will act on the behalf of and the players will interact with for most of your campaign, they can be given Stats, abilities, and even a character sheet unique to them.

Characters whom you designate to be friends have two different avenues towards character creation.

If you want your Non-Hostile/Friendly NPCs to have combat abilities similar to a Player then it is suggested to build them as a PC but with Average Hit points/Chakra Points. They also do not follow the normal Highest Ranked Jutsu known limitations.

If you want your Non-Hostile/Friendly NPCs to have traits that are simpler to keep track of, you can build them as an "Adversary" the official name for this Conversion "Monsters". Building Friendly/Non-Hostile NPCs as adversaries will follow the same rules listed in the "Adversary" Section.

ADVERSARY

"Adversaries" are a classification of hostile or potentially non-friendly NPCs that the players have chances and the option of fighting. Unlike in normal Dungeons and Dragons 5e we will not be using combat rating (cr) instead we will go with a totally different system that equates monsters challenge level to players levels, and introducing a system that does the following (All Credit goes to Giffy Glyph for laying the groundwork for this system rework):

- Adversaries no longer have cr, replaced by Levels.
- Adversaries are now classed into different Ranks "Minions, Standard, Elite, Solo"
- Adversaries now have roles that define their play style and encourages group combat.
- Adversaries now have "Standard" Stat lines that can be applied for generating strengths and weaknesses on the fly.
- Adversaries now have a pool of predesigned features, traits and abilities they can be given to create unique mechanics.
- Adversaries now provide standard XP values.
- Adversaries now have different Attack categories that can be applied: "Common Attacks, Uncommon Attacks, Power Attacks, Jutsu Attacks, Condition Attacks, Overkill Attacks, & Recharge Attacks"

THE ADVERSARY PROFILE

When creating an Adversary, you will go down this list of stats which can be customized as you go along each step:

- Level: A one to one match for players character levels to adjust appropriate challenge levels.
- Role: Every Adversary has a role in combat which describes their focus on the battlefield.
- Clan: Every Adversary has a clan they would belong too, which helps define them.
- Rank: Describes the class of adversary this is ranging from Minion up to Solo.
- Armor Class (AC): This represents how hard the adversary is to hit with an attack, whether due to armor, agility, Jutsu, training, or some other significant feature unique to them.
- Hit Points: The amount of damage that the adversary can endure before it dies.
- Chakra Points: The amount of energy the adversary has to perform its Abilities or Jutsu before it no longer can.
- Speed: The adversaries movement speed.
- Attack Bonus: This Represents the adversary's ability to make successful attacks- Melee, Ranged, Jutsu.
- Damage: This is the amount of damage an adversary can cause with a successful attack with melee, ranged or jutsu. This is by no means a hard number and should be followed verbatim, instead view this as an average amount of damage an adversary should be able to output per round on successful attacks.
- Jutsu DCs: This shows the primary, secondary and weakest DCs of each of the 3 Jutsu types that the adversary may use.
- Ability Modifiers: These are the Adversaries ability modifiers. These can be arranged however you see fit. Unlike player characters, adversaries can have bonuses naturally up to +10
- Saving Throws: These come in 3 grades. Best, Average, Worst. Use the highest for the adversaries best stat the Average for the 2nd and 3rd stats and worst for the last 3 stats.
- Initiative: Your Adversaries combat reaction speed.

- Traits: Passive Perks the Adversary has from their Role & rank.
- Abilities: Active or Reactive features similar to a player's class features.
- Jutsu: Abilities the Adversary has that can be used every turn but costs their chakra points to use.

BUILD YOUR ADVERSARY

Once you're ready to start building your monster, there are six basic steps to consider:

(LINK TO ADVERSARY BUILDER)

1. Pick a Level: Decide how dangerous your adversary should be. The higher the level, the bigger the threat it will be towards the players.
2. Assign a Role: Choose how your adversary will function in combat. Different roles confer different benefits. (Higher AC, Attack bonus, movement speed etc.)
3. Assign a Clan: Choose what clan your Adversary hails from.
4. Assign Traits: Give your adversary some quick traits from the list of traits below. Select traits that fit the flavor and theme of the adversary.
5. Assign Role specific Abilities: Add some special abilities based on the role of your adversary, which assists in making your adversary stand out.
6. Assign Jutsu: Give your adversary some Jutsu that rounds out their set and range of attacks. This allows you to build an adversary that can perform unique set of attacks.
7. Personalization: Tweak the default Adversary Stats if needed to better suit your group of players.

STEP 1. PICK A LEVEL

Your first step is to assign a level to your new adversary. QuickStart adversaries don't use traditional challenge ratings. Instead, they use Adversary levels to determine their base strength. Adversary levels are a one-to-one match for character levels—one 4th-level Adversary should be a decent contest for one 4th-level player character. For a medium challenge, use the same level as your average player character. Add +2 levels to make it a more dangerous encounters, or -2 levels for an easier time. Once you've decided on a level, check the Adversary Statistics by Level table to find your Adversaries basic attributes AC, hit points, attack bonuses, damage, etc.

STEP 2. APPLY A ROLE

Adversaries, like player characters, have roles to play. Some charge in to fight in the front-line, some fire away from the back, some devastate and destroy their enemies with wild abandon, and some lend support to their allies. There are seven core roles that you can apply to your adversaries, each with its own strengths and weaknesses: controller, defender, lurker, scout, caster, striker, and support

- Controller: Controllers disorientate their enemies, moving them around the battlefield and applying conditions. Controllers deal little direct damage themselves, preferring to weaken their enemies and allow their allies to attack with advantage.
- Defender: Defenders shield their allies and block enemy attacks. They are harder to hit thanks to their thicker armor, but often move slower as a result.
- Lurker: Lurkers hide out of sight until they see a weak point, then attack for massive damage. They are glass cannons, capable of dealing a lot of damage yet easily defeated if cornered.

- Scout: Scouts like to move around, using their speed and high perception to outmaneuver their enemies. They tend to be lightly armored and carry smaller weapons to keep their weight low and speed high.
- Casters: Casters stay out of harm's way, firing at enemies from a distance. They are good at ranged attacks, but fall quickly if attacked.
- Striker: Strikers forgo defense and focus on hitting the enemy hard. Strikers are easier to hit but deal more damage with their attacks.
- Supporter: Supporters provide aid to their allies, keeping them in peak condition. Supporters deal little damage and are relatively frail—they need protection to survive long on the battlefield.

Each role changes the default monster statistics in some fashion—granting more AC, or reducing damage, or inflating health. Try to use a variety of roles to create interesting encounters for your players. Once you've picked a role, check the Monster Roles table (p7) to see how it affects your adversary's attributes.

STEP 3. ASSIGN A CLAN

To give your adversary additional depth and mechanical versatility, you assign them a clan that they would hail from. This clan will provide them open access to that chosen clans Hijutsu and access to modified versions of that clans features, in the form of Adversary Clan features.

STEP 4. ASSIGN TRAITS

To give your adversary some flavor, add one or two passive traits based on its class or faction. Traits help your adversary feel more unique, but try to keep them simple, avoid complicated mechanics or using more than two traits per adversary. See the Adversary Traits table for a list of example traits you can apply to your adversary. Make your own if the examples don't fit your particular adversary.

STEP 5. ASSIGN ROLE SPECIFIC ABILITIES.

Now it's time to add some abilities unique to the role they have. Abilities are a good way to distinguish adversaries from each other and highlight their roles. They allow defenders to defend and strikers to strike. See the Adversary Ability table for a list of example powers you can apply to your adversary.

STEP 6. ASSIGN JUTSU

Now it's time to add some Jutsu. While Adversaries have roles that grant them role specific abilities, their roll also covers which Jutsu Types & subtypes they predominantly use.

STEP 7. PERSONALIZATION.

Finally, compare the adversary template to your player characters and consider tweaking any values that seem a little over or under-powered. Lower the AC or HP if your players have trouble dealing damage, or reduce the attack bonus or damage if their defenses are a little low.

STEP 8. START PLAYING.

Your adversaries are now ready. Start your encounter and improvise any extra details as you go.

REFINING AS YOU PLAY

During an encounter, you might discover your adversary is too strong or too weak for your party. That's ok, it's hard to predict just how powerful some abilities can be. If you find you need to update an adversary during live play, try to do so naturally. Avoid telling players explicitly what you're doing instead, fold it into the fiction.

MINION, ELITES & SOLOS

All but some are more equal than others, proving to be a much bigger threat in combat. Some adversaries are standard rank-and-file troops, while others are expendable fodder controlled by great leaders and commanders. Some exceptional adversaries are even capable of taking on an entire party single-handed. This chapter will help you turn your standard adversary into a minion, elite, or solo creature to pit against your players.

MINIONS

A minion is weaker than other adversaries, having very few hit points, they fall quickly in combat, often in one hit, if not protected by a strong defender. These are your lackeys, underlings, and lesser henchmen. Minions rely on large numbers to overwhelm the enemy. Four minions are the equal of one standard adversary and are a great option if you want to pit your players against mobs, gangs, and hordes. To build a minion, apply the Minion template below to any existing QuickStart enemy. When creating minion groups, keep things simple for yourself and use the same role, traits, and powers for each group of 4. (4 defender minions, 4 striker minions, etc.)

MINION ADVERSARY

Armor Class	-2	Attack Bonus	-2
Hit Points	1-20	Damage	x0.2
Chakra Points	-	Jutsu DC	-3
Saving Throws	-2	XP	x0.25
Initiative	-2

ELITES

Elites are formidable champions, commanders, and leaders. They are a far greater threat than their underlings, able to withstand more damage while hitting back harder and more reliably. One elite is the equal of two standard adversary and can act twice a round. Elites are a great option for mid-boss encounters, as direct underlings of the adventure's primary threat. To build an elite, apply the following template to any existing adversary:

ELITE ADVERSARY

Armor Class	+2	Attack Bonus	+1
Hit Points	x1.5	Damage	x1.1
Chakra Points	x1.5	Jutsu DC	+1
Saving Throws	+1	XP	x2

Elite Action: You may take one Elite Action at the start or end of each round to either move or take an additional Action.

Elite Tenacity: When you would roll any Saving throw, you may roll an additional d4. You may roll any number of d4 you have remaining. You have a total number of d4 equal to your Level per combat.

ELITE ACTIONS:

Elite Actions let your adversaries act multiple times per round, helping them to even the odds and be a much bigger threat in combat essential for elite adversaries who often find themselves outnumbered.

Elite adversaries have one Elite Action per round which they take either at the start or end of each round. (This is decided upon either before the battle or when initiative is rolled.) An Elite Action can do one of the following:

- Move: The adversary can move up to its speed if it is free to do so. This movement may trigger opportunity attacks and reactions as normal from your enemies
- Perform an Action: The adversary can perform a single action—such as Attack, Dodge, or Help.
- Cast a Jutsu: The adversary casts a jutsu that requires 1 action or bonus action.

ELITE TENACITY:

Elite Tenacity allows your Adversaries to resist powerful effects imposed by your players. This helps to provide them with the ability to resist crippling conditions that your players may use. This tenacity is represented as d4, and called a Tenacity die.

Elite adversaries have a number of Tenacity die equal to their level, which resets per combat. The adversary may roll any number of Tenacity die up to the number they have left adding the result to their Saving throws and Ability checks.

SOLOS

A solo adversary is a force to be reckoned with, capable of taking on the entire party of 4 single-handed. These are your boss monsters, the big-bad fought at the end of an adventure. A Powerful Mercenary King, a dominating elder sage, a chilling skeleton queen. Solo adversary hits hard, have high defenses, and act multiple times each round. To build a solo, apply the following template to any existing adversary:

Like elite adversaries, solo adversaries have the ability to act outside of their normal turn with Legendary Actions. Solo adversaries gain 1 Legendary Action per player - 1 allowing the adversary to act after each player's turn.

LEGENDARY ACTIONS:

Legendary Actions let your adversaries act multiple times per round, helping them to even the odds and be a much bigger threat in combat essential for solo adversaries who often find themselves outnumbered. Solo adversaries have one per player (minus one), per round. This helps to balance the action economy and

Phase Transition: At 60% and 30% hit points, you may remove all on-going effects on yourself and trigger a new phase transition give your boss adversaries a major boost of fighting power.

A Legendary Action can be used at the end of any other creature's turn to do one of the following:

- Move: The adversary can move up to its speed if it is free to do so. This movement may trigger opportunity attacks and reactions as normal from your enemies
- Perform an Action: The adversary can perform a single action—such as Attack, Dodge, or Help
- Cast a Jutsu: The adversary can cast a jutsu that requires 1 action or bonus action.
- Use a Feature: The adversary can use a feature that normally requires an action or bonus action to use.

PHASED COMBAT

Fights with a solo adversary are big events. They should be a worthy capstone to your adventure or series of Missions, full of drama and excitement. Solo adversaries fight hard, changing as the battle progresses and they start to take damage. When the solo adversary takes enough damage (60% and 30% hit points), it immediately removes any on-going effects and triggers a transition to a new phase of battle.

- The Akatsuki member clasps their hands together weaving hand seals in their rage. They slam their palms down fiercely on the ground sending surges of chakra through it causing it to collapse and sending everyone falling into the volcanic pit beneath.
- The Giant Bears Stone body cracks, and it roars creating a powerful shockwave of force upheaving the ground and turning the battlefield into a forest of earth spikes.
- The mad scientist absorbs the souls of his fallen minions to become a huge, powerful beast.

A phase transition is, in essence, a short cutscene wherein your adversary does something to change itself or the environment, the more cinematic, the better. During a transition, players don't take any damage while you change things around them but neither can they act during the transition.

HEALING SURGE:

During a phase transition, any player character that is conscious and bloodied may recover some hit points by spending one hit dice a temporary respite while your adversary is transforming the battle field.

TRANSFORMATIONS:

Some adversaries transform during battle gaining new powers, changing how they fight, and (sometimes) even changing their form. You can represent transformations with multiple stat blocks. One for each phase transition. To create a transforming solo adversary, first replace your solo's "Phase Transition" trait with the following trait:

- "Phase Transition (Transformation). When reduced to 0 hit points, remove all on-going effects on yourself as you transform and start a new phase transition."

Next, create a new stat block as per normal for each of your adversary's forms. Finally, divide the HP on each form by the total number of transitions.

An adversary can have as many transformations as you like, but try to keep it to 2/3 forms unless your adversary is particularly exceptional. Each form should be distinct and exciting for your players to encounter.

ADVERSARY TIERS

Along with the new Adversary creation system being introduced is also the limitation of Jutsu Ranks that an adversary can have access to. This is to prevent sudden massive bursts of damage from an adversary towards a single player. Adversaries have limitations on the Jutsu Ranks they have access to and the amount of Jutsu they have access to as well.

- Tier 1: Adversaries within these tiers can access E-Rank & D-Rank Jutsu. Tier 1 Adversaries can have up to 7 Jutsu.
- Tier 2: Adversaries within this tier can access up to C-Rank Jutsu. This Tier of Adversary can have up to 10 Jutsu.
- Tier 3: Adversaries within this tier can access up to B-Rank Jutsu. This Tier of Adversary can have up to 13 Jutsu.
- Tier 4: Adversaries within this tier can access up to A-Rank Jutsu. This Tier of Adversary can have up to 16 Jutsu.
- Tier 5: Adversaries within this tier and moving forward can access up to S-Rank Jutsu. This Tier of Adversary can have up to 19 Jutsu.
- Tier 6: Adversaries of this tier can have up to 22 Jutsu.
- Tier 7: Adversaries of this tier can have up to 25 Jutsu.
- Tier 8: Adversaries of this tier can have up to 28 Jutsu.

ADVERSARY ATTACKS

Once you have an adversary! Unleash it on your players. All monsters need some form of attack for them to be a true threat: a sword to slash with, huge jaws to bite down with, dark jutsu to cast with. This chapter describes how to use your adversary to attack the party in a variety of interesting ways, introducing freeform attacks and jutsu.

FREEFORM ATTACKS

Adversaries don't start with any specific attacks listed as part of their stat-block instead, they can use freeform attacks for speed, simplicity, and flexibility. When you are making an attack, describe an action that feels appropriate for the monster and its weaponry:

- Is the Wild Tiger swinging wildly with huge claws? Then it's making a slashing melee attack.
- Is it leaning forward to take a lethal bite? Then the melee attack is piercing.

- Is the beast swiping its massive tail at you? Then it's a bludgeoning melee attack.
- Does it suddenly breath searing flame at you? Then you'll take fire damage from the close attack.

Once you have described how the monster is attacking, make an attack roll using the monster's attack bonus and damage as normal.

KEEP IT SIMPLE

Keep your attacks simple and straightforward, and try to avoid giving an adversary more than 3 different methods of attacking unless they are particularly notable, such as an elite leader or solo boss character. Whenever possible, use iconic and flavorful attacks.

FREEFORM JUTSU

Adversaries have access to chakra and Jutsu of varying types. But you may desire to use a different set of Jutsu not in the Core rule book for them. Maybe their attacks are themed specifically for them:

- Does your Adversary use Fire and Earth jutsu to create Lava?
- Do they use Water and Wind to create Ice?
- Do they Manipulate Metal using Earth and Lightning?
- Do they control the weather using Wind, Water, Fire and Lightning?

The same design philosophy should be used when creating their Freeform Jutsu as when you create their unique Freeform Attack. Take your creatures Damage Per action and Multiple it by 1.5. (Ex. If you have a 5th Level, Elite Lurker Adversary that has a damage per action of 17. The jutsu you create would instead on average deal 25 Damage.

MULTIATTACK

Once your adversaries start dealing over 10 points of damage per round, consider splitting their single attack into a Multiattack, this helps to prevent players being overwhelmed with massive damage from a single hit.

The Adversary Multiattack table demonstrates how to create a multiattack based on a monster's damage per action the higher the damage, the more attacks.

Damage Per Action	Attacks Per Action	Damage Per Attack	Damage (%) Per Attack
0-9	1	0-9	100%
10-29	2	5-15	50%
30-59	3	10-20	33%
60-99	4	10-25	25%

CONDITION ATTACKS/JUTSU

Attacks don't always have to deal direct damage to the enemy instead, your adversary can attempt to inflict a condition on its target, such as blinded, poisoned, or restrained. This is called a condition attack. Before you make a condition attack, describe what your adversary is trying to achieve and how:

- The savage bandit smirks as it throws dust into your face, attempting to blind you.
- The monstrous frog's neck convulses fiercely as it spits a jet of poisonous fluid at you.
- The giant bear reaches down towards your weapon and tries to pull it from your grasp, disarming you.

Once you've described the condition attack, make an attack as normal using the attack bonus or Jutsu DC. If successful, the adversary deals no damage and inflicts the condition on the target.

RECOVERING FROM A CONDITION

When you use a condition attack, try to consider how a player will recover from it. There are three methods of condition recovery:

- Take an action: The player can do something on their turn to end the effect wipe mud off their face, pick up their sword, get up from the floor. This usually requires a full action to complete, though some effects may be simple enough to need only a bonus action.
- Make a saving throw: The player can make a saving throw at the end of their turn to shrug off the effect. Strength to resist being pushed back by the wind, constitution to resist the vile poison, intelligence to overcome the terrifying illusions.
- Wait X rounds: The effect ends naturally after a set number of rounds (usually within 2-4).

Pick the recovery type that makes the most sense for your particular attack, and be consistent with it.

WORSENING CONDITIONS

Some special condition attacks become increasingly more severe over time, often when a player fails to make a saving throw at the end of their turn. These are worsening condition attacks. To make a worsening condition attack, pick three conditions of increasing severity, when the player fails a saving throw, the condition advances to the next stage.

If the player makes a successful recovery attempt, whether by a saving throw or other relevant action, the conditions end as per normal. Use the Conditions table below to help create an interesting combination for your worsening attack.

Petrifying Gaze: The target's body quickly turns to stone. First it is blinded, then restrained, then petrified

ONGOING DAMAGE

Sometimes an adversary's attacks linger, causing harm long after the initial hit. Burning acid, a bleeding wound, painful frostbite. This is categorized as ongoing damage, and an adversary can inflict this instead of dealing direct damage. Before you make an ongoing damage attack, describe what your adversary is trying to do:

- The Flame themed Shinobi tries to set you on fire.
- The Bandit slashes at your leg with its hooked blade.
- The lurker throws a vial of bubbling acid at you.

Then make an attack as normal. If successful, the adversary deals no direct damage but instead inflicts ongoing damage the damage is equal to the adversary's normal attack damage.

RECOVERING FROM ONGOING DAMAGE:

As with conditions, there are three ways a player can attempt to recover from ongoing damage:

- Take an action: The player can do something on their turn to end the effect—pour water on the fire, tear off the bloodsucking tentacle, patch up a wound.
- Make a saving throw: The player can make a saving throw at the end of their turn to try and end the effect—strength to crack through burning ice, dexterity to remove a tiny poisoned barb, charisma to sever the bond with a soul-sucking demon.
- Wait X rounds: The damage ends naturally after a set number of rounds (usually within 2-4).

AREA ATTACKS

Some adversary attacks affect everyone within a wide area. Explosive ammunition, Balls of Fire, Slicing whirlwinds, clouds of poison. These are area attacks, and an adversary can make these if they have the right tools or abilities. Before you make an area attack, first describe what your adversary is trying to do and how they're doing it:

- The giant toad swings a huge sword around in a deadly whirlwind of destruction.
- The Samurai fires an explosive arrow towards the middle of your shinobi squad.
- The giant snake tries to burn you with an arc of scorching poisonous venom.

Once you've described what the attack looks like, decide on its point of origin this is usually either the adversary itself or the point where the attack lands. Next, choose the size of the area affected by the attack. Pick an area template, and then decide its range. Try to keep the size of your area attacks within 5ft to 20ft unless your adversary is particularly large or powerful.

AREA TEMPLATES

Type	Description
Line	A Straight Line from the origin
Sphere	A Sphere centered on the origin
Cone	A Cone Radiating out from the origin
Cylinder	A cylinder centered on the origin
Cube	A cube with one side on the origin

Finally, decide on whether the attack will deal damage on a miss to determine the final damage value.

AREA DAMAGE

Type	Description
No Damage on a Miss	Damage per action x0.75
Half Damage on a Miss	Damage per action x0.5

MOVEMENT ATTACKS

Some adversaries use attacks to move you around the battlefield pushing, pulling, or sliding you into disadvantageous positions. These are movement attacks, and an adversary can make these in place of doing damage. To perform a movement attack, first describe what your monster is trying to do:

- The Rival Jonin casts a powerful Wind blast to try and push you backwards into the spiked wall.
- The Giant Frog tries to hit you with its sticky tongue and pull you into its hungry mouth.
- The agile assassin tries to use a distracting feint to swap places with you.

Once you've described the attack, decide on the type of movement you want to happen to your target. Is it a pull, push, slide, or direct movement?

MOVEMENT TYPES

Type	Description
Pull	The target is pulled towards you in a straight line
Push	A target is pushed away from you in a straight line
Slide	The target is moved in a general direction
Direct	A target is moved instantly to a spot (such as by teleport)

Finally, decide on the distance your target should be moved if hit. Try to keep this within 10 ft to 30 ft unless your adversary is particularly large or dangerous.

AVOID CHEAP SHOTS

Although movement attacks can move players into or onto dangerous terrain boiling lava, sharp spikes, cliff edges, etc. Take care when doing so. Avoid moving your player characters into obviously fatal situations if they don't have any reasonable means of defense, escape, or survival. When in doubt, allow them a saving throw to fall prone or grab hold of an edge.

RESOURCE ATTACKS

Some attacks don't seek to harm you directly, but instead try to leech precious resources from you; Stamina, Chakra, ryo, etc. These are called resource attacks, and they can be very dangerous to an unsuspecting party. To make a resource attack, first decide what type of resource your adversary is trying to drain. Pick one from the list below, or choose your own if no option fits.

RESOURCE TYPES

Type	Description
Exhaustion	The target gains a level of exhaustion
Death Saves	The target gains a failed death save
Hit Dice	The target is drained of one unspent hit die (If there are multiple sizes, use the lowest size)
Chakra Points	The target is drained of chakra points
Chakra Dice	The target is drained of one unspent chakra die (If there are multiple sizes, use the lowest size)
Ryo	The target is drained of some Ryo (Or other form of wealth)

Once you've picked a resource, decide how much is drained per hit (1 exhaustion, 1 hit die, 50 ryo, etc.). Then describe how your adversary is performing the attack:

- The master thief pickpockets you (drain gold).
- The Dark wraith wraps his hands around you and starts to feed on your soul (drain hit dice).
- The Hyūga Strikes Chakra points and removes a portion of chakra points.

Finally, roll an attack as normal. If successful, the adversary deals no direct damage but instead drains their target of the desired resource.

USING JUTSU

Pick a narrow one-word theme for your adversary such as fire, water, shadow, decay, etc. Now your adversary can make freeform attacks using that theme, just as they could if they were using any mundane weapon.

CONCENTRATION

Any Jutsu or effect that an adversary uses that requires concentration, they can maintain up to two, the same as players, unlike players though, Creatures that are Elite or Solo, do not need to roll to maintain concentration when they take damage. Their effects persist and only ends if they end the effect, they are knocked unconscious, are stunned, or are killed.

HEALING JUTSU

Adversaries should rarely have access to healing Jutsu unless they are;

- Exceptional creatures
- Have unique/powerful Items, or equipment.
- A dedicated healing-based shinobi who's primary job is to restore Hit points or Chakra Points.

If your adversary has access to any healing or restorative powers, restrict their ability to just a few uses per encounter.

A basic healing Jutsu restores should restore no more than 40% of the target's maximum hit points during an encounter. This can be divided evenly across multiple targets to create an area healing jutsu healing two people for 20%, three for 13%, etc.

SUMMONING

Some powerful adversaries have the ability to summon new and powerful sage beasts into battle. Gamabunta, Manda, and Katsuyu are prime examples of such summons. But others such as Susanoo would be considered a Summoned creature as well.

When allowing an adversary to summon you need to be careful not to allow them to overwhelm your players with action economy alone.

CREATING A SUMMONER

To create a summoner, simply give them a budget of summons they are able to conjure during the encounter. That's it. Your summoner can now summon any combination of creatures so long as they do not exceed this budget you have set. Use this flexibility to surprise your players and keep combat exciting.

GAARA (KID)

Gaara is a shinobi of the hidden sand. He was made the jinchūriki of the One-Tailed Shukaku before he was born, causing the villagers of the sand to fear him as a monster. With nobody to connect to, Gaara grew up hating the world and looking out only for himself, giving his life meaning by killing anyone he came across.

USING GAARA (KID) AS AN ADVERSARY

Gaara is a fearsome threat, able to overwhelm most enemies with a single flick of the wrist due to him being trained as the sand's ultimate weapon he is exceptionally strong

OFFENSIVELY

Gaara isn't one to move or exert himself physically, instead opting to allow his sand to do most of the heavy lifting as he can control it mentally. Gaara opts to capture enemies inside of a sand coffin before causing it to crush them to death.

DEFENSIVELY

Not many shinobi can boast about defensive ability like Gaara. Known to have the ultimate defense, Gaara stops most attacks short of the most powerful lightning release techniques. Being able to block even the Chidori without dodging.

GENIN

A Genin (Literally meaning: low ninja or junior ninja) are the lowest level of ninja and also the ones that display the most difference in power. When they become genin, ninja start to do their bit for their village's economy – being sent on missions that the village gets paid for. They are typically sent either on D-rank missions, which are almost entirely risk-free jobs of manual labor, or, rarely, on C-rank missions, which are a cut above that and begin to verge on real "ninja" work that have a very low possibility of risk to the ninja involved.

Genin from each village wear a Headband with their villages symbol on it. This headband is mandatory when on missions and used to identify each other when out on the battlefield. Headbands are almost universally worn by all shinobi of all villages and they have a wide range of designs, colors and customizable details such as shape, length, placement, and use. Some ninja uses their headbands as belts, arm bands, hats, eye covers, gloves etc.

SCALING ENEMY

While this enemy is representative of a low ranked shinobi, their individual skill ranges between levels 1-5. The below Adversary block details a base level 1 Genin.

To upscale a Genin up to 5th Level perform the following steps at each level.

- Level 2+. Increase the Genin Hit & Chakra points. For every additional level, increase their Hit and Chakra points by 1d10+2 (8).
- Level 3. The Genin gains 1 Martial weapon to use.
- Level 4. The Genin Increase 2 of their Ability Scores by +2. Increase all relevant skills, AC, attack bonuses, save DC's or damage modifiers.
- Level 4. The Genin's Proficiency (Prof) bonus increases by +1, This increases their AC, Skills, Saving Throws, Save DC's, and to hit bonuses by +1.
- Level 5. The Genin can begin to cast C-Rank jutsu.

SPECIALIZING GENIN

When setting up Genin Adversaries they can seem a tad bit under powered. But consider they are meant to work in a team. Additionally, the Genin Ability score spread presented is one more tailored towards Taijutsu. You can better refine your Genin by doing the following;

- Ninjutsu Specialization
 - Ability Scores: 7, 12, 14, 14, 10, 8
 - Swap out Taijutsu for Genjutsu of the appropriate rank.
- Genjutsu Specialization
 - Ability Scores: 7, 12, 14, 10, 14, 8
 - Swap out Ninjutsu for Genjutsu of the appropriate Rank.

Some Genin have the potential to learn Nature Release. They generally only have a single nature release so feel free to apply a Nature Release to your Customized Genin.

Additionally, feel free to apply any other clan tags to your Genin Adversaries.

HAKU

Haku was an orphan from the Land of Water, and a descendant of the Yuki clan. He later became a shinobi under Zabuza Momochi's tutelage whom he later partnered with, ultimately becoming a Mercenary Ninja.

USING HAKU AS AN ADVERSARY

A gifted individual, and having been trained by Zabuza himself, Haku was a very dangerous, and powerful ninja for his age. According to Zabuza, Haku possessed such prodigious talent that in many ways, Haku had become more dangerous than him.

OFFENSIVELY

Haku is an extremely fast individual, being touted to be faster than Kakashi even. Haku makes use of his Ice release with deadly precision and disables his enemies with ruthless precision wasting not a single movement in the process.

DEFENSIVELY

Haku's speed allows him to both engage and disengage rather easily and on his own terms. If Haku is in a disadvantageous position, he will opt to disengage and only reengage when the situation has shifted to be more advantageous to do so.

ITACHI UCHIHA (PART 1)

Itachi was a shinobi of the Leaf Villages Uchiha clan that served as an Anbu Captain. He later became an international criminal after murdering his entire clan, sparing only his younger brother, Sasuke. He afterwards joined the international criminal organization known as Akatsuki, whose activity brought him into frequent conflict with Konoha and its ninja — including Sasuke — who sought to avenge their clan by killing Itachi. Following his death, Itachi's motives were revealed to be more complicated than they seemed and that his actions were only ever in the interest of his brother and village, making him remain a loyal shinobi of Konohagakure to the very end.

USING ITACHI AS AN ADVERSARY

Itachi is an overwhelmingly powerful enemy who uses his Sharingan to great effect.

OFFENSIVELY

When playing with Itachi on the offensive always be prepared to attempt to incapacitate as many enemies as possible with his Genjutsu such as Hypnotic Patterns, Confusion, or Enemies Abound. Once you have incapacitated as many enemies as possible in as short a time as possible, Itachi resorts to using High powered Fire release jutsu to overwhelm those who are able to resist his initial Illusionary assaults. Try to save your Legendary actions for reactions to avoid direct damage but if Itachi believes he has an opportunity to take down an enemy with his next attack he will use his Legendary action to inflict as much damage as possible to incapacitate them.

DEFENSIVELY

When playing with Itachi always be prepared to make use of his multiple reactions to grant him an amplified AC with his Sharingan Dodge, and when it comes to an attack that he cannot dodge with this feature, make use of his Flower Petal Escape to avoid as much targeted damage as possible. When an enemy of Itachi goes to use an area effect, he would use Chakra Shatter almost instinctively to nullify their jutsu though it is best to RP this effect as the character still using their jutsu while Itachi avoids it using some other means.

JIROBO

Jirobo is a shinobi of the Sound Village and a core member of the Sound Four. Originally a prisoner, forced to fight other prisoners to the death in battle royales. By surviving his matches, he proved himself to be one of the four strongest of Orochimaru's prisoners and as such were made one of his bodyguards.

USING JIROBO AS AN ADVERSARY

Jirobo is a physically overwhelming opponent and should be represented as such in combat.

OFFENSIVELY

When playing with Jirobo offensively always be the one who goes on the offensive and pressures the enemy. Jirobo should always be actively making moves in an attempt to defeat the opponent. Jirobo will act to disable a group of enemies quickly by using the Earth Prison Dome by draining their chakra until they are unable to fight. If an enemy happens to escape Jirobo should then act to defeat them with overwhelming force using all offensive jutsu back-to-back. Jirobo is not as worried about defensive techniques due to how sturdy he is naturally.

DEFENSIVELY

When playing Jirobo defensively he only defends if he realizes that the attack that's gonna hit him could cripple him for the remainder of the fight, otherwise he is too confident in his physical abilities to attempt dodging.

JONIN

A Jonin (Literally meaning: High Ninja or Elite Ninja) are generally highly experienced and highly skilled shinobi who serve as military captains. Jōnin are generally able to use at least two types of elemental chakra. It is not unusual for jōnin to go on missions alone. They are often sent on A-rank missions, and if experienced enough, S-rank missions as well (which are considered to be the greatest difficulty).

Jonin from each village are usually indistinguishable from their lower ranked Chunin associates. They do not gain an additional piece of identification like a Genin's Headband or a Chunin's, Chunin Jacket. Instead, most Jonin are assigned a team of 3 genin. Their duty will be to instruct and train them to become competent ninja, deciding when their team is ready to participate in the chunin exams.

SCALING ENEMY

While this enemy is representative of a highly skilled shinobi capable of the most difficult missions or even leading a team of 3 Genin, their individual skill ranges between levels 9-13. The below Adversary block details a base level 9 Jonin.

To upscale a Jonin up to 13th Level perform the following steps at each level.

- Level 10+. Increase the Jonin's Hit & Chakra points. For every additional level, increase their Hit and Chakra points by 1d8+3 (8).

- Level 10. The Jonin Proficiency (Prof) bonus increases by +1, This increases their AC, Skills, Saving Throws, Save DC's, and to hit bonuses by +1.
- Level 11. The Jonin gains the Teamwork feature.
- Level 12. The Jonin gains access to a second Nature release keyword.
- Level 12. The Jonin increases 3 of their ability scores by +2. Increase all relevant skills, saves, attack bonuses, save DC's or damage modifiers.
- Level 13. The Jonin's Proficiency (Prof) bonus increase by +1. This increases their, Skills, Saving Throws, Save DC's, and to hit bonuses by +1.
- Level 13. The Jonin can begin to cast A-Rank jutsu.

JONIN FROM DIFFERENT VILLAGES

While shinobi for the most part are unique in their own right and they each have unique quirks, a vast majority of them can fit into a standard mold.

These shinobi from different villages each have a standard nature release combination they fit into. Mostly named NPC's or Jonin would have hand crafted nature release choices.

- Land of Fire: Fire & Earth Release
- Land of Wind: Wind & Earth Release
- Land of Lightning: Lightning & Wind Release
- Land of Water: Water & Lightning Release
- Land of Earth: Earth & Lightning Release

The Jonin presented below is designed to emulate a standard Leaf Village Jonin (Land of Fire). When designing jōnin from other villages switch out the elemental jutsu that doesn't fit your jonin's village origin or select two of your favorite elements and throw them together be sure to always have a mix of offensive and defensive jutsu.

KAKASHI HATAKE (PART 1)

A Jonin from the hidden leaf village. The head of the small but influential Hatake Clan. Famed as Kakashi of the Sharingan he is one of Konoha's most talented ninjas; regularly looked to for advice and leadership despite his personal dislike of responsibility.

Kakashi has had an extremely complicated but fulfilling career, becoming a Jonin at age 12, becoming an Anbu in his early teens and attaining anbu captain soon after. He soon went back to being a jonin and has failed every genin team he took on until team 7, containing Naruto, Sasuke, and Sakura.

USING KAKASHI AS AN ADVERSARY

Kakashi is an extremely tactical and cunning enemy who uses his Sharingan to great effect to copy his opponent's techniques and turn it on them immediately after.

OFFENSIVELY

When playing with Kakashi offensively, he would prefer not to drag out conflicts longer than he absolutely needs to, due to his lower constitution and how much the Sharingan drains him. Kakashi excels at single one on one scenarios and would work to isolate an enemy to take advantage of this strength he has. He will not hesitate to use jutsu he has copied from an enemy to throw them off their guard. Kakashi is extremely versatile with advanced proficiencies in all three primary forms of shinobi combat & will not hesitate to exploit an enemy's weakness towards one they are weakest against.

DEFENSIVELY

When Kakashi has to go on the defensive he tends to find escape towards a secluded area and hide while watching his enemy studying them to look for an opening. Kakashi will refrain from using his Sharingan unless he absolutely needs to for defense due to the strain it has on his body. Kakashi will resort to stone walling defensive tactics to hold an enemy off with jutsu such as Earth Style Wall, or Water formation Wall to create distance and put a solid surface between him and his enemies.

KIDOMARU

Kidomaru is a shinobi of the Sound Village and a core member of the Sound Four. Originally a prisoner, forced to fight other prisoners to the death in battle royales. By surviving his matches, he proved himself to be one of the four strongest of Orochimaru's prisoners and as such were made one of his bodyguards.

USING KIDOMARU AS AN ADVERSARY

Kidomaru is the most tactical and intelligent member of the sound four and should be represented as such in combat.

OFFENSIVELY

When playing with Kidomaru offensively always be the one who forces the conflict to take place at a distance with his enemy always being about 90-120 feet away to supplement his extreme range. Remaining in stealth helps as well with attacking his targets with advantage while they are at a massive range and information disadvantage. Kidomaru will utilize History & Insight checks to gather as much information as he can about an enemy's abilities or blood line traits before engaging them haphazardly.

DEFENSIVELY

When playing Kidomaru your goal is to never need to be in a melee scrap with your enemy if they are in any way competent in their martial abilities. Your strength is not in melee fights so force the conflict into a battle of attrition and range. Disengage, dodge, dash and escape as often as possible to create distance.

OFFENSIVELY

When playing as Kimimaro, his entire combat focus is to overwhelm his opponents with martial superiority and his unique bone-based bloodline limit mixed with his extremely proficient skill in taijutsu and bukijutsu allowing him to utilize a variety of simple & martial weapons without the need to actually have the weapons on hand to fight with, constantly switching up his fighting style to throw his enemies off. Kimimaro should always use taijutsu aggressively against his enemy's pressuring them none stop with taijutsu like Dance of Camellia

USING KISAME AS AN ADVERSARY

Kisame is a physical powerhouse with enough physical power to match Might Guy who could activate 7 of the 8 gates.

OFFENSIVELY

Kisame is a powerhouse well known for his immense chakra reserves and extreme stamina and he is more than willing to use this to his advantage along with his massive great sword Samehada, also known as Sharkskin. Kisame will attack with this aggressively targeting enemies who seem to have weaker chakra reserves as each attack will drain chakra from the target. If he finds himself in a situation where he is dealing with a competent combatant, he will resort to his massive water release jutsu that affects large areas.

DEFENSIVELY

Kisame's defensive potential relies entirely on his raw stamina opting to instead tough through it instead of trying to actively defend against attacks.

MONKS

While these people are not ranked under any villages formal system (Genin, Chunin etc.) they have ninjutsu training superior to that of an average genin but not quite on the same level as an experienced chunin.

Monks from temples would generally on be brought to conflict if their sacred land is being disrespected in any way such as threats of violence, disrespect to their faith, or attacks on any of their monasteries or personnel.

NARUTO UZUMAKI (KID)

Naruto is a shinobi of Konohagakure's Uzumaki clan. He became the jinchūriki (Literally meaning: Host) of the Nine-Tails on the day of his birth — a fate that caused him to be shunned by most of Konoha throughout his childhood. After joining team Kakashi, Naruto worked hard to gain the village's acknowledgement all the while chasing his dream to become Hokage.

USING NARUTO (KID) AS AN ADVERSARY

Naruto is a pest and an extreme pain to deal with in drawn out conflicts. Naruto should always act that way, overwhelming his enemies with numbers from his multi-shadow clone jutsu. And when things get hectic, he can call on the Nine-tailed fox for some assistance.

OFFENSIVELY

Naruto is like a battery. He keeps going well after most enemies have run out of steam. Naruto will assault his enemy with a consistent wave of Shadow clones to overwhelm them. His clones can and should repeatedly use Rasengan until he scores a direct hit.

DEFENSIVELY

Naruto's best defense is his tenacity. He is well equipped to send in wave after wave of shadow clone in to deal with threats far before he is willing to get hurt directly himself or to assist him in getting the upper hand. Naruto should always be prepared to Shadow clone

SAKON & UKON

Sakon and his older brother Ukon were twin brothers from the sound village and the apparent leader(s) of the Sound Four.

USING SAKON & UKON AS AN ADVERSARY

Sakon & Ukon were noted by Orochimaru to be the strongest and Fastest members of the entire sound four easily matching that of a jonin's level. Having a unique blood line limit allowing them to fuse together or separate turning a single fight into a multi-person conflict in an instant.

OFFENSIVELY

They excel in physical combat shown by their need to use extremely flashy attacks to prove their dominance. If forced into a conflict he wasn't prepared for, they will infect their enemy with their Parasitic Cell Invasion attack breaking down their opponent from the inside.

DEFENSIVELY

When playing Sakon & Ukon defensively they are very competent martial fighting wanting to keep close and disallow their enemy from breaking conflict to regroup. Sakon should always opt to utilize their defensive jutsu to keep themselves from sustaining more damage than they need to otherwise.
